More Illegal Fishing In '36

season, and after the fall season opened.

He said Inspector Martin and Assistant Inspector Squarbrick were at his home two or three times between seasons last year, and also during the fall season, but they had never caught him packing illegally. The reason he quit illegal packing in 1936 was because his gear had been destroyed by police boats.

Mr. Smith admitted he had been fined two or three times for illegal packing, and said his largest illegal pack was about 75 cases, a good many years ago.

"Could you do as good a job packing lobsters in the woods as in your factory?"

"Yes, if I was fitted up right."

He said he did not pack in the same place in the woods two years in succession, but would keep moving about. He could give no estimate of how many cases he had illegally canned during the past twenty-five years, and remarked, "One does not keep a record of that work."

"Who did you sell your lobsters to last year, those you packed, I mean?"

"To Howard Clark, Alberton. I owed him for gasoline and asked him if he would give some gasoline for canned lobsters and he told me he would."

"Did you have permits when you delivered those lobsters?"

"No."

"Do you get the same price for illegally packed lobsters as for legally packed goods?"

"No, I usually get a lower price."

Concerning a consignment of 31 cases of canned lobsters to DeBios Bros., Charlottetown, Sept. 25, 1936, the witness said there had been some illegally packed lobsters in the shipment.

"Would you say the entire consignment was illegally packed?" asked the Commissioner.

"No, but I would say the greater portion of it was."

"Who was with you while you packed in the woods?"

"My own family."

More Last Year

Witness said the only reason why he poached lobsters and canned them was because others were doing the same thing. He expressed an opinion there were more people fishing illegally last year than in previous years, but that there was not as many lobsterers.

"The patrol boats are not effective except for the destruction of gear. A man who gets a few months' employment does not want to make bad friends," said Mr. Smith.

"Would you like to see illegal fishing stopped?"

"Yes, I would, and if the rest stop I will too."

George Milligan, Poplar Grove, was the third witness. He gave part of his testimony prior to the luncheon adjournment and continued this afternoon. He said he had fished and packed five cases of lobsters during the closed season in 1936 and quit when his traps had been destroyed.

"Was your illegal plant destroyed last year?"

"Yes, a couple of times."

"Did the officers ever catch you?"

"No."

He said he fished and packed illegally in 1934 and 1936. In 1934 he sold his pack to James Morrison, Conway, and in 1936 to K. and H. Sharbell, Portage.

"Did Morrison and the Sharbells know your lobsters were illegally packed?"

"They might have. They knew I had no factory."

"Did you not sell to R. T. Holman, Limited, some years ago, a case of what purported to be lobsters and which turned out to be tommycod?"

"No sir, that was Douglas Milligan."

He denied ever packing anything but lobsters and said poaching had been going on in his district as far back as he could recall. He did not know of any one running lobsterers from the north side to the south side in the fall season.

"Would you fish illegally?"

"Because there was nothing else to do."

Stanford Milligan, also of Poplar Grove, followed to the stand and said he had not fished a lobster illegally for the past two years, but that he had in 1934, and had sold his canned lobsters to James Morrison, Conway. In 1934 his plant in the woods was destroyed once but the officers had not caught him. He said he quit fishing illegally in 1934 and did not know why others in the locality could not stop too.

Other Witnesses

The fifth witness yesterday was David Milligan, another Poplar Grove man. He said he had been poaching lobsters for the past six or seven years, but not every year. During the fall season in 1936 he fished with but eight traps and canned only a little over one case of lobsters, which he sold to K. and H. Sharbell, Portage.

To Commissioner counsel he said he thought they must have known the lobsterers were illegally packed. Asked who assisted him in his illegal packing Mr. Milligan replied, "The old girl and the two little fellows."

He was of the opinion the destruction of gear was an effective way of stopping illegal fishing, and told counsel he had never brought berried lobster ashore, for in so doing fishermen were cutting off their nose to spite the face.

The fifth witness from the Malpeque Bay west area was Fred Walfield, also of Poplar Grove, who told the Commissioner he had been fishing illegally for the past three or four years in a small way. He said during the closed season in 1936 he canned, however, only about one-half a case of lobsters, which he sold to Lloyd Sharp.

"Why do you fish lobsters illegally?"

"I needed money, so I poached. What little illegal fishing I did, helped me out considerably at the time."

Transferred Illegal Lobsters

Henry Gallant, of Summerside, was then called. He told of going to Darnley last fall and of taking a lot of about 700 lbs. of lobsters to Fifteen Point in his car. This was from illegal territory into the legal district. He said he got the lobsters at Darnley Bridge from three men he did not know, and left them at a house at Fifteen Point, but he could not tell the Commissioner the names of the men he delivered the lobsters to. He was accompanied by Gussie Gallant, also of Summerside.

"Was that Auguste Gallant?"

"No, Gussie, (he spelt the word.)"

Asked who told him to go to Darnley, the witness said Joseph Anthony Gallant, and remarked he had seen George Champion there but had not bought any lobsters from him.

The last two witnesses of the afternoon were Rene Gallant and Walter Solner, both of Summer-

Deanna Durbin's Debut on Screen In This City

PLAYING IN "THREE SMART GIRLS" AT PRINCE EDWARD

Dainty Deanna Durbin, a brilliant and altogether charming personality was introduced to local movie fans yesterday when the gay comedy drama, "Three Smart Girls," started its three day run at the Prince Edward Theatre. Deanna's voice has been heard previously every week over Eddie Cantor's radio hour and as guest star at various times with several of the leading programs on the national networks.

Deanna should be of peculiar interest to the people of the Maritime Provinces because she is a Canadian girl, born in Winnipeg, and has relatives in Saint John, New Brunswick.

