In Memoriam

MRS. GEORGE DUNSFORD

South Melville was saddened to learn of the passing of one of its oldest and most respected citizens in the person of Mrs. George Dunsford in her eighty-ninth year, on Friday, April 9th, 1948.

Though blind for the past five years, she had been in good health until three months before her passing, when all that tender nursing and loving care could do was of no avail.

She was the daughter of the late Joseph and Phoebe MacDonald of Crapaud. She was a woman of home-loving qualities, and was kind and charitable both in thought and deed. As long as she was able, she was a regular attendant of the St. John's Church, Crapaud.

She leaves to mourn four sons, Joseph on the homestead; George of Hampton; Harry of South Melville; Fred of Cornwall, and four daughters, Mrs. Lorne Ferguson of Hampton; Mrs. Phoebe MacKinnon of Belville, N. J.; Mrs. Francis Stewart of Peabody, Mass.; Mrs. Lewis Costello, Sask.; also one sister, Mrs. Charles Dunsford of South Melville, and one brother, Mr. Robert MacDonald of Crapaud, also many grandchildren and great grandchildren. Her husband predeceased her ten years ago.

The funeral service was conducted at the home by Rev. T. Head and at the church by her pastor, Rev. B. Freame of St. John's Church, Crapaud, both of whom spoke feelingly of the admirable qualities of the deceased. The hymns sung were favorites of the deceased. The Lord's My Shepherd, Abide With Me, Crossing the Bar, with Mr. George MacDonald as organist.

The pall bearers were, Fred MacDonald, Frank MacDonald, Gordon Dunsford, Wilmont MacDonald, William Dunsford, and Jack Nicholson, nephews of the deceased.

The remains were tenderly laid to rest in the family plot beside her husband in St. John's Cemetery, Crapaud.

News from the Seventh

First of all Scouts of the Seventh I want to remind you of one or two things, namely these: All boys of the Seventh and Third troops are asked to be at St. Pauls Hall, 7.15 Sharp, Thursday, May 13th. The variety concert is to start at 8.00, but we want you there early as those who are in skits need to be costumed and made up. The leaders want all the Scouts who have uniforms to wear them. Remember it is a Scout concert, and lastly, bring all your tickets and money with you, as it has to be in that night. The boys who are doing fire-lighting, be sure to bring your sets. Thanks, Beaver, Red Pine.

Last week our subject was "Dawn Hikes." This week the subject is "Bush Day."

I suppose the aborigines of any country know what bush days are. Scouts should also know, and in addition to knowing, take part in a "Scout" bush day. Leaders of other troops have bush days, which are all different. Every leader has his own interpretation of a bush day. This is the way we intend to do it at the troop camp this summer.

Along about six o'clock some evening, (naturally, it will have to be a fine evening) the scouts will be issued with rations and told to pack up the minimum of equipment, such as, two blankets, groundsheet, eating utensils, and toilet articles. After all is in readiness, the hike will start. The stopping place will be some suitable place back in the tall timber far away from camp. On arrival, the Scouts can practise their knowledge of woodcraft and lashings by erecting shelters for themselves for the night. Personally, I will

When INTEGRITY is ESSENTIAL

apply for a COMMISSIONAIRE

• Across Canada, employers have found the Corps of Commissionaires supplies a unique service. The personnel, distinctively-uniformed ex-service men, have established an outstanding reputation for reliability and trustworthiness.

Trans-Canada Air Lines says: "The reliability, discipline and good sense of these men stems in part from their background of national service."

San Antonio Gold Mines describes the Corps as "the most efficient and satisfactory way" to obtain employees needed as mine guards.

"Splendid" is the comment of James Richardson & Sons, of Winnipeg.

It is good business to discuss positions where trustworthiness is the main requirement, with the Corps of Commissionaires.

probably sleep out under the boughs of some good spruce tree. If any time is left, a campfire will be held and cocoa brewed and cookies devoured.

In the morning, after a good swim, breakfast will be cooked and the various shelters inspected for lashings, neatness, and judgment given as to the most ingenious one. A wide game and some particular instruction, followed by the trek back to camp in time for dinner. Now I suppose you Scouts wonder why the purpose of this? Well—all Scouts should be able to take care of themselves under all conditions at all times. Too much on P. E. I., and more particularly in our own troops, have scouts been babies. The leaders of the "third" and "seventh" felt that the "bush day" will be a step in the right direction; introducing you scouts to the greater adventures of scouting, and the training of self reliance.

Next week I will try to introduce you chaps to our "Pioneering" program.

By the way, I wonder how many of the Scouts of the "third" and "seventh" are reading this column? I would like to hear your comments when you see me. I never hear you mention anything, so I suspect you don't read it. Let me hear you prove otherwise.

Yours in Scouting,
"Beaver"

add in large measure to the diversification of Canadian production. It is officially estimated that over 200 new products, formerly imported, are now being turned out in Canada. Not all these new types of goods, ranging from scientific instruments to pulp-mill machinery, are made in new plants, as there has been much diversification accomplished by many well-established concerns. Two important benefits are already apparent. First, more capital goods are now being produced from Canadian materials by Canadian labour, and second, the needs of the general buying public are being met more and more by new types of consumer goods in wide variety now for the first time being made in Canada.

The effects on the final outcome of the programme as a whole, including new plants, of the restrictions imposed last November on the import of capital goods into Canada are rather difficult to assess. Several interesting points, however, emerge from an examination of all the expenditures. First, of that portion of total new capital investment earmarked for machinery and equipment only about one-third was to be spent abroad, mainly in the United States. Second, as more new Canadian plants come into production they will be able to supply, at least in part, substitutes for goods affected by the new import restrictions. And finally, as work under the programme was quite far advanced and the amount of United States machinery and equipment to be ordered by Canadian industry varied from only 13 per cent. in the case of pulp and paper to about 67 per cent. for primary textiles, it is probable that a large proportion of the goods required from the

NOTICE SCHOOL ATTENDANCE

(Work Certificates)

Numerous requests have come to the Department of Education for permission to have pupils away from school for seasonal spring work in farming and fishing. In conformance with the practice followed in other provinces, this Department of Education is issuing work certificates for seasonal home work. During the 1947 session of the Prince Edward Island Legislature the following was added to Section 113 of the School Act:

"When the services of any child of the full age of twelve years are required by his parent or guardian, for a temporary period in husbandry or some other necessary employment, a Public School Inspector upon application in writing being made by the parent or guardian of such child, may by certificate setting forth the reasons therefor, relieve such child from attending school for a total period not exceeding six weeks in all during each school year."

Application forms for work certificates may be procured from local School Inspectors or from the Department of Education. When parents make application to the School Inspector they should state the age of the pupil, the nature of the work and the length of time for which permission for absence is sought. No consideration can be given to requests for permission for pupils to remain from school to hire out for labour.

J. WALTER JONES,
Minister of Education,
Prince Edward Island.
