...usually puts "the best foot forward" was very cautious in its predictions. SO-CALLED "MYSTERY MAN OF EUROPE" HAS LOST A PALTRY $54,000,000

Reputed Arbitrator of Nations Has a Few New Schemes on Hand to Recover His Vanished Millions, However.

LONDON, Dec. 6.—Basil Zboroff, international multimillionaire, reputed arbitrator of nations, so-called "Mystery Man of Europe" has lost $54,000,000 since the armistice according to today's Sunday Express. The paper declares he was supposed to be worth some $90,000,000 at the end of the war but his business ventures since have resulted in great shrinkage. Sir Basil, the Express says, lost first in ship building in the post-war slump, then in the poor seasons at Monte Carlo, which he owns; then in one of his Paris banks and in the falling off of his business at his munitions factories. Besides that the Greek defeat in Asia Minor led to heavy losses in his properties there. The Express declares, however, that Sir Basil's branching out into new ventures in pursuit of the vanished millions. It is reported he has affected the conversion of about $160,000,000 worth of Roumanian treasury bonds at a considerable profit and it is rumored he is negotiating for control of all privately owned oil interests in Russia. Sir Basil is a man of many varied interests. Of Greek and French descent, he rose from obscurity to control of the Vickers Armament Company in England. Then, it is said, he got control of the arms output of four or five other countries. He owns banks newspapers and has been spoken of in almost all important oil deals in Europe and Asia Minor, is supposed to be the financial power behind former Premier Venizelos of Greece, has spent millions in philanthropy all over Europe. He was knighted by Britain for his war services and is generally regarded as one of the greatest invisible political powers on the continent.

715 AFTER CURES IN CANCER PRIZE CONTEST.

MONTREAL, Dec. 5.—The offer of Lord Atholston of a prize of $10,000 for discovery of a cure of cancer has brought 2,715 claims for the award from 41 countries. On advice of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons, London, England claimants to entitle them to consideration of their alleged cures as in competition for prize, must satisfy a recognized medical faculty or leading society in his or her own country that there is some scientific basis to the justly experimental investigation of the professional cure and that any cases said to be successfully treated, were in fact cures of cancer.

Germans Plan War Of Revenge

LONDON, Dec. 6.—That the Germans are actively planning a war of revenge, chiefly against France, for which purpose they have concluded a secret military agreement with Russia is the main point of "a memorandum by a person in close touch with the best-informed German circles in Berlin and Munich," communicated to the Daily Mail which displays it under big headlines. The paper claims to have made exhaustive inquiries into the memorandum's accuracy in Germany, London and Paris, with the result the Mail says, that it has been very largely supported thereby. Except for precise details, the Mail's story does not differ materially from similar statements printed from time to time in anti-German papers. The memorandum particularizes with respect to alleged arrangements to enable Germany to utilize Russia's resources including complete international reorganization which will make Russia capable of supporting both herself and Germany, so that Germany may ignore any sea blockade. It says that German armament firms will establish factories in Russia, whose armies will be equipped thereby and submarines and mine-layers will be built in Russian dockyards under German guidance and manned by Russian crews under German officers. Poland is to be crushed and annexed by Russia, so as to give Russia and Germany a common frontier. The Mail claims that its inquiries regarding the memorandum have elicited the fact that 500 German officers are now in Moscow carrying out the conditions of the secret agreement; that many engineers from Krupp have begun the re-organization of Russian munition works while German engineers are reconditioning the Russian railroads to the Polish front.

Prehistoric Man Or Extinct Bear?

Scientists Differ Over Fossil Tooth Found in United States

LONDON, Dec. 6.—At the scientific meeting of the Zoological Society yesterday afternoon, Professor Elliot Smith exhibited photographs and a cast recently received from the United States, of what is now a famous fossil tooth. The specimen was found by Mr. Harold J. Cook in beds of Pliocene age in Nebraska, where other remains of extinct mammals, some apparently with Asiatic affinities, have been discovered. After taking the opinion of various American experts, Professor H. F. Osborn, the leading paleontologist of America, identified it as a second upper molar of a creature certainly belonging to the group of Primates but neither an orang gorilla, chimpanzee, nor any known race of extinct man or man-like ape. If this identification is accepted, then, for the time being, America can lay claim to have been the home of the oldest ape like man or man like ape, yet discovered. Dr. Arthur Smith Woodward, keeper of geology at the British Museum of Natural History, however, has already stated his doubts of the interpretation, holding that the tooth showed a close resemblance with the last lower molar of extinct primitive bears belonging to the genus Hyæna artos, creatures of which fossil remains, although unfortunately not including a last lower molar had already been discovered in American Pliocene beds. Professor Elliot Smith fully admitted the unexpectedness of finding a large primate in the lower Pliocene of America representing a type of the human race older than Pithecanthropus, the fossil man of Java. But on going through the characters of the tooth one by one and, above all, on examining photographs taken by X-rays which showed the configuration of the pulp cavity, he was disposed to agree that it made known to us the existence of a primate, in some respects like the chimpanzee, but definitely human rather than ape like. Dr. Smith Woodward adhered to his opinion that it was more likely to belong to the known genera of extinct bears than to an unknown primate of a continent which has yet yielded any restricted creatures. He voted for "the best of all Governments!"
