Constipation is ruinous to children—keep yours healthy with Kellogg's Bran

Constipation undermines a child's health. It saps his energy and makes him listless. It can lead to more than 40 other serious diseases. Mothers should take immediate steps to remove, safely and surely, the dangerous poisons from his system.

Kellogg's Bran—because it is ALL bran—brings permanent relief. Nothing but ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective. That is why Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is universally recommended by doctors. They know it brings results.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran is guaranteed to give permanent relief in the most chronic cases of constipation, or your grocer returns your money. Kellogg's Bran acts on the intestines exactly as nature acts. It sweeps and cleans and purifies them. It makes them function naturally and regularly. It allows you to discontinue forever the use of harmful, habit-forming drugs and pills.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is a delightful surprise to the taste—particularly if one has tried ordinary unpalatable brans. Kellogg's Bran has a delicious, crisp, nut-like flavor—an exclusive flavor. It is most enjoyable with milk or cream, sprinkled over other cereals or cooked with hot cereals. Try it in bread, muffins, griddle cakes and other recipes given on every package.

Have your children eat it regularly—two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Kellogg's Bran is made at Toronto, Canada and sold at all grocers. It is served in individual packages by the leading hotels and clubs. Ask for it at your restaurant.

Sunlight—for your Washing Machine

A WASHING machine is made to wash your clothes without rubbing or boiling — and it succeeds just in proportion to the value of the soap you use.

Sunlight Soap dissolves quickly and completely in hot water and works up into an abundant suds. This is very necessary so that its rich cleansing ingredients may search through and through the meshes of the clothes and dissolve the dirt and soil spots. Then, when rinsing comes, all dirt and soapy matter runs entirely away, leaving your clothes sweet, fresh and snowy clean.

The pure lather of Sunlight Soap cleanses the clothes naturally, not chemically. The $5,000 Guarantee of Purity is stamped on every tablet of Sunlight Soap.

Pare half a cake of Sunlight into hot water in your machine and stir into generous suds. Put in the clothes and operate the machine—your clothes will be clean.

Secretary W. R. Tinney of Tourist Association Speaks At Rotary

At the Rotary luncheon yesterday the speaker was Mr. W. Reagh Tinney, Secretary of the Prince Edward Island Tourist Association. He gave an interesting address on Some Phases of the Tourist work on Prince Edward Island. At the outset he spoke of the circumstances leading to the formation of such an association. He said that the financial returns of the tourist traffic, in other provinces (for example Nova Scotia and New Brunswick reported a combined revenue of ten million dollars, whilst not a cent of revenue had been reported from the Island) aroused our people to need of action. In 1923 Canada reported $13,600,000 revenue from tourist revenue with the Island figuring as a minus quantity. In the face of this steps were taken to secure some of the revenue, and accordingly the Island tourist association was formed in November, 1923. It is not expected to reap golden returns in the matter of a few months, but to lay a solid foundation for future success.

"We have succeeded this year both beyond our expectations, said Mr. Tinney.

The speaker dwelt on the value of tourist traffic in the way of a business proposition. A small executive and a permanent secretary can manage a business running into millions of dollars. The stock and trade cost nothing. The tourist business is the only one that cannot go bankrupt. We are merely selling the idea and impress on customers that no province in Canada is so ideally situated as a tourist resort as Prince Edward Island. The commodity we are selling is a restful holidal and our supply is inexhaustible.

He enumerated the aims of the association, first to bring tourists here, and to care for them during their stay. He referred to the criticism of the association for encouraging old home travel. He believed that the old home guest is worth just as much to the province and more, and more, to the city, than the average guest who has never visited before. As a rule he leaves far more money, and equivalent of his board with his relatives, and in many cases takes several of the family to the city merchant for a complete outfit of clothing.

The value of personal service in supplementing advertising was next touched upon. This service starts on receoipt of an inquiry and extends during the entire stay of each guest, the secretary recommending a suitable hotel fishing grounds, etc, routes, auto parties, and encourages the tourist to keep constantly in touch with the Association Office.

In referring to the wonderful natural beauties of the province Mr. Tinney said that every Islander should be a booster of his native province and not say for instance that the roads are terrible. Our roads are not perfect but they are fair and a fair road with with little traffic is far easier to travel on than a crowded road.

Maine with her bad roads made millions out of the tourist traffic last year.

The Island is getting more publicity today than ever, 25,000 pieces of literature have been distributed this season, a P. E. Island moving picture is being shown and 10,000,000 people have been reached by advertisements. In closing Mr. Tinney said:

One of the most impressive parts of "The Covered Wagon" at the Prince Edward last week was the arrival of the wagon train in Oregon. After travelling 2,000 miles through all kinds of hadships the caravan was passing through a very rugged country in almost two feet of snow. A miserable log cabin was seen in a small clearing and out of this cabin came a poorly clad, thin old man. On being asked what the distance to Oregon he replied "Why you're in Oregon now and, believe me ,it's one of the best little spots on God's green footstool." If that old old pioneer, 100 miles from a neighbor could speak in such terms of a snow-bound, mountainous rugged country like Oregon, just what would he say of Prince Edward Island on a summer's day. And that, Gentlemen, is the spirit, we need. Give the Tourist Association fifty men with the spirit of that old pioneer nad we will make this little old Island known—not as "The Cozy Corner of Canada" but as "The Cozy Corner of a Continent."

