Belfast Rally
Day Service

The Sunday School of the Presbyterian Church held its annual Rally Day exercises on Sunday evening, the gathering being very large, notwithstanding the heavy rain, following much rain. The Rev. D. L. Griffiths, pastor, presided and conducted the devotional part of the programme. The organist for the evening was Miss Mabel McEachern. In addition to the interesting prescribed printed programmes of responsive Bible readings and songs a few extra numbers were added, including well rendered solos by Mrs. Eva Murchison, Mr. David E. Griffiths, and Master Glen MacKenzie. A very appropriate recitation was added by Mrs. Mabel McEachern. The choir was quite strongly represented and acquitted itself most effectively in leading the praise singing. A very interesting feature of the service was the presentation of Certificates to a large number of scholars, by the pastor, who during the proceedings complimented them for their successful efforts in Bible study, and encouraged them to go forward to further attainments. The following teachers were mainly responsible for the good work, Messrs. Wm. McInnis and Reggie McLean, Mrs. Emily West, Mrs. J. E. Ross and Mrs. Hector Gillis.

nosed into the reef. There was very little shock, according to the last report received here, and most of the passengers slept all night unaware that the liner had grounded.

When the time came for them to be transferred to the Ariguanti they were in good humor and followed instructions in every detail. Four of the Rotterdam's motorboats moved the 450 passengers and 250 of the crew to the rescue ship in about four hours. The passengers' baggage also was transferred.

A wireless message from the Ariguanti said the liner was in no immediate danger of breaking up, because the sea was calm, but it would be very difficult to refloat her.

Escapes Full Blast of Storm
HAMILTON, Bermuda, Sept. 30—Bermuda escaped with minor damage tonight as a tropical hurricane that had left a trail of death and destruction in the Caribbean whirled by about 100 miles northwest of this coral island.

A steady wind of 56 miles an hour, with gusts as high as 78, was felt here when the storm passed. Stores and homes had been boarded up and all shipping had securely anchored in sheltered coves but these precautions proved unnecessary. Although meteorologists warned that a gale would rage throughout the night, the island was believed to be safe from serious damage at 7.30 o'clock.

Public utility services continued without interruption. The Purcell liner Monarch of Bermuda, which discharged 400 passengers from New York at St. George's this morning, rather than attempt the narrow channel to Hamilton, was expected to put in here tomorrow.

While the islanders braced themselves for the storm, the liner turned quickly and put out to sea after landing the passengers.

Rushed to Aid of Lifer
KINGSTON, Jamaica, Sept. 30—The salvage ship Killergig rushed out of Kingston tonight, presumably to assist the steamer Rotterdam, grounded on a coral reef 60 miles southeast of here.

The Killergig was stationed in Kingston, working on the ship Cartagena.

Moving Northeast
HAMILTON, Bermuda, Sept. 30—Observers said late today a tropical disturbance, centred 150 miles west southwest of Bermuda and moving northeast at the rate of 25 miles an hour, was expected to pass 100 miles north of the island by 10 p. m. tonight.

Bermuda this afternoon had winds of 50 miles an hour, gradually increasing in velocity.

These deductions do not affect profits to any great extent. Mr. Dixon emphasized that the people produce wealth which is taken away from them by the banks in exchange for a book entry.

Mr. Bernard Hughes, Reconstruction candidate for Queens presented the views of his party before a large group of the electors in Howes Hall, Brackley. He was ably supported on the platform by Messrs. Harry Richardson, Robert Connolly and J. W. Dixon. Mr. George Robertson capably presided.

Mr. Harry Richardson
Explaining that he was substituting for Mr. Ings who was in Halifax exhibiting some of his Ayrshire cattle. Mr. Richardson proceeded to give reasons for a third party. He strongly denounced the Liberal propaganda that a vote for Stevens is a vote for Bennett and went on to describe the events leading up to the split between Stevens and Bennett.

The reason Mr. King did not utilize the findings of the Price Spreads Commission, said Mr. Richardson, was that he could not. He was under the same thumb as Mr. Bennett. Hypocrisy was the term Mr. Richardson used in referring to Mr. Bennett's stand on lower interest rates. Mr. Bennett voted against this issue in the House, and now he has it in his platform.

The people can rely on the promises of Mr. Stevens, he has sat in the seats of the mighty, he knows what lies before him, and with this knowledge he makes his pledges.

