"To Citizens of Prince Edward Island"

Charlottetown ROTARY CLUB is holding its annual ROTARY CLUB AUCTION over CHCK on the evening of Thursday, December 3rd next. This is usual in aid of Crippled Children and other Charities.

We thank the public for the support they have given us on the nights of the Auction in the past and ask it again for the 3rd of December.

We also thank all those who have donated. We regret that last year we omitted calling on some parties who later advised us that they would have liked to contribute. We have endeavored to make no such omissions this year but if you have been unfortunately overlooked we would very much appreciate if you would call N. D. MacLean, phone 149, Chairman of the Auction Committee, prior to November 21st, and he will gladly attend to the matter

An impressive memorial service was held at Wheatley River on Remembrance Day. A large parade led by the school children and followed by ex-service men marched from the village hall to the monument where wreaths were placed in memory of fallen heroes.

The service at the monument opened with the sounding of Last Post by Bugler Ernest White and was followed by two minutes silence. After the placing of the wreaths the Rev. Mr. McQuarrie offered prayer. Revellie was sounded and the parade re-formed and marched back to the hall where the remainder of the service was concluded.

Major Dan MacDonald was the chairman. The address was given by the Rev. Mr. Patterson. Prayer was offered by the Rev. Mr. Quigley. The hymns "These Things Shall Be," "O God of Love," and "Dear Lord" were sung. The singing was led by the Wheatley River Choir. The service concluded with the National Anthem and Benediction.

Major MacDonald during the service thanked the ladies who kept flowers at the monument during the summer. He told the gathering that it had been the hope when the monument was erected to hold a midsummer memorial service annually. He expressed the hope that in the future the children from the surrounding schools would attend the Remembrance Day service at the Wheatley River monument.

The children in the parade made a very smart appearance. They had been instructed by their teacher Miss Ruby Stead. Major MacDonald had also given them special instruction.

Rev. Mr. Patterson

"There was a disposition in the first few years after the war to regard Armistice Day as a public holiday, to celebrate a victory and the triumphant return of peace to a war-shattered world," Rev. Mr. Patterson said. "But the passing years have shown how hollow was that boasted victory, and that peace had not prevailed. So now we rightly call it Remembrance Day and with fitting solemnity we pay our tribute of grateful homage to the memory of the heroic dead. Sixty thousand of Canada's best gave their lives in that 'dust of conflict.'"

"They went with song to the battle, they were young Straight of limb, true of eye, steady and aglow, They were staunch to the end against odds uncounted They fell with their faces to the foe."

"If events since 1918 have tempted us to view the idealism, the dream of 'work and war' which animated the nations in the war days with a tinge of cynical misgivings that does not detract from the nobility of the sacrifice of those who died," Mr. Patterson continued. "They freely gave their all at the call of patriotic duty, firm in the conviction that they were making their contribution to secure the peace of the world. Because of the grandeur of their sacrifice the observance of the great silence on the morning of Remembrance Day has become universally an enduring fixture. Those two hushed moments of serenity constitute the most significant spiritual legacy of the Great War. It is inevitable that we should turn our thoughts to those sacred spots behind the old far-flung battle lines where our fallen heroes lay. Many of them won promotions and decorations for their valor; others fell unnoticed and unrewarded, for we should never forget that in every battle that ever was fought, gallant deeds without number have been performed, seen by none but the Eye of Heaven. That explains the genius and spirit of our Empire's tribute to the Unknown Warrior. His unidentified body, laid at rest within the sacred precincts of Westminster Abbey, symbolises the unrecognized valor of tens of thousands of the rank and file. He may have come from a crowded city or the country village; from the windswept hamlet to the lonely hill; from the factory, the mine or the farm; but whether highborn or of low estate, he remains as a type, a symbol of all our imperishable heroes—nameless and unnamed."

An excerpt from the speech delivered to the Brigade of Guards in July by King Edward was then heard.

After several musical numbers there were brief remarks from disabled veterans at Christie St. Hospital, Toronto, an address by Col. W. W. Foster, acting dominion president of the Canadian Legion, speaking from Vancouver, and Mr. Mackenzie King's message.

A portion of the 1935 Christmas message of King George was re-broadcast.

