Robert Montgomery And Myrna Loy At Prince Edward

Against a background of ice-bound Labrador, Robert Montgomery and Myrna Loy are enacting one of the funniest comedies ever screened, in the new picture, "Petticoat Fever" now at the Prince Edward Theatre.

Adapted from the stage hit of the same name, the story concerns a wireless operator who is so lonely that he holds prisoner two fliers, a beautiful young girl and her male companion, whom he rescues from the Arctic night.

Reginald Owen heads the featured cast, as the bustling Englishman whose bride-to-be is snatched away from under his very nose. Others cast are Otto Yamaoka, as the Eskimo man servant; Forrester Harvey, Bo Ching and Iris Yamaoka.

"Petticoat Fever" is the first picture to bring together Montgomery and Miss Loy since their memorable vehicle, "When Ladies Meet." Each has gone far in personal popularity since that time and improved vastly in acting technique.

The funniest sequence in the new picture and, no doubt one of the funniest ever screened, is the party given by Montgomery for his two guests—the party for which only he and Miss Loy have the courageous flair to don evening clothes while an Arctic blizzard rages outside.

"Blackmailer" At Capitol

Suspense, thrills and romance have been happily combined in baffling murder, mystery, "Blackmailer," which opened yesterday at the Capitol Theatre.

William Gargan, Florence Rice and H. B. Warner are in the leading roles, which immediately establishes the fact that fine acting is a dominant feature of the film. The supporting roles, too, are more than capably handled by Nana Bryant, George McKay, Wyrley Birch, Drue Leyton, Paul Hurst, Kenneth Thompson, Joan Perry and Alexander Cross.

The story concerns the murder of a despised blackmailer at a dinner party. Any one of the eight guests present might have wielded the fatal knife; all have reason to. The murder is almost the "perfect crime"—but not quite, for the murderer is apprehended.

To give away the murderer or the motives for the crime here would be spoiling your fun. See "Blackmailer" by all means, thereby treating yourself to some seventy minutes of entertaining skulduggery. You'll enjoy trying to spot the slayer. Everyone else did.

PINARD WINS OTTAWA EAST BY-ELECTION

Liberal Convention Choice is Victorious In "Family Fight."

OTTAWA, Oct. 26.—(CP)—Choice of a Liberal convention two weeks ago, J. Albert Pinard was tonight conceded victory in the Ottawa East Federal by-election.

With 155 of 164 polls counted, the standing was: Mrs. W. T. O'Regan 1,723; Dr. Rufus Parent, 1,556; Mr. Pinard 8,988, William Unger 6,498 and Jean Tissot 3,226. All are Liberals excepting Mr. Tissot who ran under auspices of the local Union Nationale Society. Conservatives did not enter a candidate.

The seat was vacated when E. R. E. Chevrier, Liberal, was appointed last month to the Ontario Supreme Court. Fr. Chevrier was first elected in 1921, was defeated in 1925 and held the constituency since 1926.

Mr. Pinard is a veteran political campaigner. He was for 15 years a member of the Ontario legislature and also took part in many civic election battles.

Standing of the parties in the House of Commons following Mr. Pinard's election is: Liberals 178; Conservatives 40; Social Credit 17; Co-operative Commonwealth Federation seven; Independent one; Reconstruction one; U.F.O.-Labor one—Total 245.

Mr. Pinard described himself as the official candidate, but the heads of the Liberal party decided against taking any part in the contest.

Justice Minister Lapointe, acting Prime Minister, said after a cabinet meeting a few days ago: "In the absence of official opposition in the Ottawa East by-election, the Government is not disposed to intervene in a family fight."

Spanish Liner Still Aground On Reef

(A.P. By Guardian's Special Wire) HAMILTON, Bermuda, Oct. 26.—(A.P.)—The Spanish liner Cristobal Colon, which ended its odyssey on a reef here Sunday night, tonight was apparently as homeless as its crew.

Lloyd's local agent declined to assume responsibility for salvage, saying he had been unable to find out if the ship were insured or to ascertain the names of owners.

The ship's Captain, Crescencio Navarro, likewise declined to disclose the owners or the ship's port of destination in Mexico.

Salvage tugs withdrew today but the cruiser H. M. S. Dragon stood by awaiting authority to salvage from the Spanish consulate at Mexico City.

The crew of 160, including six women, were taken off early in the morning and housed in homes of Bermuda sailors.

is Committed To Supreme Court

PORT HAWKESBURY, N. S. Oct. 26.—(CP)—John Donaldson 47-year old native of Scotland, today was committed to stand trial in Supreme Court on a charge of manslaughter arising out of the death last week of his foster son, Owen Donaldson. The next criminal session of the Supreme Court in Inverness County is scheduled for May.

Owen Donaldson died from knife wounds said to be received in a tussle with the accused in the backwoods cabin in which both lived. The foster father told a coroner's jury the 19-year youth refused to allow him to go for aid and died two days later without medical attention.

