

WESTERN GUARDIAN

AGENT—Mrs. John Pond, 44 Water Street East—Phone 289-1
SUMMERS AND PRINCE COUNTY

News, Subscriptions, Advertising should be left with Mrs. Pond

The Guardian may be bought daily at any of the following stores in Summerside:
Bell Bookstore, Water St. Gourlies Drugstore, Water St.
Toronto Bakery, Water St. Mark Gaudet, 67 Granville St.

The Guardian will be delivered daily to any home in Summerside by carrier for 20¢ per day or 10¢ per week. Phone 289-1 for this service or for order to the boy responsible for deliveries on your route.

This column is reserved for news of local interest but advertising of a new nature may be inserted at a cents a word strictly payable in advance.

—READY CASH in milk, eggs, chicken and meat. Buy the right kind at Braces. L-216-11-17-21.

—WANTED—Ald. F. H. Male for St. George's. Apply Box 744 Summerside. L-261-11-19-11.

—FOR RECURRING. London. Summerside. L-151-11-15-31.

—MISSING IN SUMMERSIDE. Mr. George S. Green of Cambridge is visiting in Summerside the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. M. Noonan. S.

—EIGHT ROOF FIRE—Sixteen men were called out at noon on Monday for a small roof fire at the residence of Mr. Lorne Campbell on Cambridge Street. The fire was quickly put out and not much damage reported. S.

—BAZAR AND DRAWING POSTPONED—7 Mile Bay and Borden Bazar and Drawing Nov. 16 instead of 15th. Please leave your returns at Dr. J. E. Blundell's Office, R. McNicoll's Office, or with Dr. Ahaarn, Summerside. All other returns at the Borden Bazar, North Carleton, P. E. I. L-207-11-16-71.

—SYMPATHY EXPRESSED—Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gregg of the Valley, have the sympathy of their many friends in the death of their young son, Leon, who passed away in the Prince County Hospital on Thursday afternoon, Nov. 14. The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 16, at 10 o'clock, at the Anglican Church at Lot 11, Rev. Hart-Davies officiating. Mr. Wm. J. Phillips assisting. The church was filled with sympathizing friends. The deceased's daughter, Mrs. Hubert Campbell and her husband besides brothers and sisters of the deceased, were present. Interment was in the cemetery adjoining the church. It will be remembered that Mr. Campbell lost his life in the fire which destroyed his home in the early hours of Tuesday morning. S.

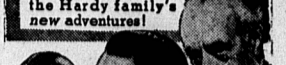

—LAD TO REST—The funeral services for the late William Bryan were held on Thursday afternoon at the Anglican Church at Lot 11, Rev. Hart-Davies officiating, Mr. Wm. J. Phillips assisting. The church was filled with sympathizing friends. The deceased's daughter, Mrs. Hubert Campbell and her husband besides brothers and sisters of the deceased, were present. Interment was in the cemetery adjoining the church. It will be remembered that Mr. Bryan lost his life in the fire which destroyed his home in the early hours of Tuesday morning. S.

—MEETING HELD—The Executive Board of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America held their 10th annual meeting on Tuesday evening, Nov. 14, at the hotel. The meeting was presided over by the Manager and read the financial statement prepared by Mr. D. P. Archibald, Chartered Accountant. The business of the meeting was unanimously accepted by the meeting. Brief addresses were given by Mr. Arcade Barriault, Alvin P. Arsenault, Felix G. Gauthier, Alvin P. Arsenault, and Mr. Napoléon Arsenault. A motion was made on the part of the Executive Board to support the advancement of Cooperative movement. On motion regular meeting adjourned. General meeting was then called to order for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year. President, Alvin P. Arsenault, Vice-President, Theodore Gauthier, Secretary, Alvin P. Arsenault, Treasurer, Alvin P. Arsenault, and Executive Board, Alvin P. Arsenault, Felix G. Gauthier, Alvin P. Arsenault, and Mr. Napoléon Arsenault. S.

