Justice Brought To West Is Theme For New Picture

The Three Mesquiteers' battle for justice against a ruthless gang of western desperadoes, is the theme of the Republic picture, "Raiders of the Range," starring Bob Steele, Tom Tyler, and Rufe Davis, which the Capitol Theatre will present for a three day run beginning today.

At the opening of the picture, this gang is engaged in hampering the efforts the elderly "Doc" Higgins and his pal, "Pop" Travers, are making to promote the drilling of an oil well in their community. The gang leader, Sam Daggett, holds a second option on the oil property and plans to drive the two partners into bankruptcy before they can bring in the well.

The Mesquiteers enter the fray on the side of Higgins and Travers, and soon fight the desperadoes to a standstill. Daggett then strikes back by framing Higgins on a murder charge and having him jailed. From this point on the Mesquiteers match brawn and six-shooters with their opponents in an attempt to free Higgins and prove that Daggett himself is responsible for the murder.

As in previous Three Mesquiteer westerns, the title roles are enacted by Bob Steele as Tucson Smith, Tom Tyler as Stony Brooke, and Rufe Davis as Lullaby Joslyn. Lois Collier has the leading lady role

Fibber McGee's Job Basis Of Fun In Look Who's Laughing

The troubled efforts of Fibber McGee and Molly to persuade an airplane manufacturer to purchase a dilapidated flying field in Wistful Vista form the amusing theme of "Look Who's Laughing" now playing at the Prince Edward Theatre.

Edgar Bergen, Charlie McCarthy and Lucille Ball are co-starred with the popular radio team of Fibber McGee and Molly in this riotous film, which also features such air favorites from the latter's program as Harold Peary as Gildersleeve, Isabel Randolph as Mrs. Uppington and Bill Thompson as Old Timer.

The laugh-provoking story presents McGee as President of the Wistful Vista Chamber of Commerce. To stimulate business in the small town and hoping to put the city on the map, he leads a campaign to induce the Horton Airplane Company to buy the town's tumbledown airfield for a factory site. His efforts, however, are opposed by the shady Gildersleeve who sides with the tycoon of a rival town. When Edgar Bergen and his protege, Charlie McCarthy, make a forced landing in their plane and are befriended by the McGees, they interest themselves in McGee's struggle and finally are instrumental in putting over the important deal for him.

Lucille Ball has the romantic lead opposite Bergen as his faithful secretary, while Dorothy Lovett, Lee Bonnell, Neil Hamilton and Charles Halton have prominent supporting roles. Allan Dwan directed and produced for RKO Radio.

"Fly By Night" Is Fun-Filled Mystery Film

Lively with laughs, thrills and action, Paramount's exciting romantic comedy of murder, maynem and mystery, "Fly By Night," opens at the Empire Theatre tonight.

Starring Richard Carlson and pretty Nancy Kelly, the picture's plot revolves around the adventures of a young doctor and a girl innocently entangled in a spy plot. One of the gang's victims is slain in Carlson's room. Falsely accused of murder, he evades the police by breaking into Miss Kelly's apartment and literally kidnapping her. The film hits a fast and funny pace as the stars race from one hilarious and hair-raising experience to another in their quest for the real killers.

"Fly By Night" is a merry blend of murder, mystery, romance and fun. Carlson does a magnificent job with a rich role. Known as a capable romantic actor, he reveals himself in this lively film to be just as capable a comedian. Miss Kelly is exciting as well as gorgeous and is responsible for more than her share of laughs.

In the able supporting cast the work of the famous Continental character actor, Albert Basserman, is outstanding. Martin Kosleck, Nestor Paiva, Edward Gargan, Michael Morris and Miles Mander contribute mightily to the picture's general excellence. In short, "Fly By Night" is fast, furious and funny. It's well worth a visit.

CROPPING TIME NEAR—Prospects are that farmers will be able to get on the land by the end of the first week in May — which would be an early start — it was stated by Dr. J. A. Clark, Superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Farm here, last night. At present the land is getting firm but is not in condition yet to commence cropping, he said. A year ago this Saturday the first grain was planted at the Farm last spring but the month of April 1941 was much dryer than the same period this year. However, the snow which visited the province this month could well be considered "the poor man's fertilizer", Dr. Clark declared. He explained that analyses of this snow proved that it contained a good quantity of nitrogen. He advised farmers to get their fencing done and their orchards pruned now so as to avoid any loss of time when cropping gets underway.