Mr. J. W. Dixon
Mr. Dixon said he wished to explain in some detail the manner in which the banks made excessive profits. Starting with the first steps of incorporation, he said, before the bank gets its charter it must have $1,000,000. It is allowed to print another $1,000,000 and during certain months of the year the bank may print an extra $200,000. The bank then advertises for depositors and gets approximately another $500,000. As only one cheque in ten is cashed this total may be multiplied by ten on which the bank makes a profit of seven percent, or $1,800,000 annually or about 200 per cent on the invested capital. From this gross profit there may be a few little deductions such as 2 per cent to the depositors or $100,000, and something for the clerk who makes the necessary book entries, but

LIBERALS SPEAK
AT MEETING
IN MT. STEWART

Less than a half filled hall greeted the Liberal candidates, Messrs. Sinclair and Larabee, at Mt. Stewart last night. The audience listened patiently to the Liberal candidates, backed by Hon. J. P. McInyre and Hon. Thane Campbell, deliver addresses which were for the most part carping criticisms of all the Bennett Government has done during the past five years. At the conclusion of each discourse, the audience applauded politely.

Dr. A. E. Martin was the chairman. During the meeting a resolution was passed criticizing the Conservative candidates for not meeting with the Liberals in joint debate.

Mr. J. J. Larabee referred in beginning his address to the Reconstruction candidates, claiming there are two extra Conservative candidates in Queens County. He criticized Mr. Stevens among other things for sitting for five years in the House of Commons and endorsing what the Bennett Government did.

Referring to the policy of the Conservative Party in 1930, he claimed that many of the promises had been left unfulfilled.

20,000 young men are locked up in relief camps and are not allowed the right to vote because Mr. Stevens knows that they would vote against him, he declared in speaking of the unemployment question.

The present tariffs and old age pensions came in for notice by Mr. Larabee.

The income tax is ten times as high as in 1920, he stated, quoting the income tax returns in this province in an attempt to prove his statement. In 1930 he said $42,649 were paid in income taxes in this province and $313,000 in 1935. In the next breath in dealing with the sugar tax, he said: "We believe that in these hard times there are other ways of getting taxes other than from the poor people."

He touched also on other matters among others the attitude of Mr. Bennett and Mr. Stevens to the unemployed.

Mr. Peter Sinclair the next speaker referred to the different policies in the field in Canada and to Mr. Stevens whom he said he believed was in alliance with Mr. Bennett.

He referred to unemployment and to Canada's trade, which, Mr. Sinclair claimed, was ruined by high tariffs.

He also with unemployment relief, claiming that the money went to those who did not need it.

There are three things to consider now in Canada, trade, finance and the constitution, Mr. Sinclair said. "Because the constitution needs to be changed," he said, "the Liberal Government at Ottawa so we will have unanimous consent in the changing of the constitution. That is the only way the constitution can be changed and changed right, he claimed.

Hon. J. P. McInyre, Minister of Public Works, was the next speaker. He devoted the first part of his address to explaining what was to be done with the three million dollars which the Government was given authority to borrow at the special session of the Legislature recently. Almost a million would be used to pay off the overdraft which is bearing interest at a 4-4 1/2 per cent. He said. The remainder will be used to pay off short term loans which mature soon and to refund if possible at lower rates of interest other loans.

Speaking on Federal issues he also referred to Canada's trade and the Imperial Conference in 1930 and to the Ottawa Agreements. He claimed that even with the great benefits which have followed the agreements, the duties against British products coming into Canada are 2 or 3 times what they were before. The tariffs have also caused retaliation by the other countries, he said.

Where Canada has made only 2 trade treaties with foreign countries since the Ottawa Agreements Great Britain has made 21.

He criticized the manner in which the reform policy of Bennett and the policy of Stevens were formed, claiming they were formed by the respective leaders without consulting the rest of the party. The Liberal policy, he claimed, was formed by consultation of members of the Liberal Party all over Canada.

He dealt briefly also with unemployment and other questions.

Believed Inconsistent
Military sources thought such a move on the part of Great Britain would be inconsistent with this country's continued insistence she has no quarrel with Italy and that her entire concern in the Italo-Ethiopian quarrel begins and ends inside the League.

The day's developments showed an increasing irritation at Italy and a growing feeling the United Kingdom would not censure Ethiopia if Emperor Haile Selassie orders the immediate mobilization of his army.

Authoritative sources said Britain will insist upon Italy settling her quarrel with Ethiopia within the League, and that Great Britain is not open to any bribes or bargains aimed at getting her to countenance Mussolini's East African adventure.

