PARTICULARS OF BRAVE SOLDIER'S DEATH

Mrs Hugh J. McKinnon of this city has received the following letter from her brother, Jerry, who is attached to the 26th Battalion.

Somewhere in France, Oct. 29, 1915. Dear sister,—Just a few lines to let you know that I am well and enjoying a good time while I am out of the trenches. Tell Annie I can't tell you very much now. But about Crist. We went into the trenches like to-night and he was picked out for duty and he had done his and while he was coming back he was hit under his left arm and the bullet came out on his right side. When he died he had a smile on his face. He did not suffer at all. He was out to the listening post when he got hit. Well we had a hard time in the trenches last time, rain day and night. We had quite a little fight, but that was after Crist was hit. There were two or three more Charlottetown fellows killed and wounded. Well Annie, Crist was the first one killed in our regiment. I will drop you a card before I go into the trenches again, so I will close hoping to hear from you soon again. Good-bye. Give my best regards to all. Your loving brother, JERRY.

THEATRE MANAGER TELLS HIS EXPERIENCE WITH THE MOVIES

A representative of the "Guardian" yesterday called on Mr. G. J. Gallagher, manager of the Prince Edward Theatre, and interviewed him on the general subject of moving pictures and popular demand, and particularly with reference to the recent complaints regarding the alleged sensational and non-educative character of the pictures shown at the theatres, and the request that special pictures be introduced for the benefit of the children. On his arrival here, Mr. Gallagher stated, he endeavoured to do this. His policy has always been to please the public, and with this end in view he has been giving the public what it wants. His first attempt at supplying pictures of an educational nature was the introduction, at an enormous expenditure, of "The Life and Reign of Queen Victoria," and the result proved disastrous, the attendance and consequent business being altogether out of proportion to the expense involved. Latterly he has been trying it again, quite recently bringing in a beautifully coloured instructive and really interesting five-reel feature, "Sport and Travel in Central Africa." This expensive film also failed to secure the approval of theatre-goers. To meet the wishes expressed in the letter signed "Mother," Mr. Gallagher says it would be necessary to wade through systematically every film exchange in the country in order to find enough of subjects to carry out the idea. This is impossible, as each exchange carries a certain number of films for rental to various customers. After each shipping day, when the films are despatched to the various theatres, the exchange would have no more, than probably two or three reels left, and this would not answer the purpose proposed. During twelve years' experience in the management of moving picture theatres, Mr. Gallagher shows many educational, travel, etc.,

features, and the result has always been the same. If a travel or educational picture is put on, he declares, the majority of people display an impatient anxiety to see something else, becoming restless in their seats. Patrons have often told him, after such films have been shown, that they "did not come to be educated; they could get all they wished of that in the day schools. They came to be amused and entertained, and to be shown every-day human life." "We are always willing to do our best to please the public in every way," Mr. Gallagher continued, "but one can't do the impossible. In regard to the suggestion contained in 'Mother's' letter, of bringing in special programmes. We show the same pictures at night as are shown in the afternoon, and to carry out 'Mother's' idea we would have to have two sets of programmes, since an exclusively juvenile programme would not be tolerated by adults. Taking the number of children who would attend at the liberal figure of 200, the proceeds, at 5 cents each, would be $10. The cost of procuring them would be beyond the limit even if a sufficient quantity were available, and the chances are that they would not be appreciated by either the children or the grown-up. Another difficulty is the present war, which has stopped the supply of educational pictures, which were principally produced in Europe, very few being produced in America. We are always on the lookout for pictures that will appeal to children, but cannot always get them when we want them. Regarding the fitness of pictures that come here, these are all censored by a Board of Censors at St. John, at the head of which is Dr. Bridges, one of the most highly respected citizens of St. John. Before these pictures reach St. John they are censored by a Board of Censors in Ottawa and Quebec, composed of clergymen and other leading citizens. So that nothing that is not fit is allowed to escape. The various film exchanges lose thousands of dollars yearly through this censorship. It is utterly impossible to please everyone. That the public generally approves of the pictures that have been shown is clearly evidenced by the overwhelming audiences which attend the shows each night."

RADIUM IN SEA WATER.

Professor Stewart J. Lloyd, of the University of Alabama, has recently published the results of an examination for radium of a sample of water obtained in the Gulf of Mexico, about 200 miles South of Mobile, and has given in this connection a resume of the results obtained by other investigators in measuring the radium content of sea water. The writer explains that the growing recognition of radium as an important factor in geological processes has led to many analyses of rocks, soils, springs, and river waters for that element, while our greatest reservoir of radium, the ocean, has received but little attention. Joly, who examined samples from several oceans and seas obtained a value for the radium content so high that it cannot be reconciled with the values obtained by Eve and Satterly for the North Atlantic, and Lloyd for the Gulf of Mexico. Excluding Joly's results, the author finds the average obtained per litre of sea water would make the total radium content of the ocean about 1,400 tons.

DROPPING INTO POETRY.

(New York Evening Post.)
In versatility, the Hon. Allan B. Walsh, of New Jersey, far outstrips his Congressional colleagues. When he isn't legislating, or superintending the building of an electric plant, or inventing something, or solving some problem of political economy, or chasing a gang of grafters, Mr. Walsh is writing poetry. Here's the first one he put his hands on when somebody asked for a sample:

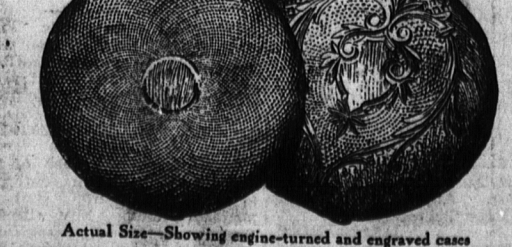

Two ladies gay met a boy one day;
his legs were brier-scratched.
His clothes were blue, but a nut-brown hue marked the place where his pants were patched.
They huddled with joy at the blue-clad boy with the spot of nut-brown hue.
"Why didn't you patch with a color to match?"
they chuckled. "Why not with blue?"
"Come, don't be coy, my blue-brown boy,
speak out!" and they cackled with glee.
As he blushed, rose-red, while he bashfully said:
"That ain't no patch; that's me!"
