PEOPLE use ML Floorglaze for the hulls of sailboats and motor-boats, and are satisfied with the way it looks and lasts.

That proves M L Floorglaze is water-proof. A good all-purpose finish, therefore.

PEOPLE use ML Floorglaze on vehicles, too, and find it looks better and lasts longer than any kind of varnish or paint.

That proves M L Floorglaze is fade-proof and weather-proof. The perfect protector for all woodwork, therefore.

PEOPLE find that ML Floorglaze helps housewives keep floors dust-free because the surface stays glass-hard and glossy.

M L Floorglaze doesn't mind wet, sun, scuff of feet nor dragging of furniture across it.

ML FLOORGLAZE is the best thing you can get to help renovate the whole house. Fine for all woodwork, indoors and out. Makes old furniture look new again. Goes farthest, too—gallon covers 500 square feet.

Choose among 17 pretty colors in solid enamel—seven Lacs to imitate hardwoods—and Transparent for natural finish. Comes in little and big tins. Easy to put it on right. Ask at your dealer's or write us for news of the hundred uses you could make of M L Floorglaze. The Imperial Varnish & Color Co., Limited, Toronto

ROMANCE IN SCOTCH HISTORY.

Curse Pronounced by Mother of Great Soldier Seemed to Have Adequate Fulfillment.

The widow of the great Viscount Dundee married shortly after his death William Livingston of Kilsyth, who had long been in love with her. Dundee's mother, who considered Livingston virtually her son's murderer, pronounced a curse on her daughter-in-law and her husband, praying that God would show the unworthy couple some swift token of his anger. The wedding day of Livingston and Lady Dundee was fraught with bad omens. The bridegroom gave the bride a ring inscribed, "Yours Till Death," but the ring was lost before the day was over, and the vengeful old Lady Dundee sent as her wedding gift a nightcap, a pair of white gloves and a rope, all these articles typical of a condemned murderer. In October, 1695, it seemed as though the unhappy fate so desired by Lady Dundee fell on her daughter-in-law, who died at Utrecht through a terrible accident. She, her infant son, and her maid were crushed to death through the roof falling in, her husband being rescued with great difficulty. The bodies of Lady Kilsyth and her baby were embalmed and brought to Scotland, and in the year 1800 it was the common practice of the inhabitants of Kilsyth to go to the vault and see the bodies, which were as perfect as the hour they were first placed in the coffin.

TREASURE HIDDEN IN EARTH.

Priceless Relics So Concealed Must Some Day Be Restored to the Light of Day.

The actual prosaic instances of treasure trove and the Old World ceremonial involving "crowner's quest law" to decide the legal rights are to be found in any text book on the subject. More interesting, with a certain fascination of romance, is the reflection that even in our own country there are probably numerous buried hoards, says the London Chronicle.

One cannot always ignore tradition and throughout the length and breadth of the land are to be found old legends of hidden treasure, some times guarded by a curse, sometimes by a special warder. There is probability almost amounting to certainty that valuables were hidden by the Romans, and even more probably by the Romano Britons. The treasures of the Incas and of pirates such as Kidd are still existent in theory; the buried wealth of India is among the rudimentary facts known to all students of the east.

But perhaps most startling and alluring of all is the theory that among the treasure trove to be at some time recovered from Persian sands or ruins are the Sacred Breastplate and the mysterious Urim and Thummim of the Jewish priesthood.

Great Novelist's Gratitude.

His Bonny Child Stricken With Eczema.

Marvellous Deliverance of Zam Buk

The beautiful three-year-old son of Mr Campbell Rae-Brown, author of the famous "Kissing-Cup's Race" and "The Great Newmarket Mystery," has been cured in a fortnight by Zam-Buk, of a most distressing attack of eczema.

Little Stuart Campbell Rae-Brown, because of his clear skin and regular features, is constantly being sought as a model of painters and photographers, but his prettiness would now be a thing of the past, but for Zam-Buk's timely healing of the terrible sores on his face.

"I cannot express to you," writes Mr Campbell Rae-Brown from his country home at Eden Villa, Dunoon "the gratitude felt by my wife and myself for the astounding way in which your Zam-Buk cured our only child's face of its terrible affliction.

"There was scarcely a pin's-point of his face left untouched by the disfiguring eczema. Perfectly sound and well in other respects, imagine our feelings when, after trying many so called cures in vain, we began to think our boy might be permanently disfigured.