These comments were in reply to the Italian Cabinet communique of Saturday with its reference to possible accords with France's action in Selassie's warning to the League that he may be forced to order general mobilization quickly was viewed as justified. It further said here such a mobilization would require at least a month because of crude communications and transportation facilities.

(By Richard Massock, Associated Press Staff Writer)
PARIS, Sept. 30—No definite confirmation was forthcoming here tonight of the report Great Britain has asked for an expression of France's attitude in the event Italy should, without provocation, attack the British fleet in the Mediterranean.

But one authority stated "specific questions" have been asked by Britain regarding France's action "in specific cases that might arise" in connection with application of League of Nations sanctions.

Officials said France would automatically be obliged, under the League covenant, to adopt sanctions against Italy if Italy made an "unprovoked attack" on Great Britain while the latter was carrying out League orders.

No Definite Promises
Yet French unwillingness to make definite promises to Great Britain unless the United Kingdom reciprocates was reflected in authoritative quarters and in the press.

"New questions probably will be asked of Britain," said the journal, adding the British note published Sunday merely affirmed the Geneva speech of Sir Samuel Hoare, British Foreign Secretary, "which appears insufficient to fix our attitude in certain circumstances which might occur."

Threatened
Mobilization
Cited As Proof

Some officials who have foreseen economic and financial sanctions since the Italo-Ethiopian deadlock also indicated their reluctance to make definite promises until the sanction clause is invoked at Geneva in discussion with other members of the League.

Stick By League
A French promise "in principle" to stick by the League even if it involves sanctions was expected in some quarters.

Strengthening of French naval forces in the Mediterranean was revealed tonight, and military observers said that garrisons on the Italian border had been brought to full strength and reinforced with four new Alpine regiments.

Francois Pietri, the Naval Minister, cancelled a trip to Brest in order to attend an important cabinet meeting probably Wednesday.

ROME, Sept. 30—Italians seized tonight upon Ethiopia's forthcoming call to arms as prof Emperor Haile Selassie, not II Duce, is the "aggressor."

Selassie's warning to the League of Nations that he may soon be forced to order general mobilization overshadowed mingled joy and anger at news of the British note to France, reasserting Britain's adherence to "steady and collective resistance to all acts of unprovoked aggression."

Italy believed the call to arms would put at least 1,000,000 armed Ethiopians on the march, or four times as many men as there are Italian soldiers in East Africa.

On the other hand, it was reasoned that the note of Sir Samuel Hoare, the British Foreign Secretary, supports several Italian arguments.

"Ethiopian Menace"
Selassie's phrase "concerning the Italian menace" was answered today by Virginia Gayda in an inspired editorial in the Giornale d'Italia. He called the threatened mobilization "the Ethiopian menace," saying it threatened Italy.

The Giornale charged the races of Ethiopia are eager for action and listed nine alleged Ethiopian aggressions since the controverted clash at Walwa.

Sir Samuel's phrases regarding "degrees of aggression" and his reference to "negative acts" of non-fulfillment of treaties not calling for sanctions caused La Tribuna to argue the Ethiopian expedition comes under the latter head.

Some well-informed sources described the British reply to France as "vague" and likely to be "unsatisfactory to Premier Laval."

The effect, these persons thought, would be to draw Italy, and France closer.

In consequence, it was believed here, France would be inclined to make more highly than ever the massing of Italian forces for war games along the Brenner Pass a few weeks ago.

(By James A. Mills, Associated Press Foreign Staff)
ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 30—Emperor Haile Selassie tonight awaited only a signal from his League of Nations envoys to start the drums that will call approximately 2,000,000 eager warriors to arms.

He made intensive preparations for this general mobilization—to start at the first news the League has failed to stave off an Italian attack.

Authorities said the fateful signal might come within a few days. The call to arms will be carried out in the traditional Ethiopian fashion. The Emperor's "negarite"—official great drums—which are his means of promulgating laws and warning the populace in time of national peril, will resound across the mountains and valleys "with the fury of trumpets before Jericho," officials said.

Report Vigorously Denied
The Ethiopian government denied emphatically today that the general mobilization had been set arbitrarily for Tuesday or Wednesday.

They denied also that Italy had been hostile to the north, that Italian pilots were flying over Ethiopian territory or that Italian ground forces were firing machine guns and heavier weapons in the hope of provoking an Ethiopian response.

Authorities also spied a report that two shipments of Japanese munitions had arrived.

"If Italian airmen dared to fly over Ethiopian territory our forces would shoot them down," said one high government spokesman. "It also would be silly for Italian troops to waste artillery and machine gun ammunition, since the Ethiopian armies are stationed 20 miles behind the actual front."