—DEATH OF MR. GEORGE D. BROWN—There passed away at his home in St. E. on Wednesday, Mr. George D. Brown a prominent citizen of the district. Mr. Brown had been in failing health for some time and his death was not unexpected. Mr. Brown was 69 years of age and was born in the home where he lived and died, which was the homestead of his father, the late William Brown purchased when he came to reside in the settlement many years ago. When his father retired and went to live in Summerside, George continued to live on the homestead. He was a man of sterling qualities of heart and mind and had a pleasant personality which made him a welcome visitor. His wife was formerly Miss Peters of Summerside, besides his widow there are left to mourn five daughters, Nora and George, registered nurses in Boston, but who are at present at home Ruth, a deaconess in the Church of England training school at Toronto; Sadie of the Provident Bank at Windsor, Ont., and Freda Mrs. Eric Woodside, Summerside; also the following sisters: Mrs. A. E. Clark, Charlottetown; Mrs. W. H. Davis of Montreal; and Mrs. W. H. Davis of Kew of Summerside, to whom much sympathy is extended. The funeral will take place this afternoon from his late residence at 14

FRIDAY & SATURDAY

GRANDER THAN YOU'RE ONLY YOUNG ONCE!
Romance...thrills...and what fun...in the Hardy family's new adventures!

JUDGE HARDY'S CHILDREN
Another Story of Judge Hardy's Family
By Lewis Stone and Vickie Parker
Illustrated by George B. Holt

FRIDAY & SATURDAY
ALSO "CRIME DOESN'T PAY"
SHOWS AT 7:30 - 9:10
MATINEE SATURDAY AT 3

CAPITOL

Albertain and Vicinity

Her many friends will regret to hear of the serious illness of Miss Marie Cummings, which necessitated her entrance to the Prince County Hospital. All hope for a speedy recovery.

The many friends of Mrs. J. J. McQuaid are pleased to learn she is feeling much better after her recent illness.

A very enjoyable Armistice Dance was held in the Institute Hall on Friday, Nov. 11th. It was largely attended by the young folks from Alberton, Tignish and O'Leary. Proceeds were in aid of Alberton High School. A delicious luncheon was served by the teaching staff of A. H. S. Music for dancing was furnished by the Tignish Orchestra.

The marriage of Miss Mae Kinch daughter of Mrs. Martin Kinch and the late Mr. Kinch of Alma, P. E. I., to Mr. Laurence Cameron son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Cameron of Wellington, P. E. I., took place at the Sacred Heart Church at Alberton at 7:00 a. m. on Wednesday, Nov. 9th. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Wm. V. Macdonald. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Edna Kinch, while Mr. Albert Cameron, of Wellington, ably supported the groom. Miss Mary McQuaid played the wedding march, and also played sacred music during the ceremony. A delicious wedding breakfast served at the home of the bride, the wedding party left on a motor trip to Charlottetown. The happy young couple will reside at Wellington, P. E. I. They have the best wishes of their many friends for a happy wedded life.

A post-nuptial shower was tendered to Mrs. Cameron at her home in Alma on Friday evening by her many friends and neighbors. The numerous beautiful and useful gifts received testified to the popularity of Mrs. Cameron and the good wishes of the folks for her future happiness.

Mr. Alfred Murphy, formerly of Tignish, P. E. I., who has been a broad for some years, is renewing old acquaintances at Alberton.

The annual bazaar in aid of the Sacred Heart Church Fund was held in the Institute Hall at Alberton on Wednesday, Nov. 9th and voted a success in every way.

Messrs. Richard and Fredrick Mallett of Charlottetown, P. E. I., accompanied by Miss Mary Mallett, who is a student in N. D. A., motored to Alberton on Sunday to visit Mary's folks, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mallett.

Mrs. John S. Taylor and son, Clinton, are spending a few days visiting friends in Charlottetown, P. E. I.

The many friends of Mrs. Herbert Champlin are sorry to hear of her illness at her home here, but all hope to see her about again in the near future.

Mr. J. J. McIvor of Kinkora, P. E. I., was a recent visitor to Alberton. He was accompanied by James Callahan.

Miss Alice McQuaid, who is a student at Tignish, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McQuaid, at Alberton.

