FLARING AND DARING

The tendency is for the latest fashion to be really new looking. The static silhouette has lost the day to one that is full of swing and movement, with the result that mid-evening clothes in up-to-date centers are looking very different from the way they did this time last year and the year before. And isn't it rather pleasant to be ordering something refreshingly different. For so many seasons now we have been merely duplicating last year's dress that we liked.

Now skirts are shorter, just how much shorter you will realize by unearthing a two-year-old skirt that somehow escaped shortening last winter. Paris kept skirts ten inches from the ground for daytime through several seasons. Now they are sneaking up again. Twelve inches is quite long enough for most people, but thirteen is better if your proportions will stand it. Thirteen permits you to have your longcoat twelve or twelve-and-one-half inches from the ground and still cover your dress.

Nothing marks a coat or a dress as dating from last year so conclusively as to have it half-way down the calves of the leg. This new length has made the new width possible. Short skirts may flare at the hem where longer ones would be dowdy.

"In an effort to banish these fraudulent practices from the provinces so that the public will not become victims of swindle," Mr. Smith stated the executive and members of the M. P. P. A. are making the earnest request to persons that are approached by agents purporting to conduct any such photographic racket to get in touch immediately with the local police or R. C. M. P.

(The latter "racket" was worked successfully in this city some two years ago).

Union Head Agrees To Evacuate Plants

LANSING, Mich., March 24—Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan announced tonight that John L. Lewis, head of the committee or industrial organization, agreed to withdraw striking members of the United Automobile Workers of America from eight Chrysler Corporation plants at Detroit.

The Governor's announcement followed an all-day meeting with Walter P. Chrysler, chairman of the Corporation's board, and Lewis and other representatives of each side.

Gov. Murphy said the Labor Leader agreed to have the strikers evacuate "probably before morning" and that instructions to that effect were being sent to Union officials.

COURT FINDS EVIDENCE TOO WEAK

An unusual occurrence took place in Magistrate Darby's court at Summerside recently, which proved lucky for the accused but placed the officials in an embarrassing position. Two men were brought before the magistrate by members of the R.C.M.P., having been arrested on the highway. One was charged with operating a car with defective lights and was fined $2 and costs. Another was charged with having liquor in his possession. The officer in making the charge produced a bottle which he stated he had taken off the young man's person. The magistrate asked the usual question of the accused, did he plead guilty or not guilty. The young man hesitated a moment and answered "not guilty."

In the face of the charge just laid by the prosecution the magistrate was puzzled and thought the young man did not understand the charge and told him to answer the question again. The accused hesitated for some few minutes and then asked the magistrate if he could be allowed to taste the contents of the bottle before he answered this time. The magistrate gave permission. After taking a drink the accused again pleaded "not guilty". Questioned further the prisoner replied that there was only water in the bottle and asked the R.C.M.P. officer if he refused the offer, not wanting to risk what he thought to be firewater and suggested sending the contents of the bottle to Ottawa to be analyzed.

Magistrate Darby, however, offered to "risk it" and took a drink himself. His verdict was that it was "just water," and dismissed the charge.

The officer is still puzzled, as he was quite sure that he smelt liquor when he made the arrest.

Magistrate Darby held court at Alberton on Tuesday and disposed of several prohibition cases. As a result four more prisoners were brought down to the county jail to serve terms. The magistrate also heard the case against Henry Richard, Tignish, on a charge of breaking and entering with criminal intent. The accused elected to be charged summarily. After hearing the evidence the magistrate reserved judgment. The prohibition docket was three parties from Tignish charged with consuming intoxicating liquor. Two were fined ten dollars and costs or ten days. They took the days. The third party, fined 15 dollars or twenty days, paid the fine. A fourth case from Tignish was adjourned. A man from Ebbesfleet charged with selling was found guilty and fined $200 and costs or three months. He took the months. This case lasted some time. Another case of selling from Westport brought a fine of $200 or three months in which the party decided on the months.

ORANGES ARE VALUABLE

A century ago oranges were a luxury—to be enjoyed chiefly at the holiday season. When they did appear on the breakfast table on those days, usually only half an orange was served to a person.

