

The End of Your Cough

is near when you begin to take Jamieson's White Pine and Tar. One bottle is usually sufficient to completely cure any ordinary cough. The starting cough is often overcome with a few doses.

Jamieson's White Pine and Tar acts directly upon the inflamed respiratory tract, soothing and healing the affected membrane promptly. It does not dope the taker and temporarily stop the desire to cough while the cause of the cough remains. Its a real cure; Large bottles 25 and 50c.

THE CONTEST OVER

The citizens have spoken and the civic government has been established for another term of two years.

As already intimated the issue was a question of men not measures; there was no special platform upon which civic opinion could become divided and the choice of the electors indicates their measure of the candidates.

While many will regret that Mr. Horne was failed to put the coping stone on his municipal career by being elected to the mayoralty, the city should benefit considerably by the infusion of new blood, in a rising, pushing and energetic young man at the head of the Council Board.

Many will also regret the defeat of Mr. S. W. Crabbe in his candidacy for re-election on the Board of Commissioners of Sewer and Water Supply. In his successor, however, Mr. Francis McCarron, the city has secured a man of unquestioned ability and business experience and there is good ground for the hope that this Board also will maintain its good reputation.

The City Council will be composed largely of new men, the Mayor and five of the councillors being elected for the first time.

The return of Mr. T. B. Riley is a testimony to his ability as chairman of the Finance Committee. The late Mayor and Councillors were unanimous in complimenting him on the manner in which he discharged the duties of an office which was second in importance only to that of the Mayor.

The success of the newly elected Mayor will depend upon his surrounding himself with able and discreet heads of departments, and the material at his disposal, although for the most part untried, will give him ample opportunity for wise selection.

To the winners in the contest we tender congratulations; to the fallen, the consolation that what has befallen is the inevitable fortune of conflict. There was room on these particular chairs but for one each and the others must wait.

Now that the battle is over, it remains for the citizens to stand loyally by the new government. On their loyalty, on their assistance and co-operation the prosperity of the city depends. We have one of the finest cities in Canada, a city possessing advantages second to none anywhere. With prudent, careful and progressive management long strides forward can be taken in this, our growing time. The immediate future is exceptionally promising. Let it be the aim of all to see that the promises are realized.

EATING THE FOUNDATION

In the course of the sensational bribery enquiry in Quebec, a significant passage was quoted by Mr. Keyes, the official stenographer employed by the Burns detective agency. Mr. Keyes in answer to the Chairman said:—

Here Mr. Mousseau started talking about the time when the Liberal party was supreme at Ottawa, and wine, women and song spoiled them. Mr. Mousseau said, "I don't want to talk about graft here, but wine, women and song are here."

Then Mr. Biddinger had offered him the thousand dollars, said the witness, and Mr. Mousseau had replied: "You are too generous. You have already overpaid me."

The Chairman asked Mr. Keyes to get his stenographer's book and to read from that rather than from his typewritten copy. At the same time Mr. Taschereau took the typewritten copy and followed Mr. Keyes' version as read from his notes. He found it absolutely faithful and sent it back to him, saying he was perfectly satisfied when Mr. Keyes read with great gusto. Mr. Biddinger—I ordered some cocktails. Mr. Mousseau—Magnificent.

This hardly requires comment. It is an official, inside view of the causes that lead to corruption, disorganization and disaster. First it was Ottawa, now it is Quebec; and the next place will just be wherever the canker has eaten its way through the foundations of righteous government till the edifice is ready to crumble to pieces. History is full of such apparently inexplicable catastrophes, and its only once in a hundred years that the curtain is sufficiently raised to give the average citizen a proper explanation of the cause.

CONFEDERATION JUBILEE

Although little is being said at present about the Confederation Jubilee Celebration to be held next summer, the Committee in charge of the arrangements is, we understand, busy at work and no doubt satisfactory progress is being made.

The proposed celebration, concerning as it does, all the other provinces of the Dominion, as well as Prince Edward Island, no doubt the other provinces, the neighboring ones at least, should contribute their quota towards making it a success. It is not, we trust, ungenerous to remember that in events of somewhat similar nature, such as the Centenary celebration at Quebec, and others nearer home which might be mentioned, Prince Edward Island was asked for and gave contributions according to its ability. We would not, therefore, be exceeding the ordinary limits of hospitality in asking that, in the Celebration of an event of national importance, our sisters who have shared in the greatness whose beginning we are about to commemorate, should bring—or send in advance—their wedding present.

We understand that, although the date of the celebration has not yet been definitely decided, it is likely that the first three days of either the second week in August or the second week in September will likely be selected. Preference naturally inclines towards the first named as it is a time of more leisure, between haymaking and harvest. It is also the time of year when visitors and Prince Edward Islanders abroad would be most anxious to leave the busy and over-crowded cities and seek a breath of fresh air in the Garden of the Gulf. Besides this the provincial exhibition will be coming within measurable distance of the second date mentioned. It is most likely therefore that the earlier date will be selected.

