Rangers Seen On Decline For Soccer Race

GLASGOW, Dec. 3.—(C. P.)—There are misgivings at Ibrox Park. The star-studded Glasgow Rangers machine that has stood head and shoulders above all other teams in Scottish football for some years shows signs of fading.

The long grind is at the stage when, in recent years, have begun to look back at the other teams in the loop. Now they are faced with the proposition of overlooking two youthful and powerful clubs—Aberdeen and Celtic—both of whom already have taken the cupholders' measure in league warfare.

Rangers have smashed records with reckless abandon and it will be some time before any other Scottish side comes close to the imposing blue-ribbon display of the colorful squad.

Gunning for its fourth consecutive league championship, the club has little change in its personnel, but injuries have played their part in the decline that has taken place in the past couple of months.

On the other hand some of the directors' experiments have been notably successful. The conversion of W. Drysdale, reserve back, into a centre-forward, found many "doubting Thomases," but the "doubting" in his first game in this position, rammed home two goals. The injury of that master strategist, R. McPhail, for a time caused considerable concern. On his return to the team, however, he showed he had lost none of his former dexterity.

Celtic completed many off-season deals and presented a revamped eleven. The change was noticeable from the outset and the Celts seem set for another banner year. Aberdeen made a few changes and supporters are waiting for when they tangle with Celtic Dec. 21. This encounter may be the turning point in the drive for honors.

Rangers officially opened the season at home against Arbroath, and soundly trimmed the newly-promoted team 6-0. About the third week of the campaign a dark cloud appeared when Ayr United, the butt of many reverses, led the cup-holders to a 2-2 draw. In the meantime Celtic and Aberdeen, playing inspired football, were serious threats.

The three teams raced for a spell with little to choose between them and then Rangers and Celtic met for the Glasgow Cup. Rangers won 2-1 and supporters began to talk of a fourth successive championship.

The Ibrox Park players continued to show their heels to opponents until they were held to another draw by the down-trodden Hibernians. This was followed by a 2-1 defeat by their old rivals, the Celts.

Aberdeen eventually clashed with the champions and showed marked superiority to win 1-0—the first time. Rangers were held scoreless this year. A glance at the records show the Rangers have held the title 31 times and were joint holders once with Celtic. They have held the Scottish Cup nine times and for the past two years won both league and cup honors.

Plan To Select Featherweight Champion

(A. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—The Illinois and New York State Athletic Commissions agreed today upon a plan to select a world featherweight champion. Freddie Miller of Cincinnati is recognized by the National Boxing Association as world champion but his title is not recognized by the New York and Illinois commissions, which are not members of the N.B.A.

As a preliminary to choosing a champion, the New York Commission matched Mike Beloitse of New York against Claude Varner of Boston, the winner to meet the Illinois commission between Everett Rightmire of Sloux City, Ia., and Moon Mullins, of Vincennes, Ind.

The ultimate winner then will be matched against Baby Arismendi of Mexico and the victor of this fight will be regarded by the two state commissions as world champion. Six months ago the Illinois and New York authorities advised Miller they would allow him six months to engage in a title fight in either state before recognizing the N.B.A. championship. No such fight has taken place because Miller has held out for a $10,000 guarantee.

FREIGHT RATES

up the matter with argument by counsel.

Reductions Sought

Reduction of three cents a bushel or five cents per 100 pounds of potatoes in carload lots to meet reductions in Ontario and Quebec was sought. Truck competition in Ontario was responsible for reduced potato rates in the central provinces.

Hon. Hugh Guthrie, chief of the Railway Commission, and his colleagues were met with objections voiced by J. K. Smith as soon as the hearing opened today. Manager of the Transportation Commission of the Montreal Board of Trade, Mr. Smith said he was also authorized to oppose proceeding on behalf of the Toronto Board. Neither of these bodies had been notified of the hearing, he said, and the application contained implications which they wished to consider carefully and upon which they wished to make representations. He wanted six weeks to study the situation and to gather the views of members of the board he represented.

"Little Dilatory"

Remarking that the Montreal and Toronto Boards of Trade had perhaps "been a little dilatory" in connection with the application, the Chief Commissioner suggested previous hearings might have given them an indication of the nature of the Maritime requests. He did not, however, wish to prejudice interests of any person or organization and suggested an adjournment of a week for the benefit of the Montreal and Toronto boards. For the applicants, Hon. J. L. Ralston stressed the urgency of early action. The potato shipping season was here, and winter rates became effective Dec. 1. He thought if the Board felt an adjournment was justified it should be as brief as possible.

After some further discussion during which the Chief Commissioner emphasized that the case was an important one, and he was anxious that no one should be prejudiced, the Board ruled for an adjournment until Dec. 12 when all parties interested will be expected to be ready to proceed.

