

Why Not Give Your Body A Spring House Cleaning?

It is reasonable You stay indoors too much all winter—you breathe the foul air—you sleep in close rooms and you eat too much. In fact your winter life is pretty much artificial and unnatural.

Then why not renovate your whole system this spring.

Take a short cut to youth and energy

Nyal's Spring Tonic is the thing

Sulphur and molasses was grandmother's way. She also scrubbed her fingernails off every spring.

But Nyal's Spring Tonic is a regular up-to-date vacuum cleaner by comparison. Gives new snap and vim—puts life and spring into your muscles—makes you feel fit and ready.

If it isn't worth a dollar a bottle you can have your money back cheerfully.

MEND BONE WITH IVORY PEG.

ST. LOUIS, March 20.—Mrs. Marie Graham, 36 years old of No. 1521 Marcus Avenue, was operated on by City Hospital surgeons for a fracture of the neck of the right femur, or bone, of the upper leg, and a peg of ivory four inches long was driven through the surface of the bone, through the neck and into the head of the femur.

Mrs. Graham slipped and fell on the ice Feb. 8th, and the resultant fracture failed to heal.

The ivory was driven through the neck and head of the femur with a wooden mallet. It was the first time ivory was used at the City Hospital for such an operation. Silver and even wire nails have been used by surgeons in such bone operations.

EXCELLENT SHOW AT THE PRINCE EDWARD

Large houses saw a generally excellent programme of entertainment put on at the Prince Edward Theatre last night, as well as at the matinee in the afternoon.

News of the world in general was furnished the audience in excellent illustration in the "Animated Weekly." Especially interesting in the number were the views of the Canadians at Salisbury, and everyone present could see the conditions of the Plain, of which so much has been said, as they really existed.

Running close for first place were two two-part dramas each one being a splendid production.

The first was "Value Received", a Victorian drama. In this play J. Warren Kerrigan plays the lead with an able cast supporting him and they make an exceedingly good portrayal of an excellent story.

The second drama was "The House of Gold", in which retribution comes to a swindling financier. There is also a pretty love story in the play which the audience enjoyed.

The "Bondage of Fear" was a real good Biograph play in one reel greatly appreciated.

"The Coming of Sophie's Mamma" was a most uproarious comedy play, which provoked continuous hearty laughter throughout the whole length of the reel.

It was disappointing to the management that the great picture "The Seats of the Mighty" did not arrive but the audience, although very desirous of seeing it, in view of the above excellent show, felt disappointed in deferring the great picture.

Management on finding that the play had not arrived immediately made enquiries and as a result received a message to the effect that the picture was shipped Tuesday from Halifax and should have been here yesterday.

The Express Company has taken the matter up, and the picture will likely arrive today, in which case it will be shown this afternoon and to-night.

Mr. Frank Hines entertained for the last time last night. He gave a change of act and further enlightened the audience on the elements of motion picture photography. Last night as on each occasion since he came here, he was well received and loudly applauded.

LETTERS FROM FRANCE

The following letter from Mr. Heber R. Large has been received by a friend in this city:—
No. 5705, 1st Canadian Contingent, Sign. Headquarters 1st 113, France, April 11, 1915.

Dear Friend,—Just a line in acknowledgment of yours of the 25th ult. Was more than glad to hear from you.

The sun is just setting in the west, and the partly cloudy sky now turned into a beautiful orange colour, throws a shadow over the earth. Away in the distance a large hill or small mountain looms up with great pride. On the top a large castle is plainly seen to the naked eye. The valley is very deep between me and the hill. To one side a farmer can be seen ploughing the field, and in the distance an old-fashioned French windmill is turning.

Again, to the right one can see troops march and march by as if inspired by some great thought, though not of the trenches, etc., for one has to rough it too much there, but I think it's the beautiful evening scenery. Such is our whereabouts. We are nice and comfortably situated, four miles back of the front.

Just waiting for word, to pack up and go to the trenches. This time I think we will sure be up against it. All the boys are quite well and we are enjoying the expedition, etc., although we sure had some narrow escapes. Once our office was shelled by the Germans and we had to move on the double quick. And while we were in the trenches we had all kinds of experiences. We landed at St. Nazaire from England and had some trip over France in old cattle cars, going through Calais, Hazebrouk, Boulogne and other places, also Armentieres. Hunt us up on the map.

Guess I'll close for now, but when we get into the scrap again I'll likely have some news for you.

Regards to all,
HEBER R. LARGE.

Miss Florence Rodd, daughter of the late Mr. Wallace Rodd, Brackley Point Road, who went to England with the first Canadian Contingent of nurses writes the following letter to a friend, Mrs. Jackson, Brackley Point.

Mrs. Rodd trained in the Montreal General Hospital and volunteered for service at the outbreak of the war:—
April 5, 1915.

Dear Mrs. Jackson,—I received your Christmas card ten days ago—what a joke! It was in London about a week, and then it was sent on here to France. I was in London about one month but not on duty. We stayed at a hotel and had a fine time there. We came over here on the eighteenth of March, were in Boulogne one day and then came down here to Lebefort, where the hospital is situated. We have not been very busy so far. I do love my work and the poor soldiers appreciate everything we do for them, so much. The poor fellows, I feel so sorry for them. Well this is a beautiful place, right on the coast, so I expect to have a fine time swimming this summer. It makes me lonely for the dear old island and home. This place looks so much like Brackley Beach, where we used to spend some very happy days. The hospital is upon a cliff. Yesterday was Easter Sunday and I was off duty. I did not get to

SOLDIER'S DEATHBED

A few days ago a mortally wounded soldier was brought into a London hospital. He spoke once. "My name is Ford—my number is so-and-so—Cork—wife and seven children."

The War Office had the greatest difficulty in finding his wife. His recruiting office had been changed, his papers had been shuffled, and he could not be identified. But great efforts were made and the wife was traced two days before he died.

The War Office brought the wife and her sister from Cork to London, paying all rails and expenses, and providing their meals en route. At Euston Station they were met by an orderly with

A War Office motor car driven to the hospital, and they were able to stand by their dead. They were afterwards taken back to Cork with the same attention as in their journey to London.
The two women arrived in London with their shawls over their heads and they were carrying only a paper parcel and a few pieces of bread.