"No sooner had we applied your great remedy, than, hour by hour and day by day, the unsightly blotches began to disappear, to fade—I can think of no better expression—gradually away, leaving behind not the very slightest trace of the affection. The skin on his face again assumed its own delicate texture and natural bloom, and when the glad day came when the cure had been wholly affected, we could scarcely believe our eyes. Our boy, whose beautiful face had been lost to us, had been restored—a miracle had been performed—by Zam-Buk."

Surely no higher testimony could be required to prove Zam-Buk's unique power over skin diseases than this spontaneous and unsolicited letter from such a popular author.

Eczema, disfiguring sores, rashes and skin injuries, are daily perils, and Mr. Rae-Brown's practical advice to all parents, is to get Zam-Buk into the home, and so have it always handy.

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for ulcers, skin eruptions, poisoned sores, bad legs, varicose veins, chilblains, cold sores, piles, itch, ringworm, and all skin diseases. Also heals cuts, burns, bruises, etc., and, used as an embrocation, relieves rheumatism, sciatica, etc. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

GUARD THEIR HEALTH!

Children Who Grow Very Fast Need Careful Watching.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills would make her healthy and happy.

Next to infancy, the years between ten or twelve and eighteen are the most critical in life, especially for the boys and girls who grow too fast. Rapid growth and the physical changes that are taking place render them particularly liable to weakness and disorders of the digestive system, kidneys or lungs that very frequently, when allowed to run on, condemn them to a lifetime of suffering.

It is most important that at this period of life those organs which carry off the body's waste and impurities—the bowels, the kidneys and the skin—should be kept active and vigorous.

Nothing will do this more effectively than that good old-fashioned remedy, Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills. It acts directly on each of these organs, enabling them to do their work properly, and thus keeps the whole system pure and healthy.

Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills are still made from precisely the same formula as when our grandparents used them, for nothing better has ever been devised.

Some New Definitions.

Girls in a fashionable seminary not a hundred miles from town, in examination papers, recently turned out a new batch of delightful definitions. It is evident from their answers that several of them, while they may not be trained thinkers, have more or less logical processes of thought. One defined "red tape" as "the inability of any one holding a political position to do anything necessary without special orders," showing she had read her "Little Dorrit" to advantage, to say nothing of "Bleak House." Another girl, asked "Why does a ship float the right way up?" replied, "Because if it did not the people in it would tumble out." One ingenious girl suggested "foxlet" as a noun for a young fox which certainly is more specific than puppies. And a young person, evidently determined not to let herself be humbugged, said "B.Sc." meant "Bad science."—Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

Fletcherizing.

"Yes," said the newly fledged Fletcherite, addressing his wife, "I have fully and firmly determined to turn over a new leaf and eat only two meals a day hereafter."

"Which will you omit, dear—breakfast or luncheon?" sweetly inquired his better fraction.

"Well-er-I hadn't considered that point yet. It is going to be quite a long stretch between meals, isn't it? Let me see; how shall we arrange it? Only two meals a day; we've got that point settled, but-er-yes, now I've got it! Not to have too much of an interval in between times I think I will divide the two meals up into three installments, same as at present."

Effect of Fear.

A vigorous young greengrocer, aged 27, was arrested recently on charges of drunkenness and assaulting a policeman, who was assisted in securing him a Mr. Lyons. Later, it was announced in court that Mr. Lyons was dead, and the greengrocer was remanded to see whether the coroner's jury would hold him in any responsible for the tragedy. It was found that Mr. Lyons' death was due to heart disease of long standing, but meanwhile the agonizing suspense had aged the prisoner terribly, his black hair having become completely white. —London Mail.

Looking After Business.

"I like this flat very well," she said. "I will be very glad to rent it to you," replied the landlord.

"But we have two children?"

"They need not interfere with you and your husband having the flat. I have a house two blocks down the street, which you can rent for the children and the nurse!"

BALZAC AND SHAKESPEARE.

The revived interest in Shakespeare, which is a sign of the times in French literary circles, was evidenced the other day, when George Moore, at the request of the organizers of a series of "conferences" by well-known people, delivered an address in Paris on "Balzac and Shakespeare." Mr. Moore is, with Meredith and Hardy, one of the English writers most appreciated by the French, and he is a great admirer of France and French literature. Early in his career he spent several years in Paris, studying and painting, and among his personal friends were Manet, Degas, and later, Emile Zola.

After his return to England, Mr. Moore abandoned painting for literature, and then followed the series of novels which have brought him his high reputation. Several of his works, notably "Esther Waters," have been translated into French, and they find a large and sympathetic public in this country. Although the author of "The Untilled Field" has been a long time absent from France, he has not forgotten the language of the country in which he received his earliest aspirations, and it was in excellent French that he delivered his "conference" on "Balzac and Shakespeare."