The many friends of Stephen MacAliduff are pleased to learn that he is well on the road to recovery from his recent illness.

Miss Lillian Wells, student at P. W. C. Charlottetown, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Wells, at Alberton.

Miss Mildred Fraser, business student at Charlottetown, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Fraser, of Alberton South.

Miss Ella Whelan, of N. D. A., Charlottetown, and Miss Noreen Whelan, teacher at Bloomfield Station, spent the weekend at their home here.

Mr. William Fraser, student at Mt. A. Seakville, N. B., spent the weekend at his home in Alberton.

Agricultural

(Continued from page 1)

ferential rates, in varying degrees, on a considerable list of her goods entering Canada, including chemicals, iron and steel in various forms, Diesel engines, motorcycles, trawls, and other fishermen's necessities, aircraft parts and dental instruments.

South Africa also sacrificed a measure of her preferences in Canada on Indian corn and fruits. These concessions were covered in an exchange of diplomatic notes exchanged between the countries concerned.

United States concessions to Canada cover 202 items and sub-items in the United States tariff schedule. Products listed under these headings formed $27,500,000 or 83 per cent of the total imports from Canada in 1937.

The 1935 agreement provided reduction in only 63 items and sub-items of the Dominion's tariff. Today's agreement provides for new reductions on 129 items which represented a trade value in 1937 of $72,000,000.

Items are "bound" at the existing rates of duty for the life of the agreement, (including 32 rates reduction in the 1935 agreement) which reduction is bound in respect of 32 items.

Canada's concessions to United States involve 447 items or parts of items in the Dominion's tariff schedule. Of these 283 provide for reductions in duty below existing rates, 146 items are bound at the rates now effective, and 18 other items are affected either one way or the other.

Concessions gained in the United States market cover virtually the full range of goods which Canada is the chief source of supply for the United States.

For the fiscal year ended March 31, 1938, value of goods imported under the 447 Canadian tariff items affected by the new agreement was $280,000,000 or about 58 per cent of the total of all imports from United States.

In addition to reducing the duty rate on 283 of the 447 items involved, Canada agrees, at the earliest opportunity, to reduce the rate of duty on 146 items to 37 1/2 cents from June 15 to July 31, and abolished for the remainder of the year.

Reductions were made in fruits and packaged food products, tobacco, liquors, chemicals, arts, metals and their products, heavy and scientific machinery of various kinds, motorcycles and aircraft parts but not on automobiles, textiles, leather and leather goods, heavy mining machinery and wishing equipment, and building materials.

It must be increasingly apparent, the Prime Minister added, "that the stability of the civilization we cherish depends more than ever on the friendly association of the great English-speaking peoples of the old world and the new."

Secretary Hull, who has been laboring upon the two agreements for many months, commented that the three nations have given new vitality to the basic principles of a civilized world order, the acceptance and application of which are indispensable to economic well-being and social security within nations, to peaceful relations between nations, and, therefore, to the continued advancement and progress of mankind.

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

EXCHANGE OF AMENITIES AT WASHINGTON

Premier King Speaks At Brief Ceremony Over Trade Pacts.

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17—The United Kingdom and the United States, enjoying two-fifths of the world's trade, and Canada and the United States today signed reciprocal trade agreements establishing new economic ties.

In a momentous ceremony in the mirrored glass room of the White House, Prime Minister Mackenzie King signed for Canada, Secretary of State Cordell Hull for the United States and the British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, and Arnold Overton, second secretary of the British Board of Trade, for the United Kingdom, Northern Ireland, Newfoundland and the Empire Colonies.

In a brief address at the ceremony, the Canadian Prime Minister said it was "no exaggeration" to say relations between the Dominion and the United States have never been happier than since they signed their first trade agreement in 1935.

"That agreement expires this Dec. 31," Mr. Hull said the signing of the broad range of historic significance and that they "furnish concrete and powerful support for a future trend of world developments along the lines of increasing understanding and cooperation among nations."

