Have You A Daughter? If You Have, This Article Will Interest You!

Hamilton, Ont.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best medicine I have ever known for the building up of girls and women who are run-down in health. It has been taken by different members of my family with great success. My daughters have been wonderfully helped during motherhood by taking Favorite Prescription; it is the best medicine the expectant mother can take for health and strength. And after having the influenza my granddaughter was left in a very bad way and nothing in the way of medicine gave her any help until she began taking Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and thru the use of this medicine her health was completely restored, and she is as well as ever."—Mrs. Sarah Wilshaw, 405 Cannon St., E.

Go to your neighborhood drug store at once and obtain this Prescription of Dr. Pierce's, in tablets or liquid, or send 10 cents to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont., for trial package.

"THE LOVE PENDULUM"

BY MARION RUBINCAM

THE UNEXPECTED

Chapter 91

The door opened and Win himself stood before me.

Then I ceased to be nervous and frightened. It was suddenly like returning home after a few days' absence, instead of more than a year of complete separation. For Win looked just the same—hair that brushed away from his forehead, hair rich and brown that I loved to touch maternally, clean skin and clear eyes, strong and well shaped hands, one now grasping the side of the door, as he stared at me in surprise.

Coming up in the elevator I had been thinking nervously what I might say. If only I could get over the first remark safely, the rest would be easy. I intended to hold out my hands, and say, "Win, I've come back." Surely that would make everything easy. Either he would put his arms out—and then after that nothing would matter; or else he would not be pleased, and in that case I would forget my dignity and go away, rebuffed.

But the romantic only happens half the time in real life. Our meeting was not romantic.

Perhaps it was because I forgot my opening remark, I forgot everything when I saw Win standing there in the doorway. He had on some sort of a long velvet dressing gown, and heeless velvet slippers, and I remember that the cord of the gown was untied and one end dragged along the floor.

But these details came to me afterward. Meantime I stood there, saying nothing.

"Connie! Why, it is Connie," Win said, only half believing.

"Yes," I said nervously. "May I come in?"

Suddenly I wondered whether there were people there—it seemed much more likely that if Win were home for an evening, it would be because he expected guests. I never knew him to stay home alone, or with me except by accident, and then he was restless and bored.

But my question brought us both back to the odd little politeness and formalities of life, and as usual they saved the situation.

"Of course! I beg your pardon. But I was so surprised!" Win was recovering his composure now and he held the door wide open.

"If there are people here—" I began in a low voice.

"There isn't anyone. That is, I expect someone later—but come in." I went in and down the hall—every article of furniture fairly stabbing me with its familiarity. The living room was exactly the same, the long blue curtains, the great couch pushed near the fireplace, and the table by it that I used when serving tea.

Only it was strangely different, too. It was too warm for a fire. Whenever possible I burned small logs because it made the room so much more inviting. I never liked a house without at least one tiny open fireplace, and never lived in one that did not have it.

The fireplace was piled with fresh wood now, the legs covered with burnt out matches that had been thrown here. The room was hazy with smoke, waving lines of it that moved gently in the glow from a lamp on the table. But the tea table was littered with papers, pipes and cigarette stubs, and the whole familiar room was different, in a way.

It would have been evident to anyone that a woman had furnished my old home, the feminine taste and the woman's touch were everywhere. It would be equally plain now that no woman had been there for a long time.

The big table in the centre had some sort of map over it. I vaguely sensed it was to show the conditions in industrial centres of the country. This took the place of an exquisite linen cover. Where my tea service stood was a tumbled pile of books; where a great bowl of lustre ware once stood, always filled with fresh flowers, was a large calendar the lettering of which could be read across the whole room.

I turned around to Win. But instead of coming towards me, he stopped in the doorway, still looking at me in that puzzled, troubled fashion.

"Win!"

He crossed the room to me, but quite evidenly he only half saw me. I was sure I wasn't wanted. I felt hurt, and troubled, and suddenly wished I had taken Colin's advice, not to return.

"I'm awfully glad to see you," he murmured, rather conventionally "I was just thinking—how odd it would seem if people came and found you here."