There is considerable speculation, outside of the committee at least, as to what form the celebration should take. It is expected that the festivities will continue for three days and that sports of various kinds will be arranged for. In this connection few cities on the continent are better adapted for a varied program of sports than Charlottetown is. We have horses whose performance on the race course would of itself make an exhibition worth coming far to see, and a few forms of entertainment are more attractive than horse racing. We have a magnificent harbor and range of rivers for aquatic sports of every conceivable kind; we have motor boats, canoes, sailing yachts, sculls; we have swimmers and splendid swimming places; we also have a yachting Club that can carry through successfully any undertaking in the way of aquatic sports. Besides these we have automobiles and carriages which could be utilized in sightseeing to different points. It might even be possible to suspend the operation of the Automobile Act for these three days and so enable visitors to go farther afield than would be possible under existing conditions.

With these opportunities for sport, and many others that might be mentioned, the intervals between the State ball, which will come as a matter of course, the state dinner and the speeches without which such an event would be meaningless, the unveiling of a commemorative tablet, etc., etc., could be most agreeably and pleasantly filled in and the whole affair made the biggest advertisement ever Prince Edward Island received, not even excepting the Black Fox advertisement.

It is expected that His Royal Highness the Governor General, Premier Borden and other notables and statesmen will be present. This is not an official program of the celebration. It is not even a guess at what shall be—it is merely a speculation as to what might be. Whether the whole or any part of this program is carried out or not the possibilities are here for a big event and our people should be prepared for it; prepared to make it worthy of the great event which it commemorates and worthy of the province.

NOTES

It is refreshing to read the following tribute to the Maritime Minister of Marine and Fisheries, Hon. J. D. Hazen in the Independent Ottawa Citizen:—Since coming to the Marine Department, because of his sense of justice and responsibility. Hon. J. D. Hazen has provided the Opposition with very few opportunities to make party capital. Large and continuous quantities of material, ship's stores, food, equipment, bunker coals, light-house supplies and mechanism, oil, carbide, buoys, beacons, and a multifarious variety of goods, have to be purchased through Hon. Mr. Hazen's department. How they were purchased under the Liberal regime is fresh in the memory of all. After the Marine Department inquiry of 1908, Justice Cassels issued a scathing report, and the political jobbers were scared off. There were so many dismissals and resignations that practically only genuine civil servants were left. They promptly proceeded to organize the Department of Marine and Fisheries on a business-like basis. Happily for the reorganized department, Hon. Mr. Hazen came to power before the vanquished jobbers had recovered nerve enough to upset it. The new and big minister looked thoroughly over his department, and finding it satisfactory, he made little or no changes.

D. STRICT M. THODIJI MINISTERS CONVENT

which nothing else can impart. "What we have felt and seen with evidence we tell and publish to the souls of men, the signs infallible of Personality. This word is used in sense of the sum-total of a man's powers, which constitute him a separate individuality. These natural powers must be vitalized by the breath of the divine Spirit of God. No matter how well a man may develop his powers by culture and by educational attainment he is handicapped in the great work of the Christian Ministry unless he realizes that God, by His Spirit, is applying as well as inspiring his message. The great object is to win men for Christ. And that object can be reached only by fellow ship with him in His passion and sacrifice. Jesus said, when calling two men to follow him, "Come ye after me and I will make you to be come fishers of men."

A discussion followed in which all of the members took part, each on bringing out some feature of the minister's work and some element of efficiency which he regarded as important. In the afternoon session, which began at 2.30, the subject was "The revival we need, and how to get it." A paper was read by the Rev. L. H. Jewitt on it, emphasizing the need of revival in the moral and spiritual life. "What is true of on denomination," the paper stated in part, "is true of all." There is need of revival in the membership of the Church. We need a more positive and vital relation to Jesus Christ. We need a revival of personal responsibility so far as individual service is concerned. We need a larger and broader vision of the Church's privilege and responsibility in all matters relating to the welfare of the community. The field of opportunity is large and we must adopt such methods and apply such means as shall reach modern conditions."

A very interesting discussion of this subject took place. Various opinions were expressed as to methods of revival campaigns, and the general feeling of the members was that the minister in charge of the Church, with the co-operation and support of the members, ought to aim at winning all whom they would naturally reach for the Kingdom of God. It was claimed that every Christian ought to exert a positive influence upon his fellowman. The Church existed for the purpose of saving men from those evils which continually thrust themselves upon it.

There was a public meeting in the evening, opened with devotional exercises, the subject being "What the Church stands for." There was an address by the Rev. F. H. Littlejohns, who stated that the Church stood not only for individual salvation but for the social and uplift of the community. The Kingdom of God is to be set up on earth by the Church. The Church had a mandate from her Lord to interest herself in the whole of human life. Her purifying influence ought to invade all that was evil, casting it out and giving new life to humanity. It ought to attack, for the purpose of overthrowing, all evil—gambling, political corruption, the social evil, the liquor traffic, in short everything that might impede the progress of the Kingdom of God in the world.

