

The Bridge of Sighs

At the gate of a cemetery there is a certain bridge—"A Bridge of Sighs". Many a widow passes over it to return to a home from which Death has taken husband and father.

Death is not a tragedy. Tragedy strikes the living—those who are bereft of their natural provider.

No life insurance policy can take the place of a husband and father, but the proceeds of it will relieve a family from distress until they are able to adjust themselves to new conditions.

We invite enquiries from men who desire advice concerning the right type of life insurance protection. Write for our pamphlet entitled "No Matter What Happens". It is most interesting.

CARBINES RECOVERED.—Two .22 caliber carbines which were stolen from West Kent school last Sunday, were recovered by the police yesterday morning. The carbines were left on the verandah of Mr. L. G. McDonald, customs officer, 37 Brighton Avenue. Mr. McDonald on discovering same, which were neatly wrapped in a bag, immediately notified the police. The carbines were returned yesterday.

ENJOYABLE PARTY.—A very enjoyable party was held at the home of Mr. J. E. Cullen, for a party from Charlottetown, P.E.I. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grant, of Sydney, Mr. and Mrs. Egan, Sydney Mines. The Misses Blanchard, Charlottetown, Mr. Diamond and Mr. Blanchard, also of Charlottetown, Miss Walsh, Bridgeport. Music was furnished by Mr. M. McInnis and Mr. Blanchard, also Mr. Oliver and Mrs. Oliver Penny. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Dr. Hartigan. The party broke up at a late hour, all voting Mr. and Mrs. McKinnon excellent entertainers. —Glace Bay Gazette.

MAGNIFICENT YACHT IN PORT.—The American yacht Ara, with her owner, Mr. William K. Vanderbilt and party, New York, entered port yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock and dropped anchor off the Railway wharf. The yacht, a magnificent craft, is about 216 feet long and carries a crew of thirty-seven men. She is equipped with the well-known Diesel engines, and has a speed of about 37 knots. Mr. Vanderbilt has just returned from a world cruise, and before returning to New York will spend some time on a shooting expedition in the New Brunswick woods, where he has a lodge. The Ara leaves some time today for Saint John, N.B.

Explorers' 100 Books

"A lending library has been selected for 'Antarctica.' It consists of 100 books, the quota allowed to the 'Discovery' by her equipments for the scientific expedition under Sir Douglas Mawson, which started on August 1.

"Space is precious so that if the ship is frozen in before she leaves Antarctic waters, these 100 books must satisfy the craving of the ship's company of 26 men, from boatwain to marine biologist from cook to captain."

Everyone could probably choose with a little consideration the 100 books which he would like to have with him on a desert island. The Discovery will be for many months; to all intents and purposes, a lonely island with inhabitants representing every shade of education and taste. Of the hundred books which have been chosen with the desire to provide something readable for all the scientists and the crew, the Daily News gives the following summary:—

"First on the list is the 'Encyclopaedia Britannica,' as a final court of appeal to settle all arguments when their use for entertainment is exhausted and the dilettantes are satisfied. The Concise Oxford Dictionary should settle all questions on the fascinating subject of Words. 'Seven was considered a fair proportion to allot to poetry, drama and philosophy. In so small a library with so long a time of use, quantity of matter and smallness of bulk are factors. After Shakespeare's works all the modern play-wrights but one are represented by Harrap's selection, one-act plays of to-day; Shaw is the exception. 'Saint Joan' has caught the selectors' eyes. Masefield's poems are chosen to suit a seafaring company, and the Oxford Book of English Verse provides the classics. The comparatively large number of twenty-four has been given to the History, Travel, and Biography section, with a view to the object of the ship and eight to Popular Science. Polar Exploration naturally preponderates — Scott's 'Voyage of the Discovery', his edited Diaries, Scott's Last Expedition, 'South and the Heart of the Antarctic', by Sir Ernest Shackleton; Wild's 'Voyage of the Quest'; Priestley's 'With Scott in the Antarctic'; 'The Voyage of the Scotia', by three members of the staff; 'Antarctica', by Hayes, and 'Antarctica', by Nordenskjöld; and 'The Teeth of the Blizzard', by the present scientific leader, Sir Douglas Mawson. 'Oceanography, too, is well represented in this section, by 'Depths of the Ocean' (Murray and Hjorth), 'Introduction to Oceanography' (James Johnson), and 'Science of the Sea' (E. J. Allen). Here also are included T. E. Lawrence's 'Revolt in the Desert', Hakluyt's 'Voyages', 'Travels of Marco Polo', Fraser's, 'The Golden Bough' (abridged), Trevelyan's 'History of England', Prescott's 'Conquest of Mexico', Wells' 'History of the World', Pepsy's 'Diary', Boswell's 'Life of Johnson', Lytton Strachey's 'Elizabeth and Essex', and 'Great Short Biographies of the World', a one-volume collection by Messrs. Heinemann. 'For Essays we have Peacock's selection, Mine's 'The Sunny Side', and Mencken's 'Selected Prejudices', 'Neon on the Great Delusion', J. A. G. Watson on Evolution, Flammario's 'Popular Astronomy', and Henry Clay's 'Economics for the General Reader' complete the Popular Science section. The Debatable Section Then comes the most debatable section—Fiction—with 63 books. Cervantes—"Don Quixote." Rabelais—"Unexpurgated Works." Fielding—"Tom Jones." Sterne—"Tristram Shandy."

Scott—48 Complete Stories. Jane Austen—Complete Novels. George Elliot—"Romola." Charles Read—"Cloister and the Hearth." Herman Melville—"Moby Dick." Rolf Boldrewood—"Robbery Under Arms." Ralph Rashleigh—(edited by Lord Birkenhead). R. L. S.—Complete Stories. Dumas—"Count of Monte Cristo." De Maupassant—Works. Borrow—"Lavengro." O. Henry—Short Stories. Harriet Wilson's Memoirs (ed. James Leaver). Meredith—"Diana of the Crossways." Hardy—"Tess of the d'Urbervilles." Tolstol—"War and Peace." Ibanez—"Mare Nostrum." Mark Twain—"The Innocents A-broad." Butler—"Way of All Flesh." Coprad—"Nostramus." Don Byrne—"Hangman's House." Locke—"The Rough Road." Dostoevsky—"The Brothers Karamazov." Merejowski—"The Forerunner." George Moore—"Esther Waters."

W. W. Jacobs—"The Skipper's Wooing." Ian Maclaren—"Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush." Galworthy—"Forsythe Saga." Wells—"A Quartette of Comedies." Arnold Bennett—"Clayhanger." Kipling—"Kim." Chesterton—"The Flying Inn." Barrie—"The Little Minister." Dreiser—"An American Tragedy." Mottram—"Spanish Farm." Philip Gibbs—"Street of Adventure." Willis Cather—"Death Comes for the Archbishop." Rose Macaulay—"Three Novels."

1 vol. "Orphan Island." "Crews Train," "Told by an Idiot." Sinclair Lewis—"Martin Arrowsmith." Romain Rolland—"John Christopher." C. E. Montague—"Fiery Particles." Conan Doyle—"Complete Sherlock Holmes." Rider Haggard—"Allen Quatermain." Raphael Sabatini—"The Sea Hawk." J. J. Bell—"Woe Macgregor." D. K. Broster—"The Flight of the Heron." F. C. Wren—"Beau Ideal." Birmingham—"Spanish Gold."