DRECO COMES TO TOWN AND MAKES FRIENDS IMMEDIATELY

The fishermen of Lunenburg—the miners of Cape Breton—the shipbuilders of Halifax—the lumbermen of New Brunswick—have all taken Dreco into their homes

NOW DRECO HAS MADE FRIENDS IN EVERY WALK OF LIFE IN THE CITY OF CHARLOTTETOWN

The public of Charlottetown know that when E. A. Foster takes on an article as he has taken Dreco, that article must have unprecedented merit

This is a straight heart-to-heart talk with you by the President of the Dreco Company of Canada, Limited, in the only possible manner to reach one and all—through the columns of your own city newspaper.

Everyone admits the value of advertising, but did you ever stop to consider why a manufacturer, an inventor or a retailer pays good money to tell you of his wares? Because he knows he has an article of merit and value which, however, would remain unknown to you if he did not utilize advertising to tell his story. You cannot be told by word of mouth—you, therefore must be told in the daily newspapers.

Do you, the public, realize that your newspapers of today strictly censor and refuse to print in their columns, advertisements of an article until the claims that are made for it are investigated and proved to be legitimate and unexaggerated? Do you know that the laws of Canada will not permit exaggerated claims in patent medicine advertising? To advertise an article beyond its powers would place a manufacturer's money in the position of snow under a warm Spring sun. It does not, and never will, pay to advertise an article with unwarranted claims.

The good words set before you in these columns on behalf of the famous herbal remedy, Dreco, are spoken by realiable citizens, right in your own community, who are only too anxious to impress on you the fact tht you, too, can get the same relief that was aorded by the honest Dreco treatment.

If you suffer from the various ills that these people speak of, give Dreco a fair trial. Ask for a sample. Dreco contains no mercury, potash or habit-forming drugs, and is a tried and proven remedy made in a modern laboratory by skilful chemists. It is spoken of in words of heartfelt praise by grateful users from Nov Scotia to the Great Lakes and from Florida to Maine.

Have we convinced you of the reliability of our claims and, the honesty of Dreco advertising and Dreco methods? If so, give this remedy a trial today. Read what your neighbors say about it. Then seek its help with faith in its goodness.

Prominent Farmer . . Gets Great Results

Again has Dreco Scored as a Reliable Tonic and Health-Builder—Read the Statement of This Prince Edward Island Agriculturist.

Mr. W. A. McPhie, of Mount Albion, P. E. I., a prominent and popular member of his community has nothing but good to say of Dreco. This famous remedy has effected a remarkable improvement in his general health through correcting internal troubles that had long bothered him.

"I suffered for a long time from kidney trouble" says Mr. McPhie. "Nothing seemed to give me relief. The pains in my back were so bad that I thought I would have to give up my work.

"However, I read about the wonderful work Dreco has been doing so decided to give it a trial. I am surprised at the results I have obtained in only one bottle. My kidneys are much better and the pains in my back are gone. I am going to continue taking this splendid medicine until my health is entirely restored."

Dreco, by toning and regulating the organs of digestion, strengthens and builds up the whole body. Every day it is proving itself to be the most reliable corrective for digestive complaints on the market and many well known people right here in Prince Edward Island are benefiting from its use. Dreco is made frome herbs, roots, bark and leaves and contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs.

Feels Ten Years Younger

Despite His 78 Years, James Carr Finds Wonderful Relief in Dreco, the Famous Herbal Remedy.

James Carr, of 135 Dorchester Street, Charlottetown, P. E. I., had worked hard all his life, and naturally found at 78 years, that nature had taken her toll, leaving him with a system considerably weakened and run down. This weakness manifested itself in the form of rheumatism, which, however, readily yielded to the health-building influence of Dreco. Here is Mr. Carr's story:

"For a long time I suffered from pains in the back and rheumatism. The pain was so intense at times that I could hardly stand it, and the rheumatism in my arms and back was so bad that I could hardly lace my shoes or put on my coat.

"I took one bottle of Dreco and found some relief in it. I then purchased three more bottles and have just finished the last one. Now, I am glad to say, there isn't a trace of the rheumatism left, and the pains in my back have all gone. In fact, I feel like I was ten years younger. Dreco is certainly a wonderful medicine and I give it all the credit for making me well again."