There was a paper by the Rev. J. L. Dawson in which he maintained that the Church stood for brotherhood in Christ; and anything which was contrary to the principle of Christianity—was out of harmony with the Church of Christ. At the close of the afternoon session, a resolution was adopted expressing the thanks of the members to the kind friends of Charlottetown, who were entertaining them during their visit.

TATU CANADIAN FOX INDUSTRY

no amount of pelts could break the present high prices of silver skins, whereas, in reality, the firm had said: "If the number of fine black skins to come forward in the future were to be appreciably increased, we have no doubt that prices would be lower, but it is impossible for us to say to what extent." It has been noted in this connection that the 5-year closure season for fur seals will terminate about the time the island fox ranches begin sending considerable shipments of pelts to the market.

GREAT NEED FOR CAUTION

NEW METHODS.
The consensus of intelligent opinion, both on the part of local business men and those who come from abroad to look into the situation, is so the effect that the fox industry presents a highly attractive and promising speculation (1) if the quality of the foxes handled be positively known, and (2) if the management of the ranch or company be capable and wholly honest. As in any strikingly remunerative business, the character of the promoters varies infinitely, so that in every case the fullest possible information as to the personality of the man in charge of the proposition should be sought out. Capitalizing even the finest foxes at high figures should also be considered with great caution. As a prominent island newspaper has stated editorially, "There are probably to be a weeding out of such companies when the market catches the post basis." The fox expert of the Canadian Commission of observation, Mr. J. Walter Jones, has issued a bulletin on fur farming, which contains the following warning: "Although there is ample basis for a sound industry in fox farming, it is necessary that the general public should realize that the industry is becoming a highly speculative one and that the individual who puts his money into companies loaded with a heavy burden of capitalization assumes some great risk."

Some new details as to the manner of caring for the island foxes may be worthy of notice. There is a tendency toward making the pens larger, one of the most up-to-date ranches having paddock areas 50 by 50 feet instead of 25 by 50 feet as formerly. The idea is that the fox has more opportunity to run and get exercise. It is said that one Ontario ranch has a running pen of several hundred feet, in which the foxes may be seen running steadily for hours at a time. Another new suggestion relates to the use of sheet iron in place of part of the wire netting to prevent foxes from climbing. It has been found that this iron refracts the heat injuriously in summer. The use of oarbs for this purpose and clipping the foxes' claws have been advocated.

PROVINCIAL TAX—OTHER FUR-FARMING EXPERIMENTS.

In April, 1913, the provincial assembly of Prince Edward Island passed a law levying a tax of 1 per cent. of value upon all young foxes secured in captivity each year, and providing in detail for sworn statements from every fox ranch as to the number, character, and legal ownership of its animals. Under its provisions there was collected $37,112 in taxes upon 1,294 young foxes. The total number of ranches upon the island was found to be 27, of which 15 were incorporated under island statutes; and the total number of foxes, including 1,736 born prior to 1913, was found to be 3,130. As this enumeration was conducted primarily to locate young foxes it may have overlooked a considerable number of foxes which were imported during 1913, so that the aggregate number on the island may be 3,500.

The rapid increase in the price of all presentable furs is a source of much encouragement to fox investors and it is felt that the diminution of the world's supply of pelts of all grades will give an assured and permanent market for any beautiful fur which may be produced in regular quantities. In this connection may be mentioned the karakule sheep or Persian lamb industry, which has been taken up on a large scale by two different concerns upon the island. A pair of Russian sables, thought to be the first secured for fur-breeding experiments on this continent, have been obtained. Trials are being made with mink, otter, beaver, skunk, and other animals, and several of the newer fox companies announce ventures along these lines as ancillary to their main business. No local commercial success has as yet been observable, however, in any but the fox industry.

Constant Frost's complete report, from which the foregoing extracts were taken, will be loaned, upon application, by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Washington.

No Woman Reads Any "Ads" in the Morning Except Those Appearing in Her Morning Newspaper

She reads her morning newspaper for THE NEWS... and, to the woman who is managing her home as wisely as any man could manage his business, the ads in her morning newspaper constitute very real "news."

For they contain facts and suggestions WHICH SHE MAY PROFIT BY IN HER BUYING FOR THAT DAY. And these facts and suggestions are available to her BEFORE she does the day's buying. That is what gives to them their NEWS VALUE.

She might be entertained, if she had limitless leisure, by reading accounts of the shopping that was done in the stores yesterday, and the bargains secured by shoppers. But being of a practical turn of mind, she prefers to know ABOUT THE OPPORTUNITIES FOR BARGAIN FINDING WHICH WILL BE OPEN TO HER TODAY when she visits the stores.

That is why advertising in a morning newspaper HAS REAL VALUE TO A HOUSEWIFE. It has present-moment value, not mere academic interest.
