When Reading Help Is Needed
You must have noticed that some of your friends hold their reading matter far from their eyes. Have you ever wondered why they do that? The cause is a loss of the focusing power of the eyes. Can this be restored? Not naturally. But it can be supplied by a competent eye service. All who read with difficulty should consider the above.

Missing Girl Easily Identified
NEW YORK, June 19—(A.P.)—The fortnight-old mystery of the disappearance of Louise Krist, 18-year-old poetess-pianist, which baffled police and department of justice agents, was solved today when a citizen pointed her out to a policeman.
Miss Krist, a striking girl of more than average height, was strolling along third avenue, with Ohlde de Rohan d'Harcourt, when a man whose name police did not obtain, identified them from newspaper photographs. The policeman took the pair to a police station where they were questioned.
D'Harcourt is well known to police as he is to Greenwich Village, lost none of his self-assurance when he faced police. Miss Krist was wearing the same powder blue ensemble in which she disappeared from a meeting of the Raven poetry club in Greenwich Village the first of this month. D'Harcourt's gold-headed cane was missing.
Police said that at first D'Harcourt insisted he and Miss Krist were married. However, when a demand was made to see the marriage certificate, he said, they had not been married. He said they had spent the last two weeks at several hotels.
"I'm glad this happened," he said. "It was torture for both of us. I don't want to cause her any trouble. I worship the ground she walks on. It is a romance of the ages."
D'Harcourt had 50 cents in his possession today. The girl had $1.50.

PUNISH POLICE USING ENGLISH IN OLD GALWAY
By J. C. Dennigan, Canadian Press Correspondent
DUBLIN, June 19—(C.P.)—Stronger methods are to be adopted in the Free State to restore the Irish language.
Eamon Broy, the Irish Commissioner of Police, who commands five languages himself, has prepared a scheme to go into operation immediately whereby the West Galway Division of the Police will transact all its business in Gaelic and policemen who are detected using the English language will be subject to disciplinary punishment.
Galway City itself will become headquarters of the new Gaelic division and members of the force in the area who are not proficient in the native tongue will be transferred to other districts where they will be compelled to make themselves fluent speakers. All judicial proceedings in the territory will be conducted in the national tongue and solicitors and other members of the legal profession who are unable to carry on in the Irish language have lodged a strong protest with the Minister for Justice.
The Minister, however, is determined that the scheme will go through and the Police Commissioner proposes to adopt similar plans for other areas on the Western coast.
During General O'Duffy's term of office as Police Commissioner, members of the force were given five years to acquire the language and linguaphone machines and records were installed in every police station in the Free State where native speakers were not available to give the correct bias (pronunciation).
In the Department of Industry and Commerce, rules have been made under which omnibus direction boards and tickets must be gradually changed from English to Irish. Conductors are expected to acquire a working knowledge of Gaelic in two years.
Under the Department of Education, the Government has established an Irish College in the old Hibernian Military Academy in the Phoenix Park where Church of Ireland (Protestant) teachers will be trained to impart all instruction in their schools through the medium of Gaelic.

..There is nothing repulsive in Miller's Worm Powders and they are as pleasant to take as sugar, so that few children will refuse them. In some cases they cause vomiting through their action in an unsteady stomach, but this is only a manifestation of their cleansing power, no indication that they are hurtful. They can be thoughtfully depended upon to clear all worms from the system.

WOMAN DOCTOR'S SKILL RESTORES MAN'S SIGHT
BIRMINGHAM, June 20—Willie Unwin can see.
The young South African electrical engineer turned heavyweight boxer came to England to make his fortune in the ring, but he lost his sight.
He was training last Christmas when his eyes failed. "I can't see! I can't see," he cried to his manager, who rushed him to Leicester hospital, where an operation partially restored his sight. "Everything seems dim to me now," he said.
Three weeks ago he was persuaded to go to the Birmingham eye hospital. He was operated upon by detached retina, an ailment only too prevalent among boxers who go on fighting with cut eyes to give the crowd "value for money."
The delicate operation was performed by a brilliant woman ophthalmic surgeon. She is on the staff of the hospital and has a big reputation in the Midlands.
For twenty days Unwin has lain in a dimly lit room with his eyes bandaged. Recently the bandages were removed.
He must stay in hospital for another fortnight; he will have to take the greater care of himself; he may have to take up his trade and abandon his genuine vocation for the ring.