What would the people of that day say to the general classes of child orange juice that Canadians and Americans now consume almost daily to make sure of getting enough vitamins and other protective elements? Or what would they say to the two tablespoons of orange juice a day that every well-fed baby now has from early infancy or to the countless ingenious ways we use oranges on the table, in sauces, desserts, and preserves? And what would they think of buying oranges by the bushel, basket or crate?

Some of the increased demand for oranges is due to their excellent rating with the nutritionist who have helped to spread information about the place of oranges in the well-rounded diet. A medium-sized orange a day, or its equivalent, for everybody sums up the recommendations of the nutrition specialists in this point. The citrus fruits, and oranges in particular, are the richest sources of vitamin C we have. As they are commonly used without cooking, all the vitamin C value is obtained—that is, if the oranges are not cut or squeezed for juice until just before they are served. Exposure of the juice to air lessens the vitamin C content and changes the flavor. Oranges are also a fair source of vitamins B and G.

WHEN BUYING ORANGES

When the housewife goes to buy oranges she has her choice of smaller or larger ones, running from 126 to 216 to the box. Those that pack 176 to 200 to the box are good family sizes, but sometimes the small, thin-skinned oranges contain plenty of juice and are good bargains.

Oranges sold in colored net bags are usually marked as "150's" or "216's" or the number of fruit in the bag is given.

The best quality oranges are firm, heavy with juice, and have a fine, textured skin for the variety. Florida and Texas oranges are sometimes "russet" in color. This though taken by surprise, very fittingly replied.—D.

HOLMAN'S SUMMERSIDE

Markets To Close For Easter-tide

NEW YORK, March 24—Important financial markets throughout the world began preparations today for one to four days closings in connection with Easter-tide.

Both in the United States and abroad Good Friday is to be a universal holiday for leading exchanges and commodity futures markets including those in New York, Chicago, New Orleans, London, Liverpool, Paris and the chief Canadian centres.

The New York Stock Exchange, Curb Exchange, Produce Exchange and the Chicago Board of Trade are among those observing only a single holiday, reopening Saturday as usual.

Some of the United States markets which also will observe Saturday as a holiday include, at New York, the coffee & sugar and the cocoa exchanges.

European and Canadian suspension of trading will generally last until Tuesday morning although the Winnipeg grain market will open as usual Saturday and Monday.

does not affect the flavor, nor do surface blemishes like slight scars or scratches. Soft wet spots mean decay, which cannot be cut away as in some fruit. Putty, spongy, lightweight round oranges should be avoided as they are likely to be deficient in juice and flavor. The "kid-glove" types, however, like tangerines, satsumas, kumquats and mandarin oranges are exceptions in respect to a loose, puffy skin, but the juiciest ones will be fairly heavy for their size.

GERMS DON'T LIKE FRESH AIR SO BE SURE TO VENTILATE

A good deal of the responsibility for correct living rests upon the housewife. It is she who has the preparation of meals, the supervision of the home and the bringing up of the younger generation. It is no light task. It requires brains, good temper and good health. The housewife cannot hope to have any of these if she neglects herself.

Disease is aided and abetted by insanitation. Cooking utensils must be kept scrupulously clean, especially those used by very young children.

They have not had the time to develop much natural protection against invading organisms and they are the first to suffer from almost any form of uncleanness. Mother should see that the children wash their hands before meals.

The skin covering the body requires regular cleansing, too. It is not only a protective covering; it is part of the system which deals with the getting rid of waste products just as are the bowels, kidneys and breath.

These waste products cannot pass out of the pores if the latter are blocked. Not only so, but skin which is dirty and, therefore, harbors germs is much more likely to heal slowly when injured. Small cuts and scratches which would ordinarily heal quickly are common.

Ventilation of bedrooms and living rooms is also important. Some people like a stuffy atmosphere indoors. This condition is dangerous especially when "flu" is about, because the protective lining membrane of the nose becomes congested and cannot act properly. Fresh air will destroy many germs and is one of the most effective measures for disinfecting rooms where cases of infectious disease have been nursed. Fresh air and sunlight pouring through wide-open windows quickly kill germs.

Open fires and gas fires, with good exits for fumes, act as efficient ventilators, provided there is a sufficient air entry to the room. Draughts, of course, must be avoided, for these frequently lead to chills, but usually there is little difficulty in screening the air as it comes into the room.
