THINKS UNION

ed the Canadian Government would submit the terms of possible confederation early in November but what those terms might be the seven men had no knowledge whatever.

There was, moreover, no definite promise that Canada would submit any terms at all. The delegation had been sent to Ottawa to get all the facts on confederation and "we completed that task."

Mr. Higgins, who emphasized "we have brought back no terms," also expected the Canadian Government would make a statement "not later than Nov. 15."

(In Ottawa last week External Affairs Minister St. Laurent said the financial terms of possible union would not be disclosed until there is a full representation in the cabinet. Fisheries Minister Gregg is standing as Government candidate in the Fredericton by-election).

THE BAPTIST CHURCH

Morning worship was conducted by the minister, the Rev. James D. Davison, B.A., D.D., with sermon "Faith in the Church." The Canadian Minister of Veteran's Affairs said, "If the Church can give the moral and spiritual leadership which it gave during the war, now, in our present economic condition, it will be the greatest factor of all." What is the nature of the Church? Not a religious club but a society of believers, drawn together by common convictions and common concerns.

The holy society of believers in our Lord, founded by Him, it is His, held together in His name. The church worships God, worship is the control pivot, before theology and sociology comes doxology. The church looks to itself. Without morbidity it has looked for its own failures and shortcomings, a sign that we are concerned for betterment.

The church looks to the needs of others. There is a spirit in the church of believers impelling us to tell others. The church tries to give Christ to all mankind, it looks to God and responds with worship.

The Communion of the Lord's Supper was celebrated at this service. The morning anthem was "Be Still My Soul."

Evening worship at 7 p.m. was conducted by the minister with sermon "Prejudice and its Antidote." "O Saviour of the World" (Goss) was the evening anthem.

The music of the day was directed by Miss Helen Stewart, A.T.C.M., organist and director of choir.

CHURCH OF SCOTLAND

Rev. Horace F. MacEwen preached on October 5 in the Church of Scotland, taking as text Luke 14: 17, "Come, for all things are now ready." God gives the invitation to men to come to Jesus Christ for salvation, because He has made ready everything for spiritual need. He is always beforehand anticipating human weaknessess and failings, and graciously supplying every lack. His thoughts go before men's comings. He by His determinate counsel and foreknowledge saw fit to send His only begotten Son to die on the cross for men's sins. At the proper time Christ came forth and finished the work of redemption. Everyone is now welcomed, for Jesus said "Him that Cometh unto Me I will in no Wise Cast Out." There is no distinction of caste, color or creed as far as the gospel call is given, for it is given to all men.

Sinners should come at once because everything is in perfect readiness. The feast is prepared. Delay is an insult to the gracious Host. "Behold, now is the accepted time, behold, now is the day of salvation." They are not to wait until they are ready. God may never give them another chance. It is only the wickedness and natural perversity of the human heart that can spurn such a call from the Lord of hosts.

Among those who heard the call, one said, "I have brought a piece of ground, and I must needs go and see it"; another declared, "I have bought five oxen, and I go to prove them." Thus do the riches and cares of this present age blind the eyes of many and keep them from coming to Christ. "The master of the house being angry said to his servant, Go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city, and bring in hither the poor, and the maimed, and the halt and the blind". Only those who realize their need will respond to the gospel invitation. It makes no difference the degree of their sin, for "The blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin." Today we need to hearken to His voice and come to Him.

HISTORIC SYNOD

the Synod one hundred and thirty years ago.

Other Branches

However elements from all the various branches of Presbyterianism are now included in the Synod. The Secession church supplied the nucleus, when the branches of which it consisted merged in 1817, but later the Church of Scotland, and still later the Free Church, and later still the Covenanters, cast in their lot. This merger was easy and natural as from the first the doctrinal standards had been the same, namely Calvinism as embodied in the Confession of John Knox, 1560, and the Westminster Confession of Faith of 1646.

This held as to doctrine, while touching church government, from the beginning, Presbyterianism had prevailed, and was never departed from, that is to say a hierarchy of courts, not of men, was adopted and held to, as founded on and agreeable to the word of God.

Distinctive Features

And herein lie the distinctive denominational features — Calvinism as to doctrine, and Presbyterial as to government, the graduated scale or hierarchy of courts being: Session (the local elders with the minister); Presbytery (all ministers and an elder from each congregation or pastoral charge); Synod (with all ministers and all representative elders of the Presbyteries); General Assembly, with one-sixth of the ministers and elders of the entire church.