Farm Loan Bill Makes Progress In House Com.
(C.P. By Guardian's Special Wire) OTTAWA, June 19—The new debt deal for hardpressed farmers moved a step nearer completion today when the House of Commons passed through committee stage one part of the legislation and then started on the other which was expected to pass later in the day.
The two-pronged legislation would enable farmers, whose debts had increased beyond their ability to pay, to reduce them and start over again. It would involve compromises and adjustment with the loan companies and monetary assistance from the Dominion through the Farm Loan Board. In one respect, it would be bankruptcy proceedings without the stigma of bankruptcy and in another, the direct opposite, because it would enable farmers to continue in business with new capital.
Never since the legislation was introduced by Premier R. B. Bennett has it met opposition and today's committee discussion was harmonious from the start.
One amendment was made after an hour's involved, legal discussion. Under the bill, a farmer who would be regarded as bankrupt if he failed to live up to the compromise debt arrangement made by him with his creditors. This was modified so that if his failure to pay was through no fault of his own, for example, crop failure or drought—bankruptcy would not follow.

OPPOSES HIS NAME ON WAR MEMORIAL
SAULT STE. MARIE, ONT., June 19—J. W. Carroll, of Sault Ste. Marie, wants his name removed from the war memorial at the courthouse ground. Carroll noticed he appeared on the list of those who had fallen in action so he drew this to the attention of the Canadian Legion officials. "I'm still very much alive and I'd like to have it removed," he said. During the war he had been reported killed in action.

GIRL GUIDE NEWS
FIRST COMPANY
The meeting opened as usual with inspection and roll call. Immediately afterwards was the enrolment of Louise Cox. Guide work and games followed. The Blackbird Patrol is still leading in marks for the banner. The meeting ended with Campfire and Taps.

2ND CHARLOTTETOWN CO. (ST. PAUL'S)
"A Day at Camp" was the feature of last Friday's meeting when the Company went through a whole day's program from the rising whistle to the campfire. This gave the newer Guides who are unable to be with us at last year's camp a very real idea of camp life.
Mary Cozier's Patrol had the highest number of points at this meeting, having gained 36. Dorothy Hughes's Patrol and Helen Lawson's Patrol each gained 33 points.
Regular meetings will close for the season next Friday with Badge Presentation evening. A full attendance is requested.

Will Consider Question Of Armament Probe
(C.P. By Guardian's Special Wire) OTTAWA, June 19—Prompt attention has been paid to the suggestion of the League of Nations Society in Canada that the British Government should investigate the British armaments industry according to a communication received at the society's headquarters from the League of Nations Union of Great Britain. In acknowledging a copy of the resolution passed at the recent annual meeting of the Canadian Society A. E. W. Thomas extended the thanks of the executive committee of the British Union and said the suggestion had been placed before the appropriate committee.
In consequence the executive had resolved:
1.—To propose a resolution as a matter of urgency at the forthcoming meeting of its general council which takes place in Bournemouth on the 26th-28th June welcoming the proposal of the United States Government to conduct an official investigation of the private traffic in arms and stressing its importance.
2.—To urge His Majesty's Government to use their whole influence to secure the general ratification and application of the convention of 1924 on the traffic in arms, munitions and implements of war;
3.—To invite His Majesty's Government to initiate an enquiry into the private manufacture of arms analogous to that undertaken by the United States;
4.—To invite members of Parliament who have expressed their support of the principle that the manufacture and sale of arms for private profit is contrary to the public interest to study the report on the means of eliminating such profit, with a view to putting forward positive proposals to that end.
Mr. Thomas said it was likely that Lord Cecil would raise the question in the House of Lords.

