U. S. Draft Law To Expire March 31

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(CP)—President Truman told Congress today to let the United States draft law die March 31 but gave notice a renewal will be sought later if voluntary recruiting fails to keep 1,641,000 under arms.

The army announced simultaneously that it will discharge 400,000 draftees remaining in its ranks—those in the United States and those overseas by June 30—making it entirely a volunteer force.

The Navy has already released all draftees.

City Cousins Enjoy Barn Dance Revival

MONTREAL, March 3.—(CP)—Country folk, who in the past have regarded folk dancing as their exclusive pastime, are finding that city cousins are joining in the post-war revival of barn dances.

In Montreal, the McGill University Outing Club and home and school associations have dipped into history, as far back as the 16th century, to re-establish the country traditions of internationally-known dances.

Some years ago, Prof. Charles W. Hendel of Yale University, former dean of the faculty of arts and science at McGill, and many other folk dance followers practised reels, quadrilles, and other dances in the Montreal High School. This activity lapsed during the war.

It has been revived, with new vigor, on the campus where the McGill Outing Club maintains a school of old-time dances, headed by Dorothy Douglas, one of a few women "callers." Trained in physio-physical education, Miss Douglas, who comes from Pittsfield, Mass., maintains the noticeable New England traditions of country dances.

The quadrille, which spread like wildfire through Europe years ago, was once the favorite of kings and princes. Now the mastery of barn dances, it embodies military movements set to music and the callers drill the 50 or more dancers with precision.

Physical education experts have remarked on the potentialities of folk dancing to foster health through physical recreation.

John G. Lang, past president of the Canadian Physical Education Association and a physical education supervisor in Greater Montreal Protestant Schools, explains the function of folk dancing as that of a great democratic movement.

Yesterday's Kids Boost Boys' Club

WINDSOR, Ont., March 3.—(CP)—Nine small boys sat on a dusty curb in downtown Windsor on a summer day in 1918 and pondered the adventurous, favorite question of most small boys—"What'll we do today?" They decided on baseball. With the enthusiasm of 12-year-olds they tangled with a well-drilled team at Assumption College. Who won, nobody remembers.

But people do recall that game as the uncertain start of the Mic-Mac Athletic Club, now a well-established organization through whose efforts scores of Windsor boys now have the answer to "What'll we do today?" The club's main project for the last two years has been juvenile baseball—10 teams of 15, 16 and 17-year-olds slugging it out three nights a week in five city parks.

Now, almost 29 years after its street-corner start, the Mic-Mac club is a group of professional and business men, industrialists, working men, ministers, priests. They have one thing in common—they think "kids are terrific."

Kinsmen Capture City Juvenile Title With 6-5 Victory

In one of the hardest, most ruggedly fought encounters played at the Forum this season, Bill Coyne's Kinsmen Juveniles last night captured the City Juvenile title when they downed Buck White's Abbies 6-5 in the fourth and deciding game of an original best-of-three series, the extra contest being made necessary after each team had come through with a win and a draw in the three previous tussles.

Heavily favored to take the series in straight games, Kinsmen struck a tarax in the Abbies' squad and last night it was only in the last six minutes of play they were able to punch home the goals that gave them their title. Twice in the first two periods they held the lead but the losers came roaring back in the latter part of the middle session to take the lead; the third and final period was half over with the Abbies hanging on tenaciously when Kinsmen shot the tying counter as an Abbie player rested in the penalty box and then as the losers opened wide in an effort to again take over the new champions broke through for two goals in the space of 12 seconds to seal their verdict. The courageous band of Abbies kept plugging away but the best they could do was shoot a counter in the last 33 seconds to draw up to within one goal of their fast-tiring opponents.

Goals by Larter and Bevins before the halfway mark of the first period had been reached gave Kinsmen a 2-0 lead but in the last five minutes Abbies knotted the count on markers from the sticks of Caldwell and McInnis.

Beardy sent the Kinsmen ahead for the second time 43 seconds after the start of the middle canto but two goals 11 seconds apart

N.B.-P.E.I. Intercollegiate Hockey Title At Stake In Tonight's Game At Forum

Facing a five goal deficit but still confident that they can overcome the deficit, St. Thomas University from Chatham, N.B. tonight will take on the St. Dunstan's University team tonight at the Forum in the final game to decide the New Brunswick-Prince Edward Island intercollegiate title.

Despite the margin they will enter the game with Saints are by no means over-confident. They have plenty respect for the light but fast St. Thomas squad and are looking forward to a tough battle of it all the way.

Saints will use the same lineup that played at St. Thomas while the visitors are expected to again rely upon their same band of purchasers.

The game will get underway at 8:30 sharp and once again the fans are reminded that the no smoking rule will be strictly enforced.

Father McDonald at St. Dunstan's University said late last night that he had received a message from the Chatham team. They started to P. E. I. by car yesterday but bogged down after they had gone 20 miles. Now they plan to make another start this morning and hope to catch the 3 o'clock boat at Tormentine.