The Synod is therefore the third highest of the respective courts, having sovereign rights as touching the Presbytery, the next court below, but being subject to the General Assembly, the next court above, and whose decisions are final. The Pan-Presbyterian Alliance, in which the forty million Presbyterians of the world, are affiliated, has no legislative or governmental functions.

As to times of meeting the Sessions convene at the pleasure of the minister and the local elders; the Presbyteries at periods fixed by themselves generally quarterly; the Synod and the General Assembly annually, and the Pan-Presbyterian Alliance once every four years the next assembling of this latter body, suspended now for ten years on account of the war being Geneva, Switzerland, July, 1948.

The Synod Area

The Synod Area, officially known as the Synod of the Maritime Provinces of The Presbyterian Church in Canada, includes the three Provinces of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, the Gaspe Peninsula of the Province of Quebec, Newfoundland and Bermuda, so it will be seen that the official title is not strictly descriptive of the area included. As a rule representatives are present from all points, Bermuda being the most frequent absentee.

Some Synod statistics show as follows; ministers, 87; preaching stations, 219; communicant members 20,406; families 11,427; elders 219; communicants received during 1946, 914; pupils in Sunday Schools, 8,093; amount raised for missions (1946) $32,906; amount raised for all purposes, $473,458, being a gain of $53,482 over the previous year. The increase for missions over the previous year was $2,767!

During the 22 years, since 1925, when some two-thirds of the membership left the Synod to join the United Church, the communicant membership has grown from 16,802 to the present membership of 20,406. The ministerial increase in the same period has been from 19 to 87.

Historic Highlights

The Synod in its long history of 130 years is not wanting in historic highlights. MacGregor, the apostle of Presbyterianism to the Maritime Provinces — and he visited them all — stands out as pioneer worker and organizer of churches, beginning his activities in 1786. McCulloch, arriving in 1803, has a similarly high place in the educational field, while Geddie leads all Canadian Presbyterianism in the matter of missions by 25 years. Dawson in science, added to the three above, makes up a shining quartette of which any church might well be proud.

All these were of the original stock of the Secession church, while Grant, Principal of Queen's Kingston, grew up in the Church of Scotland branch of the Synod.

It is expected that the new Geddie Book, containing the Centennial Addresses, in which reference is made to all of the above will be on sale, and ready for distribution at the coming meeting.

Public Invited

The opening session of the Synod will be held, as intimated, in St. James' Church this evening, October 7th., at eight o'clock, and to this and the Wednesday evening service the public is invited. Naturally all Presbyterians of the city, and much of the surrounding country will be in attendance.

The Moderator of the General Assembly, Rev. C. H. MacDonald, of Lucknow, Ontario, will be present, also Dr. Robert Johnston of Ottawa, representing the Board of Missions, and Dr. John McNab of the Presbyterian Record. The sessins of the Synod are all open sessions, with the public specially invited to the services of Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, the Moderator of the Assembly giving his formal message at the latter meeting.

The Moderator of the Synod, Rev. D. W. MacDonald, B. A., of Dublin Shore and Mahone Bay, N. S., will preside at the opening session and preach the annual sermon, after which the Synod will be constituted and the new Moderator chosen. At this meeting it is customary for Rev. Frank Baird, D. D., who has filled the office of Clerk of the Synod for twenty-eight years, to report on the work and submit statistics of the Synod for the preceding year.

On Thursday morning at ten o'clock, as the worship for the day, the services will be in Gaelic, and it is hoped that all on the Island who love the ancient and appealing tongue will plan to be present, if possible.

Ontario Man Charged With Shotgun Murder

KINGSTON, Ont., Oct. 5 —(CP)—Clarence Washer, 32-year-old tenant, was charged with murder Saturday following the shotgun killing of Michael Kazma, his 60-year-old landlord, who died in hospital Friday three hours after a shotgun blast ripped his head and face.

Washer was arrested Friday night in a swamp near his home shortly after the dying man was found by a neighbor. He was remanded to Monday.

Police said Kazma was shot at dusk Friday as he dug a sewer behind a house he was building.

Fred Van Hooser, who lives nearby, found Kazma slumped semi-conscious against a wall with blood streaming from his head wounds. Kazma was removed to hospital where he died without regaining consciousness.