Surrounded by a cast of established film favourites including Binnie Barnes, Alice Brady, Ray Milland, and Charles Winninger, this youthful newcomer to the screen lives up to advance notices of her musical genius. She proves too, that she is much more than just a singing child prodigy. Possessing exquisite beauty and rare charm, the talented youngster gives a smooth performance. She sings three songs, the well-known "I'll Be Home Again," "My Heart is Singing," and "Someone to Care For Me."

Two other charming ingenues have been "discovered" in this picture to play the part of the other two "Smart Girls," namely Nan Grey and Barbara Read. You'll see more of these two—and very much more of Deanna!—in the picture.

The Prince Edward's program also included a sport reel, variety cartoon, and an excellent Technicolor cartoon.

Hold Conference On Injunction Order

DETROIT, March 18—(AP)—B. E. Hutchinson, vice president of Chrysler Corp., announced today company attorneys had conferred with Circuit Judge Campbell, who issued an injunction against Chrysler sit-down strikers, and would return to court tomorrow morning.

Hutchinson declined to say that the Corporation had asked for a writ ordering the removal of the 6,000 strikers. Court attaches said "hearing" had been set for 9 A. M. tomorrow.

side, who testified they had fished lobsters but never illegally. Solner said he had worked as a truck driver for Andre Faturel, but that he had never transported any illegal lobsters while in the employ of Mr. Faturel.

Solner also said that at Tignish last fall he was told by Joseph Arsenault that nearly everybody there was fishing illegally; "in fact he told me the fishermen were fighting about their lines, that some lines were laid over others."

Death of Prominent S'Side Contractor

MR. J. W. PERCY TANTON

The death occurred at his home in Summerside yesterday afternoon of Mr. J. W. Percy Tanton, well known contractor and builder.

Mr. Tanton had been in ill health for the past few years, but was able to be out and about until November when he suffered a stroke and had been confined to bed ever since.

Born in Sherbrooke on March 26th, 1868, on the old Tanton homestead, he was the son of James Tanton, his mother before her marriage being Belle Sharp of Summerside.

His father dying when he was quite a boy, Mr. Tanton started very early in life to learn the building trade with the late Allen Sharpe of Summerside. When only 18 years old he started in the contracting business for himself and at 19 years went over to New Brunswick and obtained the contract for building the Presbyterian Church at River Charles. He studied architecture and returning to the Island he planned the first brick store of Messrs. Brace and MacKay. He also built their additional brick building in 1906.

He was also associated with the erection of the Christian and Baptist Churches at Summerside; also St. Mary's Church. Besides this many of the beautiful homes one sees in the residential section of the town were planned by Mr. Tanton.

The only cobbler stone house in Summerside was designed by Mr. Tanton for the late Robert Bowness in 1906 and the erection of the house was under his direction.

In 1899 Mr. Tanton went to Sydney during the big boom there and remained about two years. He built a number of Company houses there, averaging one per week.

Returning to the Island, about his first job was the building of Dalvey hotel at Tracadie. When the Murray Harbour branch of the railway opened up, Mr. Tanton was engaged to build the stations along the line.

There are many stone houses throughout the province which will be lasting monuments to his memory. At Tignish Mr. Tanton built the drug store operated by the late Mr. Charles Dalton, when he was plain Mr. Dalton.

A particularly attractive house which will always be a monument to his skill is the cobbler stone house of B. I. Rayner at South Kildare. It was the first of its kind in the west of the province and was built in the boom days of the box industry. More recent buildings designed by Mr. Tanton are the Dalton Block on Water St., the new brick store of F.W. Strong, and the MacArthur Block. The Presbyterian Church was remodelled by Mr. Tanton in 1906.

Mill and Factory Owner

Besides his contracting and building business Mr. Tanton opened a large lumber mill and sash and door factory in 1908 on Court Street. The premises extended from Central Street to Cedar Street. The present ice rink stands on part of the site. In the great fire of 1906 which swept through the town Mr. Tanton lost his whole property, including a fine residence.

In the fall he went out to Vancouver but returned in the spring of 1907 to help form the M. F. Schurman Company Ltd. He remained with this company as architect and mill foreman until 1918, when on account of ill health he took up the contracting business again. His first job that summer was the B. I. Rayner house at South Kildare.

That fall he removed with his family to Vancouver and built several stores and houses in that city and surrounding districts. In 1913 he returned again to Summerside and having retained his interest in Messrs. M. F. Schurman and Co. he took up his old position there.

In 1932 he sold out his interest in the company and with his son Ray, purchased the old Lefurgy shipyard and opened up a lumber yard and sash and door factory. In 1934 it was incorporated under the Percy Tanton Lumber Co.

Mr. Tanton continued to take an active part in the business until quite recently when he was forced to give up and leave things to the hands of his son, Ray.

With the passing of Mr. Tanton, the province has lost a most useful citizen.

Fox Breeder

Mr. Tanton was also interested in breeding silver foxes and on his return from the west in 1911, he brought home some Alaska silver foxes and cross foxes. He also brought some silver foxes from Fort George in 1913, and was the first man to breed this animal on the Island. After raising them in captivity until 1917 he sold his stock to parties in Japan.

Mr. Tanton married Mary Ellen MacArthur (a sister of Senator Creelman MacArthur) in 1904. She predeceased him only last April. Three sons and one daughter are left to mourn: James, of High River, Alberta; Creelman, in Niagara Falls, Ont.; Ray of Summerside, and Miss Vera in Toronto; also two brothers, Jarvis and Bradford, Summerside, and one sister, Mrs. Harry Morrison of Santa Cruz, California.

Of a pleasing personality and genial disposition Mr. Tanton will be mourned by a wide circle of friends, who extend sincere sympathy to the bereaved family.
