Describes Growth Of Co-operatives 'Maritime Miracle'

NEW YORK, May 15.—(CP)—Every province in Canada now has the beginnings of a cooperative movement similar to the one operating in the Maritimes. Rev. J. Nelson MacDonald said here today.

Rev. MacDonald, pastor of the United Church of Canada at Bagdad, N. S., spoke at a luncheon sponsored by the Cooperative Committee of the Federal Council of Churches.

He described the growth of the movement in the east in the last 10 years as the "Maritime Miracle" and said it affected directly or indirectly the lives of more than 1,000 people or a quarter of the population of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

The movement was originated by St. Francis Xavier University with headquarters at Antigonish, N. S. He said its program attracted people of all faiths.

His study clubs, a took adult education to the people and built an education base on which were organized credit unions, cooperative fish processing plants, cooperative stores, cooperative housing, cooperative health societies, cooperative handcraft associations and other types of economic and cultural enterprises.

"We expect to open our first cooperative factories this coming year," Mr. MacDonald declared. "We will start in a humble way. Just as we have with our other enterprises, and begin with the manufacture of paint and baking powder, as these commodities are simple to manufacture and are in constant demand through our cooperative stores. The cooperative program which previously had no doctors and makes the medical care available on a prepayment plan of $1.25 a month."

Mr. MacDonald said every province in Canada now has the beginnings of a similar cooperative movement and that cooperative credit union laws have been passed in every province.

Mr. MacDonald described the cooperative housing project in Reserve Mines, N. S., as a major accomplishment of the cooperative program. The miners themselves have built modern bungalows which they will pay for at the rate of $1.50 a month, which includes rent, amortization, education and surplus funds, and will pay its complete costs in 20 years. One complete housing project has been completed already and two more projects are under construction.