A trail of blood indicated that Kazma had staggered nearly 50 yards in an unsuccessful attempt to get help. Nearby, police found an empty cartridge case and a shot-peppered hat. Kazma had nine children ranging in age from 16 to 31 years.

Moderator Has High Praise For Young Members Of Clergy

SAINT JOHN, Oct. 4—Fundamental Christian beliefs are essential to fellowship among ministers and church members, declared Rt. Rev. C. H. MacDonald, Lucknow, Ont., moderator of the Central Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, yesterday in Saint John. Mr. MacDonald, who was in the city as a part of his Eastern Canadian tour, said that there were growing indications of an increasing interest in church and religious life by Canadian people.

There was no great swing to the churches, said the Presbyterian moderator, but he added that there was a growing awareness among church people themselves, and this was beginning to be transmitted to others who had been delinquent in their Christian relations.

Mr. MacDonald had enthusiastic praise for the younger members of the clergy. They have, he said, impressed him deeply with their earnestness, evangelical fervor and zeal in their work. Several young ministers he has met since his appointment in June have preferred to remain with smaller churches struggling to keep their work alive rather than accept calls to wealthier congregations.

Great Response

A great response has been made to the call for overseas missionaries, Mr. MacDonald affirmed, but many more ministers are needed for work at home. The assembly was deeply gratified, he remarked, when 12 young people volunteered to train for work as foreign missionaries.

The Advance for Christ and Peace Thankoffering did much to reawaken the people in the Presbyterian churches, the moderator felt, and said that the offering had been over-subscribed in many churches—some of them not at all wealthy, and, in addition, they had placed their own finances on a more secure basis.

Mr. MacDonald will leave this morning to go to the Pictou, N.S., Presbytery, where he will meet with the people of the church in Westville. The moderator will then go to Prince Edward Island for the meetings of the Maritime Synod in Charlottetown over the week-end. On his return to Ontario, Mr. MacDonald will leave at once for a tour of Western Canada which will continue until the week before Christmas.

Mr. MacDonald was the special speaker at a service in St. Columba Presbyterian Church in Fairville last evening when the congregation was representative of members of the Church of St. John and St. Stephen and St. Matthew's Church also. He based his address on the story of King Ahas, the wicked king of Judah as found in the 16th chapter of Second Kings and the 28th chapter of Second Chronicles.

He stressed the need of the family altar, the lack of which he said was one of the causes of juvenile delinquency. Juvenile delinquency, he considered, could better be termed parental delinquency.

Neglecting Responsibility

The moderator said, "I fear that in many homes parents are neglecting the responsibility of giving religious instruction to their children. Family worship and a daily reading of God's word should have a place in every family life. Notthing that I can think of would do more to combat the rising divorce rate and heal the wounds in homes that are in danger of breaking up.

Rev. G. G. Purnell, minister of St. Columba's Church, opened the service and introduced the moderator, expressing the congregation's appreciation in his coming to that church for the only address he will be giving in the Saint John Presbytery area at this time.

Rev. C. J. St. Clair Jeans, of the Church of St. John and St. Stephen, gave the Old Testament scripture reading and Rev. John Humphreys, minister of St. Matthew's read the New Testament portion. Both scripture lessons had reference to the theme of the moderator's address.

Rev. A. G. MacDonald, St. Stephen, moderator of the Saint John Presbytery, offered prayer. The choir of St. Columba's Church under the direction of the choir leader and organist, Miss Sadie Cougle, led in the singing of appropriate hymns. Otto Doan was the guest soloist.

Many beautiful late autumn flowers adorned the church for the service and at its close a reception was held in the church hall when the members of the Brotherhood of the church served the refreshments. The moderator is the guest of Rev. and Mrs. F.G. Purnell at the Manse in Fairville during his stay in the city.

The house, which was occupied by Mr. Murray, is the property of Lieut.-Colonel Parker Hooper, Charlottetown.

Several witnesses appeared Saturday morning in connection with the arson charge, in which the leading witness, Mr. Randolph Murray, said that he first noticed the fire on the Doyle property about 4 p.m. On making his way across the fields to give aid said that he saw the accused lying on a pile of brush in a hedgerow part way between his home and the property of Mr. Doyle. He spoke to him, but receiving no answer, continued on his way. He was at the Doyle property giving assistance in trying to put out the fire and had been there for about two hours, when he noticed smoke rising from his own dwelling, and on rushing back, found it ablaze.