As for a report Italians had crossed the Ethiopian frontier, this source stated:

"If the Fascists invade, the news will travel like wildfire and will be broadcast over the Empire to galvanize the nation into action."

PORT SAID, Egypt, Sept. 30—Naval and military officials stationed on the Suez Canal area held a conference today, presumably in connection with the defences of the Canal.

In the last three days 5,519 Italian troops have passed through the canal, east bound, together with 12,000 tons of materials and 2,000 mules.

Mr. W.R. Shaw
Speaks Before
Rotary Club

Science had contributed valuably to agriculture in the last half century, it had given great encouragement to the agrarian worker and developed hope and courage in farm life, Walker Shaw, Deputy Minister of Agriculture told a Rotary Club meeting yesterday. "As far as we are concerned in Prince Edward Island," he declared, "prosperity is linked up with a well-balanced system of agricultural production."

"We must pay more attention to the livestock industry," the speaker should be utilized to grow most nutritious feeds. He stressed the need of making the youth of the land agriculturally conscious, urging that more practical farming be taught in the country schools and in Prince of Wales College.

The young people's school farms were a step in the right direction, he said, and that they were carrying on a worthwhile work and should be encouraged, he believed.

"These young people must be equipped as fully as possible for the responsibilities that will be theirs."

A problem facing the Island was the run-down farms where low fertility count had discouraged farmers and buildings and machinery had got into disrepair.

Appealing to Charlottetown business men Mr. Shaw declared: "Agriculture is the basic industry of this province. When the farms are prosperous, every business in the province is prosperous."

He was introduced by S. T. Irvine.

HAROLD AND BASIL REDMOND

The passing of Harold and Basil Redmond, age 8 and 13, victims of the drowning accident at Lake Verde on Sunday, Sept. 22nd, cast a shadow of gloom over the whole community.

Of quiet and happy dispositions, they were the first to rush to the shore. In their short lives, they were never heard to utter an unbecoming word, or ever known to disagree with their fellow playmates. Only time can efface the heartaches which they have left their brothers and sisters, in the loss of those dear boys, who helped to make the home so happy. God knows what is best, and it is safe to say they are happy in their Eternal Home.

The two boys, together with Bobby Power and Donnie Coles went for a row about 3 o'clock in the afternoon. It is believed that the boys stood up to change seats, and the motion caused the boat to capsize.

When their shouts for help were heard, Joseph Redmond, father of the two boys, was the first to rush to the shore. He started to wade out to the four boys, who at this time were clinging to the upturned boat about five chains from shore. He was unable to go very far owing to the depth of mud and water. By this time the wind had blown a makeshift raft which carried him within a few yards of the stranded boys. As he reached over to catch one of the boys, who made an attempt to meet him, the raft capsized, throwing him to the bottom.

After a desperate struggle to reach the shore, he regained the raft but by this time his own two boys were gone. In the meantime, Earle Acorn, risking his life in a wooden vat, came to his assistance, and together they saved the lives of Power and Coles, who were almost exhausted. Louis Callaghan, with a boat obtained at Wister's Mill, rowed the two boys ashore. The bodies of Harold and Basil were recovered about an hour later by Harold Hennessey, City, Earl Acorn, Augustine Wisner and Clarence Redmond.

Besides a grief-stricken father and mother, they leave to mourn two sisters and four brothers, viz., Maurice, St. Dunstan's University; Mrs. Joseph Lacey, Charlottetown; Margaret, Ivan, Pius and Everett at home.

The funerals to St. Joachim's Church, Vernon River, on Tuesday morning, under the direction of Mr. Milton Jenkins, were largely attended. A Solemn Requiem High Mass was celebrated by Rev. P. D. McCannan, assisted by Rev. J. A. Sullivan and Rev. G. Mohan.

Rev. W. McGuigan Master of Ceremonies. A full choir was in attendance under the direction of Mr. J. A. O'Keefe. Miss Mary Collins presided at the organ. Service at graves was performed by the pastor, Father McGuigan, when both bodies were laid side by side, there to await a glorious resurrection. The pall bearers for Basil were Pius Kelly, John Byrne, Enslay Acorn, Henry Hughes, Louis Callaghan and James Redmond. For Harold: Joseph Shea, Ira Redmond, Charles Boylan, Allen Callaghan, Matthew Redmond and Frank Trainor.

Needless to say the sympathy of the entire community goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Redmond and family in their sad bereavement.