SAYS PEACE RESTS WITH INDIVIDUALS

Prime Minister King Delivers Armistice Day Message From Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Nov. 13—(CP)—If another war comes it will not arise because governments have been unequal to their tasks, "but because individuals, in their combined national efforts and daily lives, have greatly failed," Prime Minister Mackenzie King declared in an Armistice Day message to-night. The Prime Minister spoke briefly on Canadian Legion's national memorial broadcast.

"Everyone can do something toward preventing another war," the Prime Minister declared. "If war came again the cause would be that 'between nations and classes we have fostered mistrust and cherished ill-will when we should have been doing all in our power to foster understanding and goodwill. It will be because we have been cruel, unkind or thoughtless in our personal relations when we should have been seeking to do unto others as we would have others to do unto us.'"

The Prime Minister spoke feelingly in memory of those who died in the Great War, "the anguish of those who were bereaved of their loved ones, and the lingering handicaps and pains of those who still survive, maimed in limb, shattered in body or mind."

Within each nation, each class and each individual the forces of good and evil contend for supremacy, the Prime Minister declared. "Upon our individual acts, thoughts and prayers depend the immediate not less than the future well-being of mankind. To save our day and generation the horrors of another world war individual and national effort must be combined in one great endeavor to preserve the blessings of peace."

The program was opened from Toronto with O Canada sung by the choir of the Toronto Conservatory of Music and played by the Toronto Symphony Orchestra. The first verse was sung in French, the second in English. Sir Ernest MacMillan was conductor.

The funeral was held from her late home at Tracadie Cross to St. Bonaventure's Church, where Requiem High Mass was celebrated by Rev. Reginald F. MacDonald, nephew of deceased. In the sanctuary were seated, Rt. Rev. Mgr. Maurice MacDonald, and Rev. William W. MacDonald, Hope River Rt. Rev. Mgr. McDonald, parish priest officiated at the grave.

The pall bearers were Messrs John J. Lacey, A. J. MacDonald, James J. Trainor, Harold Lacey, George Stewart and William F. MacDonald.

Hallowe'en Party

A well arranged Hallowe'en party made Cross Reads school the scene of much merriment on Friday afternoon, Oct. 30th. Preparatory to the entertainment the teacher Miss Margaret Huntley and pupils had decorated the school room very artistically. The ladies of the district also assisted by bringing a plentiful supply of eats. All the Hallowe'en traditions were observed both in the decoration and in the food, the latter including the time old pumpkin pies and hop-goblin cookies and the former plentifully interspersed with black cats, owls, bats, witches with brooms, Jack-o-Lanterns, etc. The guests were met at the door by a shrouded figure and led into the dimly-lighted room where each one was informed that a fortune number awaited them. All accordingly went in search of their number and when these were secured a witch hobbled in and interpreted the future to each one in turn to their own satisfaction and the amusement of the audience. This was followed by:

Peanut Hunt, divided into 2 parts: Owls led by Ghost; Cats led by witch.

Eating Apples: Junior prize won by Bryer Jones; senior prize won by Blair MacCallum.

Witch and Cats Game.

After which candy and apples were passed to all present.

The afternoon being beautiful a nice time was now spent on the school play ground as follows:

Junior race won by Bryer Jones. Senior race won by Austin MacCallum.

Hand Tied race won by Buelah Farquarson and Blair MacCallum.

Hobble race won by Buddy Molyneux.

Weaver's relay race.

This ended the outside sports, after which the following program was nicely presented.

Opening chorus, "O Canada". Recitation by Bryer Jones. Recitation by Olive Stewart. Duet, Margaret and Bryer Jones. Reading, Little Orphan Annie, by Jean MacRae. Solo by Alicea Jenkins. Recitation by Jackie MacRae. Song by four girls, Louise MacNeill, Jean MacRae, Norma MacCallum and Alicea Jenkins.

attended by much merriment and enjoyment.

All the visitors present expressed the fact that they highly appreciated Miss Huntley's extra work so well done that afforded them such a pleasant afternoon, while needless to say that this and similar entertainments are very much enjoyed by the pupils. The proceedings closed by singing "Should Auld Acquaintance be Forgot." The King.

A Satisfaction And A Benefit

You should be glad to know that you need NO help in seeing. And glad again if you find out that you DO.

The first is a satisfaction. The second leads to results that are beneficial beyond what is often hoped for.

Do not overlook your eyes—have them looked over.