WOOL SUPPLY DOWN — The local Red Cross Society, in common with other Red Cross Societies in Canada and organizations where wool is distributed among volunteer knitters, is facing a reduction in supplies of wool. This is caused by a rationing system imposed on the mills and other distributing centres. The retail outlets are being restricted in the amount delivered as a result. Wool for knitting purposes could always be obtained in whatever quantities were desired up until recently. The large proportion of Canada's wool supplies comes from Australia and New Zealand and shipments from this area have been curtailed because of the war in the Pacific, it was recently pointed out by Mr. William King, Secretary of the Canadian Society of Textile Colorists and Chemists. It was also pointed out that a recent Order-in-Council had called for a cut in consumption of wool in Canada of from 30 to 50 per cent because of the growing scarcity of supplies.

ODD STOCKINGS MADE EVEN

Almost every girl has some odd stockings that she hates to throw away, but can't wear because they don't match. Consider the problem solved. Get color remover and stocking dye. When you use the color remover, follow the package directions, but be particularly careful to use warm—not hot—water. In ten minutes when the color is removed, rinse the stockings in cool water and dye them. Remember that the stockings will dry several shades lighter than they appear when wet and gauge the color accordingly. These stockings will need extra special care so give them a daily dip in gentle, lukewarm suds.

SPRING SUIT LEADS DOUBLE LIFE

Want to lead a double life with a single suit? Then equip yourself with a complete supply of blouses, tailored and frilly, printed and plain, and rotate them with the mood of the moment. In the morning be a business girl with a crisp tailored shirt of cotton broadcloth or rayon sharkskin. After five switch to a confection of lace and frills, and be a clinging vine. For a change try a gay printed crepe with a splashy design of cabbage roses or giant carnations, and, if you like, wear a turban to match.

Painful, Pus Filled Boils the Cause of Much Misery

If you suffer from boils you know how sick and miserable they made you feel.

Boils are an outward indication of impurities in the system, and just when you think you are rid of one another crops up to take its place and prolong your misery. All the lancing and poulticing you can do may not stop more coming.

To help overcome boils you should purify the blood, so why not give that old, reliable blood medicine, Burdock Blood Bitters, a chance to show what it will do in helping you get rid of them? Thousands have used it for this purpose for the past 60 years. Why not you?

wrecks and failures they are going to make of their lives. He knows life disciplines with a hard hand those whose parents have not disciplined them in childhood.

But he says he can do nothing about it, for his wife interferes in his every effort to control them and makes such scenes when he tries to punish them that the only way he can keep peace in the family is to take no part in the rearing of the children, but leave them entirely in her hands.

The father's heart breaks over the fate their mother is preparing for his children, but he feels that he is helpless. But that is not true. Individuals are well as nations can revolt and throw off the yoke of their tyrants, and there isn't a henpecked husband and father in the length and breadth of the land who couldn't regain his freedom and establish himself as head of the house if he had the intestinal fortitude to put up even one good fight against his wife. And his wife would love him and respect him more for doing it, for every woman has a contempt for the man who is afraid of her.

No father would stand idly by and beat his breast while he watched his beloved child being murdered by its crazy mother, but that would be a kinder thing to do than to watch a silly mother ruining a child's life and slaying its soul without making an effort to save it.

MIXED MARRIAGES

DEAR MISS DIX—I am very much worried about my young daughter, now in college, who is becoming quite serious about a boy who has an entirely different religion from our own. His parents are also opposed to this friendship on the same grounds, and they are doing everything they can to stop it. There is no talk of marriage as yet. Do you think such a marriage could be a success? Should I try to prevent it? How should I go about breaking up the friendship? What should I do?
MRS. S. E. C.

ANSWER—Do nothing. Keep your hands off of the young couple. Let them work things out for themselves. Parents opposition even beats propinquity as a matchmaker.

So far you have no indication that your daughter and the young man are in love with each other or have the slightest intention of ever getting married.

In these days when boys and girls go to school together from their kindergarten days up and play together and work side by side, they are far less sentimental than they used to be in Grandma's time when the two sexes were segregated almost from the cradle, and every boy was expected to have serious intentions when he paid a girl any attentions. Hence, many boys and girls nowadays are able to enjoy a friendship based upon long association and similar tastes and interests, without ever having any romantic yearnings towards each other.

Of course, a difference in religion can ruin a marriage if either the husband or wife is fanatical about his or her creed. But nowadays most young people are more liberal in their views about such matters than their grandparents were, and there are thousands of happy marriages in which husbands and wives grant each other the right that even the Constitution guarantees, of worshipping God according to the dictates of their own consciences.

GET HER SOME NEW CLOTHES

DEAR MISS DIX—I have a discontented and broken-hearted daughter who is very melancholy because the young man to whom she was engaged broke his promise to marry her. This has upset her very much and she takes it out on the family. Is there anything we can do about it?
A. B. C.

ANSWER—Not a thing, unless you can make the girl see how lucky she is that her boy-friend found out that he was tired of her before marriage instead of afterwards. Tell her to buck up and get some new clothes and go out and hunt up another beau. There is just as good fish in the sea you know.