IN MEMORIAM
THOMAS J. KEEFE

Quick and Slow Freezing of Fruit
Many claims have been advanced for the necessity of quick freezing over that of slow freezing, says the Dominion Horticulturist. The most consistent claim has been that at very low temperatures small crystals are formed, whereas at higher temperatures larger crystals were formed, which caused disruption of the cell wall. Woodroof of Georgia has reported that ice crystals do not break down the cell wall, but that freezing at different temperatures produced slightly different effects on the cell contents and that differences were in degree and not in kind. He claims that the effect is on the cell contents and causes death, no matter at what temperature the produce is frozen. The U.S. Department of Agriculture reports that any differences which exist are in favour of the slow freezing method, there being more discoloration of the fruit at lower temperatures and, in the case of strawberries, it appears that those frozen at very low temperatures were not as firm as those frozen at the higher temperatures when thawed out. In view of these results from several U.S. Stations, corroborated by the work of the Dominion Department of Agriculture with strawberries and raspberries it would seem quite safe to recommend a temperature of 15 degrees Fahr. as a satisfactory freezing and holding temperature for fruits in small containers in sugar syrup.

MAY FILM MEMOIRS OF LLOYD NO FRENDS OMITTED AS ONE GRADUATE
LONDON, June 19—Plans were being discussed here today for the filming of the memoirs of Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, Great Britain's war time Premier.
Discussion of the contract by Lloyd George and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer officials indicated that the Liberal leader was opposed to having any plot introduced into the film and that he demanded full rights to remove any scenes he may find objectionable in the final film version.
It is believed that if a contract is signed the film will be produced both in England and in Hollywood.

When you buy Red Rose Tea —you buy "GOOD TEA"
THE CEYLON TEA BUREAU advise Canadian women to buy "Good Tea". We are heartily in accord. Forty years ago we adopted the words "Good Tea" as our slogan and year after year, since 1894, we have told Canadian women they might identify "Good Tea" by the trade-name "Red Rose". Many tried Red Rose Tea—thousands of homes have used it for two generations. We merit this confidence in our name by insuring a quality that proved worthy of our slogan "Good Tea".

CANADIAN NATIONAL RAILWAYS
SAFETY SPEED COMFORT SERVICE
The Railways Offer Special Vacation Inducements.
All railways are anxious that the public should regard them as more than mere mechanical means of transportation. They wish each patron to feel that he is the object of personal and friendly interest, and that the magnitude of a railway's operations does not obscure the important fact that when all is said and done it is what the patron thinks that really matters. Passenger traffic, it is realised, can only be built up by obtaining and holding the goodwill and approval of those who travel, and it therefore follows that all factors which affect the traveller merit and receive careful study.
One present factor has been fully taken into account. Today people do not have the spending power—nor the spending desire—of a few years ago, and so, as an addition to the regular services, special fares and excursions have been arranged to meet these conditions. For the long distance traveller there is at present in operation the popular cent-a-mile rate which enables the East to visit the West, and the West to return the compliment, at an exceedingly low cost, while for the traveller whose journey is shorter, there are frequent special trips at attractive fares. There are also reduced fares for week-ends and low rates for special one-day excursions, as well as for trips extending over three or four days, and for organized groups of travellers consisting of more than ten adults reduced fares are obtainable.
When the other things which railways provide are considered, travel at these fares represents the most economical transportation available. Whatever the fare paid, there is provided the essential quality of safety; there is a maximum of comfort and attention. There are at night restful sleeping facilities at extremely low cost, and on long journeys there are inexpensive but attractive and nicely served meals.
It is the endeavour of the railways to please. Suggestions for improvement are welcomed and carefully considered. The passenger is important and his wishes must be paramount.
It will prove well worth your while to find out what the railways can do regarding that trip you have in mind. Our agents everywhere are at your service.