Saint John Doctor Favors "Mercy Slayings"

(C.P. By Guardian's Special Wire) SAINT JOHN, N. B., Dec. 3.—Following an announcement yesterday that he would retire from practice at the end of the year, Dr. G. A. P. Addy, outstanding physician and surgeon, today revealed an opinion favoring "mercy slayings" in certain cases. He is a past president of the Canadian Medical Association, regent of the American College of Surgeons, Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons and has practised in Saint John for 46 years.

His views, he said, were prompted by a sympathetic understanding in cases of intolentable suffering, when mercy slaying "would be a Godsend to some people," but the practice might not be feasible, he qualified, because of possible abuse.

Dr. Addy expressed belief, however, that such "slayings" could be arranged "by having suitable consultation." His suggestion was that these consultations should be by one of two legal men, with possibly a judge to preside, together with several medical men. The person suffering would have to show a desire to undergo such a "slaying."

MAY AGAIN GO TO POLLS IN FEBRUARY

Opposition Predicts Taschereau Government Not Likely To Last Even One Session.

MONTREAL, Dec. 2.—Election excitement, far from dying down following polling which revolutionized the showing of political trend in Province of Quebec affairs, appeared yesterday to be still feverish in Montreal.

Premier Taschereau gave forth the government and Liberal party attitude when he declared here that the government was carrying on, and its friends need fear nothing as to its fate. Around this definite statement is based Liberal viewpoints heard here.

There are great currents of opinion finding voice—much of it loud—which run counter to the Premier's views. The range of these counter opinions is wide.

A view much expressed downtown yesterday, was that there would be elections very soon, in February, even, meaning thereby that the government could not go even one session without finding that it was helpless to enact legislation. As against this certain considerations are given expression, foremost being the opinion that within the ranks of the 42 members of the Opposition are men who find themselves members of the Legislature unexpectedly, are so happy at this consummation that they do not wish to risk an abrupt termination of their public careers, thus going down in history as members of a few days. This does not necessarily mean that they fear defeat at the hands of government candidates, but that they might not be the candidates, since the National Union party is not a party in the strict, and disciplined, sense the word is used when applied to the Liberals, and therefore they could not be certain they would again be the candidates. Some of them were selected as candidates in counties where men held to be more qualified did not choose to run because they saw no chance of success, and naturally they are not pleased with their judgment in estimating the chances.

Financial Considerations

There is another reason, one of a material nature, which is pointed against the idea that the coming session will not last out its term. The indemnity matter is important to many of the Opposition members, and, of course, is also important to government members. To gain the indemnity, which is $2,500, plus $300 for expenses, it requires that the session last 30 sittings. Dissolution of the House and the consequent re-election would mean no indemnity, but a mere $10 per day. It is held that a majority, even when very slim, as in the present instance, counts as much as even a larger majority. A motion to adjourn a sitting is not debatable, and Premier Taschereau even with this slim majority, can see to it that 30 sittings are stretched over quite a number of days beyond 30 days.

For the applicants, Hon. J. L. Ralston stressed the urgency of early action. The potato shipping season was here, and winter rates became effective Dec. 1. He thought if the Board felt an adjournment was justified it should be as brief as possible.

After some further discussion during which the Chief Commissioner emphasized that the case was an important one, and he was anxious that no one should be prejudiced, the Board ruled for an adjournment until Dec. 12 when all parties interested will be expected to be ready to proceed.

With the Legislature due to open only about the first of February, it means consequently, it was pointed out yesterday that there could be no elections until the spring, viz. seven weeks for the session, and then 20 to 25 days or elections dating from a defeat of the government in the House after the period of sittings required to earn the indemnity had passed.

Count On Reaction

This, Liberals point out, would mean no election until about the commencement of May, and by that time they count upon a reaction again the outburst of feeling which almost overwhelmed them last Monday.

Liberals believe that the prospective events mentioned above combine the worst that can happen, in their optimistic moments, and they profess to be able to peer more clearly into the future, they express the belief that the government will be able to carry on during the entire constitutional five-year period of the life of a legislature.

In the meantime, members of both sides expect the state of excitement and uncertainty to continue, with some alleviation of the tension during the time of the inter-provincial Conference when party strife will recede for consideration of the issues to be taken up at the Ottawa gathering.

Clarification Of Civil And Canon Law Sought

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) MONTREAL, Dec. 2.—The civil law of Canada, Rev. O. L. Ritchie told members of Montreal Presbytery of the United Church today, "must rule and settle all those questions" involving annulment of mixed marriages in Quebec.