The jury held him "parly responsible" for the youth's death and recommended further investigation. Donaldson originally was charged with failure to provide medical aid.

Expressed Appreciation To Firemen

Charlottetown firemen returned from Mt. Stewart, where they had been called to fight a fire which for a time threatened to sweep the village, at seven o'clock yesterday morning. They had left the city with the pumper at 3.20 a.m. The fire destroyed the general store of Mr. A. D. Feehan with most of its contents. The loss was estimated at $8,000, partly covered by insurance. An attached warehouse was saved from the flames.

Volunteer firemen from Mt. Stewart fought the flames until the arrival of Charlottetown firemen. The blaze was subdued shortly before 6 o'clock and the firemen prepared to leave for home. On the invitation of Mr. Russel Clark, they were invited to the Hotel where an appetizing breakfast was awaiting them, which was greatly appreciated by the fire ladders.

Mr. Clark, on behalf of the residents of Mount Stewart, heartily thanked the Fire Department of Charlottetown for the valuable assistance they gave in fighting the fire and preventing it from spreading to other buildings.

About forty years ago a fire originating in about the same locality swept all buildings as far as the bridge at Mt. Stewart.

Satire: The Debutante — Miss Tamara and Mr. Fowler.

In this programme, Miss Tamara and Mr. Fowler showed themselves to be masters of the dance in all its forms—both modern and in the older manner.

All were so good that it is hard to pick out any numbers as worthy of special mention, but it may be said that The Beautiful Blue Danube waltz—perhaps because of its familiar music, and the memories it brought to one of a carefree, happy Europe, so different to the distraught continent of today, was particularly appreciated by the audience.

Valse Triste, largely on account of the lovely music of Sibelius, also had a special appeal—at least to this writer. The "Tango de Salon 1913," was also much enjoyed, for the fancy steps of the dance, as then performed, seem quite amusing today.

The two encore numbers given by Miss Tamara and Mr. Fowler, in which they represented a Tired Business Man dancing (a) with his wife, (b) with a Broadway beauty, were also delightfully funny.

Of Mr. Olivero, it may be said that he is a very competent pianist, with a quite impeccable technique which showed to advantage in the more rapid passages—and most of the numbers he played were well chosen to exhibit this accomplishment. This listener preferred the Scarlatti Capriccio, also the very lovely Capriccio of Sibelius—though the piece de resistance was undoubtedly supposed to be the sonorous and pyrotechnical "Polichinelle" of Rachmaninoff—a number which received long, continued and enthusiastic applause.

Rotary

Although the mutation theory of Hugo de Vries is generally accepted by biologists today, it should not be taken too seriously as we are only on the fringe of this branch of knowledge, said Mr. Warren Duchemin, Professor of Biology at Prince of Wales College, when addressing the weekly meeting of the Rotary Club yesterday.

Rotarian Coffin was in the chair, and the guests were Dr. H. D. Johnston and R. B. Richardson of Summerside, retired Manager of the Royal Bank of Canada.

Roy Cudmore, newly elected Rotarian, was introduced by Roy MacClure and the Rotary charge read to him by Past President W. M. Rowe.

Professor Duchemin gave a brief outline of the great historic theories formulated in the past by four leaders in biology, namely, Jean Lamarck of France, August Weismann of Germany, Charles Darwin of England, and Hugo de Vries of Holland.

For centuries it had been believed that there has been a relationship between the different kinds of plants and animals, but up to the present this relationship is, to a large extent enshrouded in mystery.

Lamarck believed in a variation of the inheritance of acquired characteristics in which environment played a part. For example, the neck of the giraffe in course of time became gradually lengthened because the animal fed on foliage, this characteristic being transmitted to succeeding generations.

Under this theory the son of a blacksmith would inherit the brawny arm of his father. This theory was first adopted by many biologists.

Weismann's theory was in direct opposition to this. He believed that acquired characteristics could never be inherited, that new generations were formed not from the ordinary cells but from the germ plasma.

This theory dominated biological thought in the early years of the last century, and it still forms part of the basis in the structure of modern genetics. Many experiments were conducted, but so far with negative results.

Darwin was the exponent of natural selection. He believed there was an overproduction of plants and animals, with the result that there was a struggle for survival. For example, a single oyster will produce 60,000,000 eggs a year, but it is well known that very few of these come to maturity. According to the Darwin theory, there was slight variation in different individuals of each species, and if this variation gave the individual an advantage in the struggle for survival, the individual would be "naturally selected" and the trait that helped it survive would be passed on by it to succeeding generations. His treatise on natural selection published in 1859 created a revolution in biological and theological thought, but in later years many of his assumptions were found not to be tenable.

Then Hugo de Vries came forward with another theory, namely, that the variations did not develop slowly but came as the result of sudden changes or jumps. Hence the theory of mutations, changes due to alterations in the chromosomes. It has been found that the rate of the changes may be influenced by the X-ray, and by radium.

This mutation theory, was not in sharp contrast with the Darwin theory.
