LOUIS-BAER FIGHT AT PRINCE EDWARD THEATRE FRI-SAT.

JOE LOUIS (Heavyweight Champion)

At a special week-end feature for sport fans throughout Prince Edward Island the Prince Edward Theatre has added to the Friday-Saturday screen program the film that caught everything that took place at the ringside of the JOE LOUIS - BUDDY BAER heavy-weight championship fight several weeks ago.

This most controversial fist encounter has baffled all sport fans. Joe Louis with his eye busted open by Buddy Baer, who was knocked clear out of the ring--his feet high in the air--the first time this has happened to any champion since 1926 when it occurred to Jack Dempsey at the Madison Square Garden.

SEA VIEW AND VICINITY The majority of the farmers are about through with their seeding except those who have low land and the exceedingly wet season has left this in a very wet condition.

A number of the young people from this community, who are visiting the French River and attended the play put on by the French River Dramatic Club...

The fishermen suffered some inconvenience owing to the heavy storm at sea recently. The storm tangled and destroyed much of their fishing gear...

Mr. William Adams and Mr. Roy Adams were business visitors to Charlottetown recently.

The hall at Sea View was filled to its utmost capacity on Monday night and listened with a great deal of appreciation to the Kensington Players present their play "The Swastika Betrayal"...

Mr. John E. Cousins has been hauling the surplus of his potato crop to the starch factory at Hunter River. During the past week Mr. Cousins is making preparations to plant a large acreage of potatoes again this year.

Mr. John Cousins spent a few days recently with friends in Charlottetown.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bayer and little sons spent Sunday in Sea View the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Donald.

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Murphy and sons, Max and Wallace, accompanied by Miss Lillian McLeod, spent Sunday in New Glasgow the guests of Mrs. Albert Stewart.

Mr. Edwin Murphy spent a few days during the past week in Charlottetown.

Mrs. Minnie Campbell was a recent visitor to Sea View the guest of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Campbell.

Mr. Archibald Woodside has returned to his home in Malpeque after spending a prolonged visit with friends in Vancouver, B. C. and other Canadian cities.

Dr. William Sutherland Vancouver, B. C. is spending a pleasant visit at his home here, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Sutherland. It is several years since Dr. Sutherland visited this province and he doubtless sees many changes and misses many old friends who have passed away.

Mr. D. M. Wilson, Amherst, N.S. was a recent business visitor to Sea View.

A large number of friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace MacNutt, Darnley, to tender a farewell reception for their son, Albert who was leaving the following morning for military duty in Toronto.

Mr. George Thompson is spending a few days furlough at his home in Darnley, the guest of his father Mr. William Thompson.

Miss Gladys Adams Summers de, spent a pleasant visit at her home in Sea View.