Rotarian R. L. Cotton presided. The guests present were Mr. Arthur Warburton of Bilbao, Spain. Mr. Stewart Stubbs of Moncton, Rotarian J. Stanley Wedlock of Arlington, Mass., and Mr. Charles C. Thompson, Charlottetown.

The musical programme comprised selections by the Black Cat Orchestra, and a solo (encored) by Mr. Stubbs.

In accordance with the resolution passed at a previous meeting a committee was appointed from the Rotary Club to wait upon the Government and ask them to reintroduce manual training in the city schools.

When Kidneys Hurt Drink More Water

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year. 104

"Sure he'll never heed you!" said Master Leigh with a catch in his breath.

"He shall His honor is concerned in it. The terms of my surrender were that none else aboard the galley should suffer any hurt."

"But I killed Master Lionel."

"True, but that was in the scrimmage that preceded my making terms. Sir John pledged me his word, and Sir John will keep to it when I have made it clear to him that honor demands it."

A great burden was lifted from the skipper's mind; that great shadow of the fear of death that had overhung him. With it, it is greatly to be feared that his desperate penitence also departed. At least he talked no more of damnation, nor took any further thought for Sir Oliver's opinions and beliefs concerning the hereafter. He may rightly have supposed that Sir Oliver's creed was Sir Oliver's affair, and that should it happen to be wrong he was scarcely himself a qualified person to correct it. As for himself, the making of his soul could wait until another day, when the necessity for it should be more imminent.

Upon that he lay down and attempted to compose himself to sleep, though the pain in his head proved a difficulty. Finding slumber impossible, after a while he would have talked again; but by that time his companion's regular breathing warned him that Sir Oliver had fallen asleep during the silence.

Now this surprised and shocked the skipper. He was utterly at a loss to understand how one who had lived Sir Oliver's life, been a renegade and a heathen, should be able to sleep tranquilly in the knowledge that at dawn he was to hang. Considering matters, he was profoundly touched to reflect that in such a season Sir Oliver could have found room in his mind to think of him and his fate and to undertake to contrive that he should be saved from the rope.

He was the more touched when he bethought him of the extent to which he had himself been responsible for all that happened to Sir Oliver.

Out of the consideration of heroism, a certain heroism came to be begotten in him, and he fell to pondering how, in his turn, he might perhaps serve Sir Oliver by a frank confession of all that he knew of the influences that had gone to make Sir Oliver what he was. This resolve uplifted him, and, oddly enough, it uplifted him all the more when he reflected that perhaps he would be jeopardizing his own neck by the confession upon which he had determined.

So through that endless night he sat, nursing his aching head and enheartened by the first purpose he had ever conceived of a truly good and altruistic deed. Yet fate, it seemed, was bent upon frustrating that purpose of his. For when, at dawn, they came to hale

"'Lord, how may head aches!' he complained."

Sir Oliver to his doom, they paid no heed to Jasepr Leigh's demands that he, to, should be taken before Sir John.

"Thee bean't included in our orders," said a seaman shortly.

"Maybe not." retorted Master Leigh, "because Sir John little knows what it is in my power to tell him. Take me before him, I say, that he may hear from me the truth of certain matters ere it be too late."

"Be still," the seaman bade him, and struck him heavily across the face, so that he reeled and collapsed into a corner. "Thee turn will come soon, Just now our business be with this other heathen."

"Naught that you can say would avail," Sir Oliver assured him quietly. "But I thank you for the thought that marks you for my friend. My hands are bound, Jasper. Were it otherwise I would beg leave to clasp your own. Fare you well!"

Sir Oliver was led out into the golden sunlight, which almost blinded him after his long confinement in that dark hole. They were, he gathered, to conduct him to the cabin, where a short mockery of a trial was to be held. But in the waist their progress was arrested by an officer, who bade them wait.

Sir Oliver sat down upon a coil of rope, his guard about him, an object of curious inspection to the rude seamen. They thronged the forecastle and the hatchways to stare at this formidable corsair, who once had been a Cornish gentleman and who had become a renegade Moslem and a terror to Christianity.

Truth to tell, the sometime Cornish gentleman was difficult to discern in him as he sat there, still wearing the caftan of cloth of silver over his white tunic and a turban of the same material swathed about his steel headpiece that ended in a spike. Idly he swung his brown sinewy legs, naked from knee to ankle, with the inscrutable calm of the fatalist upon his swarthy hawk face, with its light agate eyes and black forked beard; and those callous seamen who had assembled there to jeer and mock him were stricken silent by the intrepidity and stoicism of his bearding in the face of death.

If the delay chafed him, he gave no outward sign of it. If his hard, light eyes glanced hither and thither it was upon no idle quest. He was seeking Rosamund, hoping for a last sight of her before they launched him upon his last dread voyage.

But Rosamund was not to be seen. She was in the cabin at the time, had been there for this hour past, and it was to her that the present delay was due.

What Will You Put in the Pot?

When you drink tea every cup should be a delicious refreshment—a distinct pleasure. But this demands good tea in the pot. You cannot possibly get satisfactory results from inferior tea.

Now consider the small cost of a cup of King Cole Tea—a mere fraction of a cent. Surprising isn't it? But its secret is in the rich liquoring King Cole blend which yields so generously, in the number of cups to the pound. It makes King Cole the truly cheap tea. From whichever point you view it—economy—quality—or the wise combination of both, King Cole Tea claims your preference.