He certainly had no need to excuse himself for being, in his own words, "a barbarian." The distinguished audience which listened to him was not slow to recognize that the English novelist was acquainted with all the "finesses" of the language of Moliere, and that he even spoke it better than some French "conferenciers."

His lecture was full of charmingly expressed criticism on all the arts, and on that of painting in particular. He had, he said, associated Balzac and Shakespeare as the subject of his remarks because no French writer was more representative of French genius than Shakespeare.

After comparing them and illustrating their points of resemblance, Mr. Moore emphasized a feature which, in his opinion, English Shakespearian authorities had too frequently overlooked, namely, the prominent place accorded by the Bard of Avon to men. He was not fascinated, like so many lesser writers, by the eternal feminine. Certainly there are the characters of Ophelia, Desdemona, and Cordelia, but it was easy to see that in Shakespeare's time these roles were intended to be played by young boys. This peculiarity was one of the strong resemblances between the English poet and Balzac, for he, too, preferred "l'eternal masculin," and of all the names of women which occurred in the works of Balzac, that of Eugenie Grandet is the only one that is remembered. In the course of his "conference" 'Mr. Moore defended Balzac against the reproach of having at times neglected his style. He admired him for the facility with which he wrote, for an author who wrote with an effort was not a great writer.—Paris Correspondent London Globe.

A Richibucto School Teacher

Once a Dyspeptic—Now Well, Thanks to Father Morriscy's No. 11.

Richibucto, N. B., Nov. 17th 1909.
Father Morriscy Med. Co., Ltd.,

I have been teaching school for upwards of thirty years, during the last twenty-five of which I have suffered seriously with stomach trouble, indigestion and dyspepsia.

I have tried many remedies, and while I would get temporary relief from some of them, yet the old trouble would return, and with it the sufferings only known to the chronic dyspeptic.

Last year I had made up my mind to abandon my profession, feeling that in my condition I could neither do justice to myself or to the many pupils under my charge. A friend suggested to me that I try Father Morriscy's No. 11 Stomach Tablets; I did so, and have continued to use them with the result that my stomach trouble is cured—my indigestion and dyspepsia gone and I feel as well as I ever did.

I have, thanks to the Tablets, been able to continue in my profession, and feel that I am once more enjoying my work and am able to give justice to the fifty-four pupils under my care.

Yours Gratefully,
(Signed) MARY CHRYSTAL.

Are you one of the many thousands who, like Miss Chrystal, are prevented from doing their best work, or really enjoying life, by stomach trouble?

If you are you cannot do better than she did—take Father Morriscy's No. 11 Tablets.

Each No. 11 Tablet, when dissolved in the stomach, will digest 1¾ pounds of food—a good, hearty meal—so that no matter how weak your stomach may be No. 11 Tablets will enable you to get the nourishment out of your food and build up your strength, while the stomach, thus relieved, recovers its vigor.

Five Roses, Madam, is not A Blended Flour

The Man with the selling Smile would say:
"Yes'm, all wool and a yard wide."
But Mrs. Homemaker grew suspicious — would turn the piece over — deftly jerk a thread away — triumphantly cry:
"That all-wool! — pshaw, cotton thread!"
For, you see, it's easy to get fooled on woollens.
Almost as easy as on flour, Madam.
Unless you read the label — "Manitoba Hard Wheat."
And those words — "FIVE ROSES."

It is NOT a "blend"—FIVE ROSES flour, not a mere mixture of wheats.

It's "all-wool," truly.

Being the exclusive extract of as strictly Hard Spring Wheat as ever comes out of Manitoba in a golden stream.

No soft stuff ever reaches the rolls at Keewatin, never. Just the highest-priced wheat in the world's market.
And this is the WHY of it, Mistress Housewife:

* * * *

When different-coloured wheats are mixed, the flour MUST vary more or less in complexion.

Then to obtain the uniform colour required, YOUR FLOUR IS BLEACHED!

Which you don't want, of course.
So get FIVE ROSES.

And the soft wheat being weaker than the hard, the different flour particles in your dough can't absorb equal quantities of water.

So you get uneven granulation, erratic fermentation, irregular doughs.

And you don't want that either, do you?

* * * *

Soft wheat having less gluten, less nutriment, less strength—your meals are less nutritious, less sustaining.

Soft wheat having less strength, less quality gluten—you get less good things for your money and things less good.

Therefore, you don't want soft wheat in your flour, isn't that so?

For the sake of a healthier, tastier table; for better texture, flavour, appearance, lightness—

Superior "oven consequences," Madam—

Get a flour that is NOT a blend, which answers the whole circle of kitchen economy—

Get FIVE ROSES now.