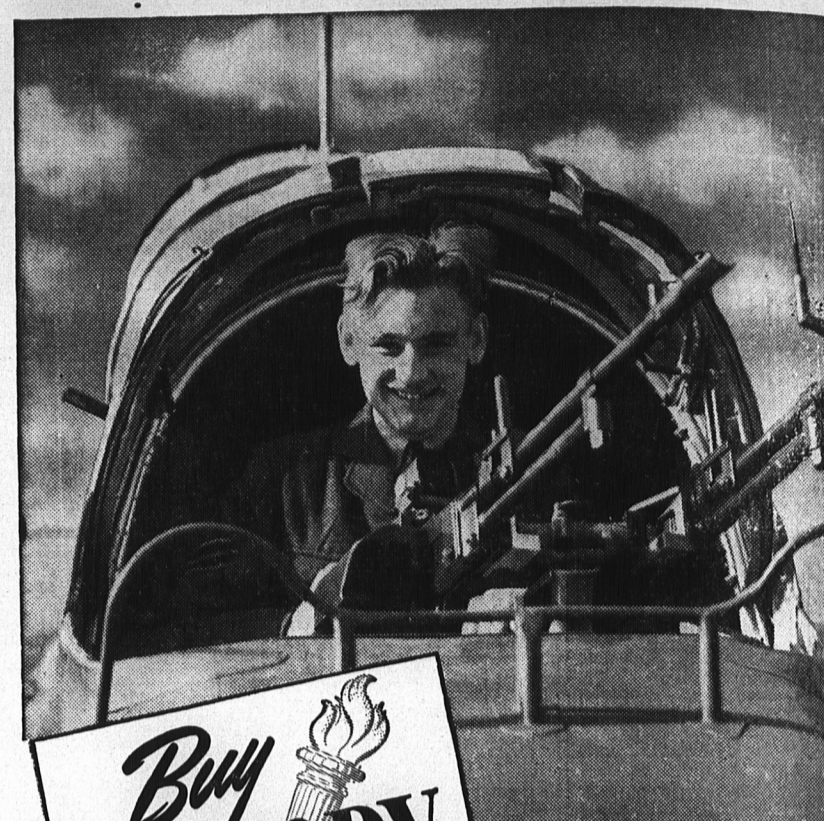

Several from Summerside were visitors to Sea View on Wednesday afternoon and spent the half holiday morning round the beaches and greatly enjoyed it.

A basement is not necessary when a house is heated with mechanically circulated hot water. This fact is particularly significant to the family in moderate circumstances who wish to effect all possible economies in the construction of a low cost house.

Modern hot water heating plants may be equipped with a pump which forces the water to the radiators, irrespective of their location above, below or on a level with the boiler.

Save On Excavations In the typical low cost house, however, the boiler is placed in a special utility room, which also serves as a laundry, or in the garage adjoining the house.

Save On Excavations

In the typical low cost house, however, the boiler is placed in a special utility room, which also serves as a laundry, or in the garage adjoining the house.

The fact that the water is mechanically circulated not only makes it possible to save money on excavation and foundation costs, but it also effects economies in the heating plant itself.

Whereas a gravity-type hot water plant might require main lines with a diameter of three inches, a plant operating with forced circulation would require only one or one and one-half inches in diameter.

Cracked Dishes It is poor economy to keep cracked dishes, even for dishes to hold leftovers. Cracked dishes collect germs which may be drawn out by hot foods put into the dish. It is safer to discard the cracked plate at once.

The Virgin Spring

BY ERMA A. BAIN

A story told me recently concerning a clear, crystal stream of water in southern Scotland, bearing a similar title to this article, has led me to conclude the following which I have purposefully put down as an encouragement to you.

Beyond the wall, falling slowly and silently, are splashing the big drops, gaining momentum with increasing velocity. Never has mother earth looked so resplendent after such a warm rainfall, never has mother earth looked so positively virgin, and never has artist made canvas glow with spring's softness as it glows today.

Yonder bathes the grass, draughting atom by atom of nutriment, sufficed only when a portrayal of the velvet carpet catches the breath of the casual traveller.

Yet still remain fragments of that earlier, and fast fading season, for the shady nooks remain unopened by Sol's imperfect rays. Albeit treated by Sol's imperfect rays, Albeit treated by Sol's imperfect rays, Albeit treated by Sol's imperfect rays.

Down in the valley the tree trunks stand as spires, pointed, silent, receptive. In a short time now that reddish tint shall give place to a spotted foliage, dancing and swinging.

To the nostril of the nature lover, the very air is intoxicating; to the soul, a pastoral balm. And restful to the eye - comes the green carpeted meadow - soursed with red soil and flanked with hilly groves nesting scraggle with a moody harshness, lingering to the southern melody, wakened to the spirit of the traveller.

New south - a winding ribbon of stream melts into the distance "Elliot's" or the peculiar species of curving which one is familiar with (save the spelling); and bordered on either side with broad and fertile fields. How winter has turned it into a blue and moving melody! Or by boat if one desires - how one may steel between wooded hills to burst suddenly into open country where vision could not fail to acquaint one with an old and settled populace, quaint and quiet.

There too is the red road stretching like a thread to bear the traveller along with his fancy. There, too, are brooks innumerable, teeming with the spotted trout which await as a tempting bait for the keenest angler and sportsman.

In this "million acre farm" the "Virgin Spring" has no contemorary. All is park and garden. All is of nature's handiwork, where the vegetation may peacefully and profitably take leisure.
