

PROFITS

more responsibility — not because they went to school or that, but on the basis of knowing their job, doing their work well and thereby earning their pay.

The size of the firm enabled them to turn out mass-produced articles cheaper so that whether it was a bar of soap or an automobile the consumer benefitted.

The small profits were paid back to the thrifty investors, so that they in turn could spend their money on goods which keep the factory wheels turning. The other part was earmarked for improvements and expansion, and to enable the firms to have a little cash in the pocket to pay bills as they come along.

So, Pete Profit, in spite of taxes, the attacks of communists, socialists and the spectre of bankruptcy which is always around the corner for any firm which fails to keep up with the times, and remain efficient and prudent, goes his energetic way. He builds up the firms which build up the nation. He puts food in our mouths and coal in the furnace. He gives us hope, and the promise of a better future. Through Pete Profit we can hope that the boy gets to college, that our kids will be better off than we are, that provision will be made for our old age.

Instead of having to play ball with the commissar for a job, a man can have some dignity, and know that by hard work, efficiency, and taking thought for tomorrow he will have time not only to work but to be able to buy the piano—the radio—and the washing machine—for his wife so that she and the family can enjoy the years ahead. Under this system we are guaranteed the freedoms that we fought for. Under the Communists we would have no freedom, and would be working for the state. When profits go, our way of life goes—and the drive, skill and energy that made a country out of a wilderness in a hundred years will go. We will then be run by secret police, concentration camps, told what we can grow on the farms, and what we are to do for a living.

Under Communism, your house will not be your house, your job will be decided by the state, your wife will do an 8-hour job as well as run the house—and if you argue you will disappear one night and no one will ask where.

This state of affairs comes about not by accident, but because people are sold down the river by phoney propaganda.

Profits have built this continent. Communism has destroyed Europe. Let's see that it does not happen here.

Does Oily Hair Mean Unhealthy Scalp?

Even "Natural" Oil may Lead to Hair Troubles

Your hair may be naturally oily, yet develop a drab, dull appearance, and begin to thin out. Oil is not necessarily harmful, but your hair traps dust, dirt and grime from the air—in fact, collects more dirt in a single hour than your body does in a full day.

This dirt combines with scalp oil, dried skin and perspiration to form a waxy accumulation which lies tightly over your scalp and chokes off proper nourishment from your hair. To keep your hair abundant, good-looking, and attractive, your scalp must be healthy and perfectly clean. Your warning signal of an unhealthy scalp is dandruff.

Dandruff tells you to take care of your scalp right now. So dissolve and wash away all dirt and dandruff with Fitch Dandruff Remover Shampoo. Fitch Shampoo works right down into the thousands of tiny hair openings in your scalp, so they are antiseptically clean, and your hair can get the nourishment it needs to keep healthy and lustrous.

Fitch Dandruff Remover Shampoo is the only shampoo guaranteed to remove dandruff. Fitch's creamy, stimulating lather gives your hair a beauty treatment, too.
