Motor Transport Section

On Saturday, May 1, hospital visit parties from the Motor Transport Section called on the service men and veterans who were patients in the various hospitals. The amusement of the men during their confinement to hospital. Other members of this section were on duty at the weekly canteen at Brighton Club No. 1 Platoon. The hearty good wishes of the Transport Section will follow former Driver Alice Douglas whose marriage to Capt. Fairbairn of the R. C. F. took place on Tuesday, and who will make her home in future at Greenwood, N. S., where her husband is stationed. The Section, in particular the members of No. 1 Platoon of which she was member, will regret her departure but all join in wishing her every happiness in the milestones in the history of the Transport Section was passed on Thursday night when approximately twenty of the members wrote their final exams under the training syllabus laid down by National Headquarters. The course is far more extensive than is generally realized and the members were successfully completed their qualification are to be congratulated.

"What a grand noogie," Cary said. "It must be lovely down there this time of year — any time of year, for that matter. How would you like to go along?"

Her fork made a resounding clatter on her plate. Was this his way of asking her to marry him? If so, she wasn't quite ready to have Paul say such things to her. She wanted to put that off a little longer.

"You forget that I'm a business woman now," she said.

Paul drew his fine brow in a puzzled line and then laughed. "I didn't get you at first. If you mean those horses we can get rid of them easily." He looked at her through a thin veil of smoke. "I've been looking at a house in Cordova. Mother wanted me to see it. She thinks it's just the thing."

She tried desperately to shut her mind to any dreams which she might have dreamed, and think of herself as Paul's wife. She would be happy with him, after a fashion, she was sure. They would go things together, see interesting things. There would be a big house in Cordova with ocean frontage and servants. Later there would be an orchard.

She knew Laurels would be sullen and unforgetting in the role of grandmother. But Paul would be generous with Laurels. Such men as Jim Constance would drop out of her life, Cary hoped. The world would be sold, Mrs. Norris would revert to a fourteen-year-old boy who climbed trees with breath-taking swiftness, and explored dark caves. Anthony, however, would never figure in Cary's life again, after she married Paul.

She looked out across the floor at the dancers and what she saw must have caused her to pale upon her, but his eyes twinkled over hers and said, "Darling, let's get out of here and drive a bit. It's terribly close and stuffy."

She said, "Yes, let's do."

She saw through his excuse to get her away to himself as a chance to make love to her, but the thoughts was no longer frightened. Across the floor she had danced with a slender, brown-haired girl. His head was bent and she saw his broad face as he slightly flushed.

"The girl might have seen Cary," she thought, and she didn't like the first time that she saw Jim Constance so much more.

VICTORY LOAN HOUR

May 12th — From Toronto

Gail Patrick and Herbert Marshall, brilliant co-stars in the recent Metro Goldwyn Mayer picture, "Kathleen" are coming to Canada to join other top-rank entertainers of the stage, screen and radio in the Victory Loan Hour, to be broadcast from Toronto on a coast-to-coast network, Wednesday, May 12, from 10 to 11 A.D.T. Other stars of the show will be Alec Templeton, the versatile pianist-comedian; Thomas L. Thomas whose rich baritone voice is always welcomed by Canadians; and Percy Faith who has come home to Toronto to make the orchestral arrangements and personally conduct the orchestra for this show. All these artists are donating their time and talent in aid of the Fourth Victory Loan.

The dramatic skill of Gail Patrick and Herbert Marshall is well known in Canada. Many will have seen Miss Patrick's recent picture "We Were Dancing". Herbert Marshall's recent picture soon to be released is "Facilly Row", a screen comedy with a modern story of ultra-modern people.

Herbert Marshall served with the Fourteenth London Scots Regiment. He was severely wounded in action and upon his return, joined a Legion of Honour. He has had a long and successful career on the stage and in the movies, starting in 1920 with his first talking picture, "The Letter" with Jean Exelby. He is versatile and enlivens his art with comedy and satire.

Thomas L. Thomas was born in Wales, as was Alec Templeton. Soon after the United States entered the war, Mr. Thomas cancelled an extensive singing tour and applied for active service with the army. Rejected by the army for physical reasons, he was greatly disappointed. He has since devoted himself to his time to singing for the armed forces, and to raise funds for reorganized war efforts.

Percy Faith is a Canadian who has made good in a big way as an orchestra conductor in the United States. Asked if he would arrange some of the music for the Fourth Victory Loan Shows, he generously volunteered to go the whole way. He came to Toronto to arrange the music for the whole Victory Loan Hour series, giving freely of his time and talent. His seven years of experience as staff conductor, arranger and pianist with the CBC assures a quality of entertainment that Canadians may well look forward to. The broadcast of May 12th will go to a national network from Mass. Hall in Toronto, from 10 to 11 p.m. A.D.T. and will be heard locally on station C. B. A.

All has been presumed the men, whose loss was announced Saturday, were aboard a vessel torpedoed in the Atlantic.

Hon. R. B. Hanson (Prog. Con. York Sunbury) asked for additional information if it was available. Mr. Power said there was strict confidence in respect to shipping affairs, and he did not know when additional information might be given.