President Roosevelt, attending the ceremony as an "interested observer," sat at the centre of a long table facing the lobby of the executive mansion. Mr. Mackenzie King and Secretary Hull sat at his left; Sir Ronald and Mr. Overton at his right.

The British Ambassador said he shared fully Mr. Hull's sentiments "as to the promise for improvement in relations among nations which grows out of international agreements of the kind which have been so happily concluded."

Mr. Mackenzie King expressed "genuine satisfaction" that the United States and Great Britain, "with whose fortunes those of Canada are so closely linked, have effectively strengthened the friendly relations which have long prevailed."

"It must be increasingly apparent," the Prime Minister added, "that the stability of the civilization we cherish depends more than ever on the friendly association of the great English-speaking peoples of the old world and the new."

Secretary Hull, who has been laboring upon the two agreements for many months, commented that the three nations have given new vitality to the basic principles of a civilized world order, the acceptance and application of which are indispensable to economic well-being and social security within nations, to peaceful relations between nations, and, therefore, to the continued advancement and progress of mankind.

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

Mr. Hull said the two agreements "not only provide an instrument for an expansion of values, but also, between the countries concerned, they constitute an expression of determination on the part of three of the world's largest commercial nations to mutual aid and strengthen a sound and healthy basis of international trade."

COMPROMISE

(Continued from page 1)

conditions permitted. The dispute which had been brewing for some time between the City and Federal Authorities reached a head with the receipt last week by Mayor Foster of a letter from Mr. E. C. Purroy, District Engineer, Moncton, of a letter enclosing an order from Mr. G. L. McCoe, Airways Engineer with the Department of Transport at Ottawa. The order told Mayor Foster the recommendation of Mr. J. L. Douglas, M. P., concerning who was to be employed on the airport site, be accepted. Change in the method of selection of laborers was to be made that Mr. Douglas might furnish "more competent" men, the order said.

The City Council in regular session last Monday decided to accept the change in method of selection and decided the airport would "be closed to all further development" if the proposed change were made.

The Council had a contract from the Department of Transport, signed by Hon. C. D. Howe, the minister, permitting the City to select, for a period of three years, the laborers to be employed, with the exception of certain key-men, Mayor Foster said.

Commenting on a dispatch from Ottawa last night which quoted the Transport Minister and said also charges of discrimination in selection of labor were said to have been made by J. L. Douglas, Liberal M. P. for Queen's, the Mayor said: "There was never any discrimination made. The only thing the Council is trying to guard against is such a thing happening if the contract (with the Department of Transport) were broken."

The Provincial Government entered into the negotiations, it was understood, by reason of its intention to bear half the first cost of the airport site, said to be $300,000.

Howe Comments

OTTAWA, Nov. 17—Work on the civic airport at Charlottetown, discontinued because of a dispute between municipal and federal authorities, will remain suspended indefinitely unless the local officials there compose their difficulties.

Transport Minister Howe said here today that "if they cannot agree on how men are to be employed the work will have to be shut down." The airport is being developed with federal money with the municipality contributing the property.

"All I want is to see them go ahead with competent men and build an airport," the Minister said.

It was understood here the work was being done with much of the labor selected by the municipality by agreement with the federal authorities who forced the payroll. Charges of discrimination in selection of labor were said to have been made by J. L. Douglas, Liberal M. P. for Queen's.

When the selection of workmen was placed in the hands of the federal member similar charges of discrimination were brought by the municipality who objected to this interference. The Minister intimated he would not interfere at the moment, hoping the parties on the spot would get together in the interests of completing the airport.

The agreement binds against increases the present rate of 17-1/2 per cent on automobiles and provides for reduction of the rate on motor cycles, from 20 per cent to 17-1/2 per cent.

The rate of aircraft is reduced from 22-1/2 per cent to 20 per cent.

One-piece cast frames and cast steel trucks for railway rolling stock secure a rate of 7-1/2 per cent, hydraulic excavating and scraper units, transit-type concrete mixers, and dump wagons or trailers on crawler tracks, previously dutiable at 20 or 27-1/2 per cent on their furniture.

The agreements provides for complete removal of the specific duties on clothing and wearing apparel, N. O. P.,