Mr. Carr's case is typical of Dreco. No matter how rundown your system may be, Dreco will surely help you. It is made from the juices of herbs, roots, bark and leaves that act on the organs of digestion, toning and regulating them and benefitting the whole system. There are no habit-forming drugs, mercury or potash in this reliable remedy.

Dreco is sold by a good druggist in every town and every Dreco agent has sample bottles. Call at your local druggist and he will give you a generous size sample bottle of Dreco and explain the merits of this great remedy.

Wonderful Help To Charlottetown Lady

Once Again Dreco Proved its Value to Prince Edward Island Sufferers by Relieving Mrs. Casford of Long Standing Digestive Ailments.

Given a fair trial, Dreco invariably demonstrates its true merits as a corrective for stomach trouble, biliousness, gastritis, aching back, constipation and the many other distressing symptoms that accompany a run-down system. It tones and regulates the vital organs to normal healthy action and benefits the whole body. The case of Mrs. John Casford of Charlottetown Royalty, P. E. I., is typical of this splendid herbal remedy.

"Dreco is the most wonderful medicine I have ever used," said Mrs. Casford. "I have only taken one bottle and the relief it has given me is beyond words. I had been troubled with an ailing stomach and indigestion for a long time. Everything I ate would cause gas to form which gave me severe pains in my stomach. Sometimes I didn't care if I ate at all. I was also very nervous, but Dreco is helping me fine and I intend to take the full treatment. I strongly recommend Dreco to everyone."

When people of standing, right in your own locality, speak so highly of Dreco, there can be no doubt of its goodness. The juices of herbs, roots, bark and leaves, from which it is compounded, are genuine correctives for the organs of digestion. Let Dreco help you regain the health that is rightfully yours. Contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs.

MR. EDWARD SMITH

The Best In The World Says Ch'Town Man

That's How Edward Smith Regards Dreco, the Famous Herbal Remedy, and he Speaks from Personal Knowledge.

Mr. Edward Smith, of 60 Cumberland Street, Charlottetown, joins with many other Prince Edward Island people in acclaiming Dreco's remarkable success as a corrective for deep-rooted, distressing digestive ailments. Mr. Smith, who is well-known in the Canadian Merchant Marine, makes the following statement:

"I was greatly troubled with stomach disorders and indigestion. Everything I ate would cause gas to form in my stomach and I would have headaches all the time. Severe pains in the small of my back frequently bothered me as did constipation also. However, I am much better now and going to keep on with the Dreco treatment until I get my full strength back. I am no longer troubled with my stomach, have no more headaches and the pains in my back are gone, while my bowels are regular. I cannot praise Dreco too highly, for it has made me feel 100% better. I strongly recommend Dreco for all who suffer from complaints similar to mine. It is the best medicine in the world."

Dreco helped Mr. Smith because it is prepared from the juices of herbs, roots, bark and leaves, known for centuries as nature's correctives for digestive complaints. In Dreco, they are scientifically combined to give the best results. Dreco contains no mercury, potash or habit forming drugs and is a safe, reliable health-builder for old or young.

Dreco is being specially introduced in Charlottetown by E. A. Foster. Call at their store today and they will give you a sample bottle of Dreco and explain the merits of this great remedy. Dreco is also sold in Montague by H. J. Mabon, in Souris by Souris Drug Co., in Summerside by Gallant Drug Co., Ltd. Call on the Dreco agent in your town and get your sample bottle.

"Why not? After all, it's my home, too. I'm going in a moment," I tried to excuse myself and to get away all at once.

"No, I'll fix it. Wait a moment."

He left the room, closing the door. I heard his voice in the hallway at the phone. He was evidently breaking some engagement. Who was it, I wondered?

I wandered about the room, still surprised at the change in it. I opened the door into what had been my own room—evidently Win had made it his bedroom now, for his bathrobe hung over the foot of the bed, and some collars protruded from an open drawer.

I went back to the living room. Win came in again, this time at ease, his engagement broken.

"Shall I kiss you?" he asked, coming toward me. For answer I held out my arms.