The civil law, he declared, "cannot be evaded, thrust aside, made null and void by the particular canon law of any church within our province," and a special meeting would be called shortly to consider the report of a committee named from Montreal Presbytery, charged to study the situation arising from disposition of certain mixed marriages, disputed before the courts on religious grounds.

"The issue to be decided, he added, was whether the civil law or the King over all his subjects in the Dominion or the canon law of the Roman Catholic Church was to obtain in Canada."

"The last thing we want to make of it," said Dr. Ritchie, "is a question of race or religion. I have deep conviction it is not an issue between the English and French-speaking people."

"I don't believe it is an issue between Protestants and Catholics, for we are seeking to make it clear we don't want to deal with this question merely as a Protestant question arising from brethren in the Roman Catholic Church."

"It has come to be an issue between civil law and the canon law of the Roman Catholic Church as some people desire to see that canon law administered."

NEW WHEAT BOARD NAMED

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) OTTAWA, Dec. 3.—The Canadian Wheat Board has been reorganized with James R. Murray of Winnipeg, as Chairman, George H. McIvor, of Winnipeg, Vice-Chairman, and Dean A. M. Shaw, of Saskatoon, third member. It was announced tonight by Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

At the same time the Minister announced the new board will initiate a policy of selling wheat "to have our surplus restored to a normal basis." But, he added, there will be no "fire sale" of wheat. It will be for sale at competitive values and will not be held at exorbitant premiums over other wheats.

The advisory wheat board of seven farmers, millers and grain men, established by the Bennett Government, has been abolished. Mr. Euler announced.

Appointment of the new personnel was made at a meeting of Cabinet Council late today. Action was taken following receipt of resignations of John I. McFarland, D. L. Smith and H. C. Grant, all of Winnipeg, named to the Board by the former Bennett administration last August.

Mr. Murray has been vice-president and general manager of the Alberta Pacific Wheat Company. Associated with former Chairman McFarland for several years, Mr. McIvor has been manager of the selling agency of the Board. Dean Shaw is head of the faculty of agriculture of the University of Saskatchewan.

Opposition Church Defies Nazi Edict

(A.P. By Guardian's Special Wire) BERLIN, Dec. 3.—Leaders of the German Protestant Confessional Synod, following with action their announced defiance of Nazi dictation, ordained five ministers today.

The government took no action to disturb the ceremony in suburban St. Anna's Church, in spite of the announcement by Hans Kerrl, head of the Department of Church Affairs, that the Synod could not induct ministers.

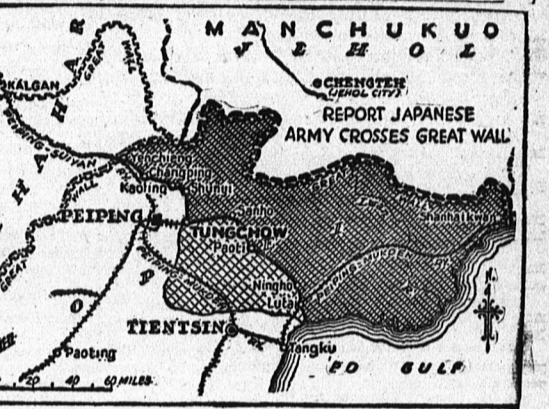

The ordination followed a declaration by a spokesman for the Confessional Synod that its members would not abide by Kerrl's ruling, which took from them all administrative and authoritative rights.

Several hundred members of the Synod heard the Rev. Otto Diehlus tell the ministerial candidates: "We do not know what hardships the near future may have in store for us but we shall cling to our God."

Describes Difficulty In War Zone

(C. P. By Guardian's Special Wire) NEW YORK, Dec. 3.—Robinson McLean, correspondent of the Toronto Evening Telegram in Ethiopia, in a broadcast speech tonight from Addis Ababa described some of the difficulties confronting Italy's soldiers in their campaign in that country. A transcript of the speech was released here by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

He described the desertion to Ethiopia of a band of native sentries from the Italian forces. McLean said one deserter, Tuluksa Basha, told him as he lay on a hospital bed at Dessye his biggest ambition was "to chop Mussolini's neck with my sword. Then I'd like to eat his meat."

McLean told of a single-handed capture of a tank in Ogaden by an 18-year-old Ethiopian, Abdul Kim. An Ethiopian scout, Kim, claimed he ran up behind a tank, smashed a bottle of gasoline on the back of it and then set it afire. When its two occupants jumped out to escape the heat, he shot them.

"The Italians have found that tough men and tough mountains can make a war not only long but doubtful," said the correspondent. He predicted the war would drag on until the rainy season began again and would be resumed when it ceased, unless events in Europe brought it to a halt sooner.
