LEONARD NOT EAGER TO BOX WITH ROCKY KANSAS BECOMES PITCHING SENSATION

Mike Gibbons Expresses The Opinion That The Champion Can Win.

On the assumption that Benny Leonard will meet Rocky Kansas in the near future, Mike Gibbons reviews the merits of the two lightweights and expresses the opinion that the champion will win.

"Whether Leonard will be able to knock Kansas out is 'a question," says Gibbons. "Rocky is a tough bird. But Benny is a better boxer and is faster. Men of Leonard's calibre are few and far between. He is one of the greatest fighting machines that ever lived and his forte is picking of the tough ones. The question of confidence may have an important bearing on the fight. Kansas never attracted widespread attention until he gained confidence by knocking out Ritchie. Does that confidence include Leonard? No one can answer that question, now. Perhaps Kansas will not be able to answer it until he steps into the ring. But with Leonard it is different."

If the fight is to be won by the man possessing the greater confidence, it looks well for Kansas, hold their opponents, except in an actual attempt to tackle the player who is carrying the ball; (b) no strongest jaws in the lightweight play shall obstruct or charge during the scrimmage on that if Kansas lands on the or except as in rule X (60); (c) the jaw of Mr Leonard as hard as play offending this rule shall be ruled out for not less than three minutes and a loss of one down and 15 yards shall be awarded against the team.

NOTE—In case of a kick off and kick out and following down on a kick, the players of the defending team shall not block or obstruct an opponent except with the body (arms must be close to the body); (a) in case of kick-off this blocking is only permissible on a line ten yards in advance of the point from where the ball is kicked; (b) in case of kick-out on the 25 yard line; (c) in case of a kick from scrimmage only within one yard of the line of scrimmage.

A Big Religious Revival Next

ARMY OF FRIARS IN HOOD AND GOWNS WILL PREACH TO LONDON'S THROUGHS.

(Special to The Guardian) LONDON, April 26.—In a short time the strange spectacle of the Royal Exchange in the heart of the city calling on the public to pray will be a regular lunch hour sight. At the time of the advance guard of a big religious revival is almost ready to set out on a tour on foot throughout London and the country preaching at street corners and on village greens. These preachers belong to the Anglo-Catholic Congress and have been specially named for the work at monasteries and convents.

Walter Mails Gets Great Results With Overhand Delivery.

CLEVELAND, April 26.—Walter "Duster" Mails is shooting down the alley with an overhand delivery this spring. It's the secret of his southpaw control.

Mails discovered he wasn't a side-arm pitcher shortly before he came up to the Cleveland Indians last fall and made American league batters dizzy with his controlled smoke balls.

"Forest Cady, old Red Sox catcher, who was working with me at Sacramento, gave me the tip on myself that started me up."

"When I got wild Cady made me pitch from over my head."

"I could put the ball where I wanted it then."

"In Cleveland Steve O'Neill noticed the same flaw in my delivery."

O'Neill's Help

O'Neill advised me to pitch overhanded all the time.

"Occasionally I'd get wild. I didn't know what was the trouble."

"Then O'Neill would remind me that I was slipping back into my old side-arm delivery."

"I'd watch myself."

"My control came back with the overhand pitch."

"I would never have won seven games for Cleveland and one from Brooklyn in the world series if O'Neill hadn't made me correct my fault."

"I've wasted several years of my pitching career already because I didn't know what was the matter with me."

Same Old Stuff

"I haven't and more stuff now than I had several years ago."

"How'll I pitch to Babe Ruth this year?"

"Just like I would to any other batter."

"All these big leaguers can belt the ball. Ruth don't worry me."

"It takes guts to pitch in the big bow."

"The kind of guts I mean is the nerve to pitch yourself out of a tight hole when the game is at stake."

"I've always had confidence in myself when in the box."

"Now that I've learned the secret of controlled speed—the overhand delivery—I ought to get some place."

Leach Cross To Quit Dentistry

Former Famous Lightweight Will Try "Come-Back" in the Boxing Game

LOS ANGELES, April 26.—Leach Cross will try to come back. The former well-known lightweight, who retired from the ring and, under his true name, Dr. L. C. Wallach, opened dental offices here has announced his intention in an open letter to Los Angeles sporting writers.

Cross' letter follows, in part:

"I nursed this 'bug' for about two years, but definitely decided upon the plan about a year ago, and have been systematically preparing myself for a year for this delayed comeback. I call it a delayed comeback because it is inevitable; only some do it, or rather try it, sooner than others."

"I know the sporting world doubts the changes of a successful comeback because better men than I ever dared to be tried and failed."

"Most men retire because they are not fit for active service. Some wait until public opinion forces them into retirement. Some drink too much to do them any good. Some do all of the above."

"Whereas, I never drank or smoked or dissipated in any form, forgot to mention the fact that all, without exception, allowed themselves to get flabby and when they tried to box again, did so on short notice, I have kept up my training."

"To refute our pal, Horace Irooley, I am headed east."

NO CHANGE FOR ANY TRICKS IN BIG BOUT

Dempsey and Carpentier Will be Keenly Watched During Training.

"Bat" Masterson writes in the New York Telegraph: "Sending a man to the hospital for an operation because he had been struck several foul blows while in action in the ring, as was the case with Mike O'Dowd, is no part of the Queensberry game, and it is to be sincerely hoped that nothing of the kind will happen in the Dempsey-Carpentier fight. At any rate, if one or the other resorts to foul means to help win, it is to be hoped that the referee will have the courage to promptly disqualify the offender, which the rules provide he shall do."

"Dempsey might not have hit Willard with a loaded fist at Toledo, but there are a great many in this country at the present time who believe he did, and those who entertain such an opinion are not of the sucker class by a long shot. The fact is those who think Dempsey used the mailed fist on Willard are men who have had years of experience in the fighting game and know all the foul tricks fighters often employ to win a battle."

"Carpentier, however, is not understood that the champion will Jess Willard, neither is Deschamps select Atlantic City, while Carpentier heavyweights training camp will be held on Long Island, probably at Manhasset."

Location of Dempsey's camp has not been fixed, but it is generally understood that the champion will select Atlantic City, while Carpentier heavyweights training camp will be held on Long Island, probably at Manhasset.

According to present indications about the fighting game and both Carpentier's training will be conducted along much more secret when the bandages and gloves are taken off than Dempsey's. Those in touch with Carpentier's representatives in this country state that from Willard and his coterie of handlers at Toledo, Willard was so plan to have the European champagne sure of winning that he didn't plan follow much the same line of even seem to care what means training adopted when in England Dempsey is sorted to. Mailed fist or preparing for his bouts with no mailed fist was all the same to Beckett and Wells.

Little of Carpentier's training will be done in public, possibly bowl over whenever he got ready, only some light exercises, road work and shadow boxing. Daily training matches with his sparring partners may also be staged for the benefit of the newspaper reporters assigned to cover the training of Carpentier, but the serious preparations, in which the hands are properly bandaged and the electric tape and other unfair accessories fighters have been known to use to flatten an opponent will be conspicuous by their absence.

"Dempsey, of course, might not attempt to employ any such means, but he might be too good a sport for nominal charge, as has always been his custom."

Site Selected For Big Fight

NEW YORK, April 26.—With finite selection today of "Boyle's thirty acres," adjoining Montgometry Park, in Jersey City, as the site of the arena for the Dempsey-Carpentier heavyweights championship bout, July 2, training plans of the contestants tonight were being laid accordingly.

Location of Dempsey's camp has not been fixed, but it is generally understood that the champion will select Atlantic City, while Carpentier heavyweights training camp will be held on Long Island, probably at Manhasset.
