Orders for Steel Slacken Slightly

CLEVELAND, July 21—(AP)—Orders for certain steel specialties have slackened somewhat, but unfilled business still is enough to sustain heavy production for an "extended period."
 The magazine "Steel," which noted: "Domestic buying still is active, but in some cases—principally in higher products—previous heavy coverage is causing consumers to withdraw at least temporarily from the market."
 Improved demand from several sources is indicated for coming weeks. These include the automotive industry, railroads, building and heavy engineering construction. Large lots of plates, shapes and pipes will be required for spending and prospective construction work, an important part of which is some relation to preparedness measures.
 "Orders for manufacture of defence equipment still are relatively brisk, although aircraft builders and government shops continue important outlets for certain steel

Parliament Expected To Speed Work

OTTAWA, July 21—(CP)—Parliament begins tomorrow the drive expected to bring prorogation on or about Aug. 3. Government leader Dandurand in the Senate last week expected Parliament would prorogue about that date and official opinion during the weekend appeared in agreement with the Senator.

Much depends on how many people want to make known their views on the unemployment insurance bill. A Committee will get organized tomorrow for study of the bill and Labor Minister McLarty is regarded as the logical chairman.

He will have two cabinet ministers to assist him. Works Minister Cardin and Health Minister MacKenzie.

In an effort to shorten the time for consideration of the measure Senator Dandurand announced Thursday he had arranged for Senators to sit with the Commons' committee.

Mr. McLarty stated tonight that quite a number of applications had been received from labor organizations, business groups and industrialists wishing to make representations on the bill.

There seems to be general agreement on the principle of unemployment insurance. The question is the principle that it should be started when employment is plentiful so that the insurance fund can be built up against a time when workers are being laid off.

Opposition to the measure will come from those who contend that with increased income taxes, salary deductions for the national defence tax and various corporation taxes, neither workers nor employers will relish a further deduction at this time to build up an unemployment insurance fund.

Will Clear Estimates
 While the unemployment insurance bill is before the committee the House will clear up the estimates. These are not contentious but members make use of them to ask many questions of ministers and make suggestions.

Bills implementing taxation changes set out in the budget will be introduced this week, giving an opportunity for further debate on tax increase to pay a part of the cost while the war is in progress.

All these matters should be pretty well cleared up before the unemployment insurance bill gets back to the House, which has given it second reading.

There passed to her eternal reward at Cambridge July 19, 1940, Mrs. Lavina Butler, widow of the late Captain B. Butler, in her 72nd year. She was born in Whitehead, Prince Edward Island, and her six sisters immigrated to Cambridge about 81 years ago. Mrs. Butler is the last of a large family. She was a woman of strong Christian character, who early in life identified herself with the Presbyterian Church. She was of a peaceful disposition, a good housewife and a fine neighbor. She lived with her daughter, Mrs. O. Graham, since the death of her husband nearly 17 years ago. She was visited during her illness by her pastor, Rev. A. C. MacPhail, who also officiated at her funeral on July 11. She leaves to mourn two daughters, Mrs. Samuel Clow, of Lexington, Mass., and Mrs. Oswald Graham of Cambridge, P.E.I., also two grand-children and one great grand child. She was buried in the Presbyterian cemetery at Murray Harbor North alongside of her husband. (Drot was accused last October of signing a peace at any price letter. Maurras was sentenced to prison in 1936 for advising his followers to kill Leon Blum, Socialist leader).

Rev. Mr. Hart-Davis Accepts Call To Edinburg Church

The Rev. A. H. Hart-Davis has resigned as rector of the Anglican parish of St. Andrew's, Charlottetown, for the past six years, and expects to be leaving shortly for Scotland, where he has accepted the call of the Rev. Mr. Hart-Davis to the St. James' Episcopal Chapel, Edinburg, where his father, Dr. D. E. Hart-Davis, is the present rector. Rev. Mr. Hart-Davis who paid a brief visit to Edinburg last fall, describes the church as being a particularly attractive building, both outside and within. It is a handsome grey stone structure, possessing a fine spire of bells, and is situated in a growing residential section of the famous Scottish capital. War-time restrictions will prevent Mr. Hart-Davis and his little daughter, Elizabeth Ann, from leaving the country at the present time. Friends throughout the province are extending congratulations to Mr. Hart-Davis on his new appointment.

VEGETABLE NOW

The famous flower-beds of Garden Court in the Madia Temple in London have, we learn, become an allotment. Below the structure is the centre bed of the lawn, there now flourish tomatoes and cabbages, while lines of French beans are growing up their string supports.

To remove builder's cement from red tiles, soak the cement with salt water, rub the cement with piece of brick or a piece of flat stone, then wash off clean. When dry tiles will look white and gleaming. Now rub with linseed oil, using old clean rags. Rub as dry as possible and tiles will look red and keep nice and new in appearance.

Ban On Stock Dealings Relaxed

LONDON, July 19—(CP)—Sir Kingsley Wood, Chancellor of the Exchequer, today announced a partial relaxation of the ban imposed last June 17 on dealings in Canadian and United States stocks and bonds.

He told the House of Commons that until the House in a court permit this would be resumed to permit certain of the securities deposited in Canada by the owners to be sold abroad.

Permission to owners to realize on American securities would make available additional dollars for the war effort since all persons in the United Kingdom must offer to the government at the official rate any foreign exchange held.

Other securities "marketable in the United States" will also be allowed, said Sir Kingsley, similarly would be sent to Canada in order that they might "continue to be realized in orderly fashion."

Physical transfer of the Canadian and United States securities to Canada is being made to facilitate delivery. A representative of the Bank of Montreal will have charge of the securities being sent to Canada and the name of the depository will be the "United Kingdom security deposit."

Sea View

And Vicinity

Recent warm days have sent many stragglers to the ocean. Many visitors are appearing down east for their summer holidays.

Crop reports are favorable, although in some localities they may be short. Although the day is somewhat much improved, the last few weeks the moisture has been coming up the bay. Grains are showing promise of good yields in this season's crop.

The strawberries, both wild and cultivated, seem to be quite plentiful, and of a splendid flavour and size. Those eating them are finding many ready customers.

A large number of the young men have returned to their services for their King and country. Several of them moved to Summerside on Thursday evening for their medical inspection, and make the necessary arrangements of going on military duty at a later date.

Britain To Spend Faster In America

LONDON, July 18—(CP)—Britain will spend faster and more freely on war materials in North America, Lord Woolton, Minister of Food, speaking for the government, told the House of Lords today.

The Ministry of Supply machinery for this purpose has been stepped up, he said, in following Lord Addison, Labor, who complained that the procedure was unsatisfactory and described operations of the supply board as a "disastrous failure."

He warned that "Germany is in control of the productive capacity of a large part of Europe and not only our supplies but the success of the world, must depend on bringing the new world to redress the balance of the world by utilizing the actual and potential resources of the American continent."

Tracing steps taken to secure supplies from Canada, Lord Woolton said the Ministry of Supply was hampered early in the war because of considerable difficulty in turning over Canada's large potential industrial capacity for war material production.

"We intend to spend freely and never to hesitate on the ground of expense in order to acquire all the munitions of war we can get," he said.

Lord Addison commented that Britain needed an organization in the United States quite different from that of the last eight months and urged the arrangements for obtaining supplies of raw material from the American continent.

Bacteriological research in the general field of agriculture and the related industries is now having many important applications. Bacteriology was developed first in connection with human medicine, and in spite of the fact that out of the hundreds of species of bacteria known to science only a very few are recognized as causing disease, bacteriology is still connected in the lay of the Canadian flora.—Dr. J.
