SAD BEREAVEMENT — Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lockhart of St. Eleanor's have the sympathy of their friends in the death on Wednesday after only three weeks illness of their daughter, Vera, at the early age of nineteen years. The deceased young lady was a nurse in training at Falconwood Institution, and had been given a leave of absence on account of ill health. She entered the Prince County Hospital for treatment but all that could be done for her proved of no avail. Vera had a bright, cheery, lovable disposition and will be missed by her girl friends. There are left to mourn besides her parents, the following brothers and sisters: Ralph of the R.C.M.P. in Western Canada; Mrs. Wm. Smith of Summerside; Rowena and Aubrey at home; also her aged grandmother, Mrs. Alex. Lockhart, to whom she was particularly attached. The funeral takes place today at 2 p.m. from the home to the United Church Cemetery at Lot 16, S.

THE NOSTRIL FLY OF SHEEP

The Sheep Nostril Fly, which is the parent of the grubs causing the condition commonly spoken of as Grub-in-the-Head, is a little larger than the stable fly. The female fly seeks a flock of sheep on which to bestow her progeny. Upon finding a sheep that is willing to stand, the fly deposits the young, living larvae on the edge of the sheep's nostril, one at a time making frequent thrusts as long as the sheep will stand. In this way one fly may unload as many as sixty little grubs on one sheep.

The Sheep Nostril Fly came to Canada with the importations from Great Britain many years ago. It is quite common in all sheep districts and has spread to the wild deer in the back districts. All persons familiar with the normal actions of sheep, know when the fly is attempting to deposit its larvae. The fly during flight makes a peculiar buzzing noise, which, together with its quick movements about the sheep's head, cause much alarm. The sheep try to avoid the fly by crowding together and keeping their heads down. If there are many flies the sheep snuff, sneeze and rub their noses in attempt to offset the tickling caused by the presence of the recently deposited larvae. Sheep will run into thickets, long grass or shade or hold their head low in a furrow bottom if such is available. In order to keep its nose out of reach of the fly.

Sheep running on bare fields where there is no natural cover or shubbery into which they can go during the heat of the day, can be protected by applying pine tar to their nostrils each week and by plowing shallow furrows across the field, into which the sheep can dip its nose when the fly is about. Salt and feed troughs can be so constructed that the sheep will keep its own nose smeared with pine tar, thus saving the labor of hand work. Such a trough can be made by boring holes, three inches in diameter and five inches deep into a cedar log of suitable size and length. The holes are filled with salt and pine tar smeared around the

A LIST OF AMOUNTS NEEDED WHEN BUYING VEGETABLES BY POUND
The custom of selling fruits and vegetables by the pound is becoming popular.
The weight of many fruits and vegetables is an aid to determining the quality of the commodity. Small heads of lettuce or cabbage are heavy if solid and firm through the centre. Heavy oranges and grape fruit are sure to be juicy. Fresh products are heavier than wilted ones. Also fewer large apples or potatoes fit into a measure than small ones, often making a half bushel of potatoes weigh less than its prescribed number of pounds. This means a distinct saving in buying by weight.

Bunches Too Variable
"Bunches" and "baskets" are as variable as "teacupsful" and the "five-cents-worths" of the past and it is only when a common unit of measurement is applied to fruits and vegetables that prices and quality are easily comparable.
Keep This List
The following list will help the housewife in calculating the amounts needed when purchasing vegetables by the pound:
One pound of asparagus will serve three persons.
One pound of green beans (about one quart), four persons.
One pound of shelled lima beans (less than a quart), four persons.
One pound of beets (about five medium sized beets), four persons.
A medium sized head of solid cabbage weighs about three pounds and serves seven persons.
One pound of brussels sprouts, six persons.
One pound broccoli, four persons.
One medium sized, well trimmed head of cauliflower weighs about one and one half pounds and will serve four persons.
Four rather small tomatoes weigh one pound and will serve four persons.
One pound of rhubarb, after being stewed will serve three persons.
One pound of fresh spinach, three persons.
One pound of peas in the pod (about one quart) yields about one cup, shelled. Allow two pounds for four persons.
One pound of mushrooms will serve six persons if the mushrooms are served on toast.
Three or four potatoes weigh one pound.
One peck of potatoes weighs fifteen pounds.
NAMING "THE LORD OF BURLEIGH'S" HEIR
Two interesting parents, Lord and Lady Burleigh, were still wondering when interviewed by what names their son and heir is to be christened. The baby is the grandchild of the Marquis of Exeter, head of the Cecil family.

"I believe he is going to be John William," said the famous athlete and M. P., Lord Burghley. "Very ordinary names, but very English. He'll be called something else as well, but my wife and parents will decide that."
Historic Robe
Lady Burghley motored to Burghley House, the ancestral home, seven miles away, to look at the family christening robe of old Cecil, will be present.
Lord Burghley said a fellow M. P., Lord Stanley, will be a godfather, the other two being Lord Edward Hay and Lord Barnard. The godmother is to be Mrs. Andrew Ferguson, a cousin of Lady Burghley.
