Gold Medals

Mr. Charles Hines and Mr. Lambert Spencer of Charlottetown were presented with gold medals for 25 years continuous membership in the Brotherhood of Railway Car-men of America at a meeting of the local branch yesterday. It was the first time such an award had been made to anyone in the province.

The presentation, made by Chairman Brother Alfred Egan, machinist, on behalf of the grand lodge of the Brotherhood Railway Car-men of America, was made before officers and members of the federated trades including boiler-makers, machinists, blacksmiths, roundhouse men, pipe fitters, sheet metal workers and carmen. Brother James H. McKenna of the local committee read the following address:

Mr. Lambert Spencer,
Mr. Charles Hines,
Dear Sirs and Brothers:—
"In learning that you have been a member of this great organization for twenty-five continuous years we, as the present officers of this local, could not let the occasion go by without showing you in some degree of acknowledgement our appreciation of the interest you have shown in trying to improve the conditions of the masses through the medium of trade union route and also in so doing you have given bountiful support and encouragement to your leaders in trying years which have passed since 1911 or the last quarter century.

"Space will not allow, neither would it appear proper in this brief letter of congratulations upon your receiving a twenty-five year Medallion, to enumerate in detail the numerous benefits both in working conditions and increases in wages that have been attained through organization methods and which we are sure could not have been brought about without our trade unions.

"We present you at this time on behalf of the Grand Lodge of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen for America with this beautiful Medallion upon having been a faithful member of this organization for twenty-five continuous years.

"I sincerely hope that you will treasure this gift and that its possession will enable you to always remember the benefits you have derived from the purpose it represents, also your many associates with whom you came in contact within the movement during your period of membership.

"Hoping you will continue to remain as a member of our Brotherhood, and that you will have success and happiness during the years to come.

Fraternally and sincerely yours is believed such a defence force could repel an invasion of any enemy that had to travel by ocean to attack this country.

Within a few weeks a date will be set when the old order of militia forces will pass out and the new mechanized system takes its place. The change will be made probably before the end of the year. Work has been going on for many months.

Approximately $5,000,000 more will be spent on the three services this year than last. The 1935-36 estimates were $28,400,000, of which $8,317,000 was for relief camps, leaving a balance of $20,083,000 for the services and capital expenditures.

The 1936-37 estimates totalled $27,727,000, of which $2,770,000 was for relief camps and the balance of $24,957,000 for services and capital expenditures. Landing fields built by relief camp workers will fit in with any defence scheme which plans the mobilization of the entire flying force on either coast.

Held No Discussion

LONDON, Oct. 21—(CP Cable)—Asked by The Canadian Press today whether plans for Canada's national defence were being considered at the moment, Prime Minister King said: "Since arriving in Europe I have not discussed a defence plan with any person at any time."

Nothing Definite

NEW YORK, Oct. 21—(CP)—Defence Minister Mackenzie was reticent when queried today on details of possible plans for Canada's defence. He said only: "The question of coastal defence has been discussed for months. When something definite is decided the Government's plans will be disclosed in parliament."

night officially informed the Limerick harbor board that Foyne-on-Shannon would be the site of the new transatlantic airline base. Simultaneously the Galway Harbor Commissioners protested against the ban on employment of their port as a base for the Luft-hansa service, as requested by the German Government on Oct. 10 and refused owing to the Anglo-Canadian-American arrangement for a jointly operated transatlantic line.

The Limerick Board will appoint representatives to confer with Free State officials here next week on details of the new base.

law and Foreign Minister, Count Galeazzi Ciano was in Berlin awaiting conferences with Chancellor Hitler.

As far as the League of Nations was concerned, it was reliably reported, Italy and Germany stood for a reorganization plan that would be virtually a directorate of great powers to administer the collective security of Europe.

Germany it was reported, agreed to return to the League fold only if such a plan were effected.

Both nations also wish a new Locarno Treaty based on the old one, it was said, which included France, Belgium, Great Britain, Germany and Italy. Both nations were reliably understood to have rejected a British proposal to divide the Treaty into two pacts, one for Northern and the other for Southern Europe.

The Danubian regions would be split into zones of commercial influence under the German-Italian accords.

CONVENTION

AMHERST, N.S., Oct. 21—(CP)—A group of Maritime fishermen have become the world's largest producers of canned lobsters, it was said today in the director's report to the convention here of United Maritime Fishermen, a co-operative organization.

Five new factories were opened last year by groups of fishermen banded together for "study, organization and co-operation" bringing the total number of plants operated by branches of the union to 22.

Improved methods of production and marketing led to increased co-operative buying of gear and supplies through the organization's central office and other agencies, and each fisherman gained "great advantage" over his former method of individual bargaining, the director's report said.

In the last three years, membership in the United Maritime Fishermen had increased 46 per cent despite the withdrawal of Prince Edward Island members who now have their own charter. Supplies bought through the organization increased 60 per cent.

The convention, a group of more than 50 fishermen representing districts chiefly along the north shore of New Brunswick and the east coast of Nova Scotia, was addressed today by Dr. M. M. Coady of the St. Francis Xavier University extension department.

True co-operative enterprise destroyed business of privileged millionaires and substituted a business in which every one was happy and prosperous, he told the group.

No class in Canada had suffered as much through the depression as the fishermen, he said, but strong organization and education of the rank and file had been to their best interests.

Government assistance in the form of subsidies might prove a help at the start to the fishermen, but he held it was really a drawback and they could only achieve their aims by supporting themselves and solving their own fishing problems.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21—(AP)—A "diet" of steel beads was credited today with saving the life of 20-month-old Robert Fowler.

Robert's throat was seriously burned when he mistook a can of lye for food. Scar tissue forming in the esophagus caused the organ to contract so that he could not eat.
