Considering the loss of several good members due to the war, the club has had a very successful season. S

Archdeacon Harrison preached a sermon fitting to the occasion and the choir rendered very effectively the beautiful old harvest hymns. There was a very large congregation for the service. —S.

Fine Address By British Lad At Summerside

Summerside radio listeners had the pleasure on Saturday evening of hearing an interesting talk on behalf of the Red Cross by George Newton, one of the two guest children (brothers) from England who are being kept by Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Holman for the duration of the war. At the close of the address George and his brother Albert, who were members of their parish church choir in England, joined in singing "There'll Always Be An England," which they rendered in excellent voice.

Following is the text of the address given by George Newton:—

"I am very glad indeed to have this opportunity of speaking to you about such a wonderful organization as the Red Cross. I have recently had occasion to see some of their work, for my home, up to a couple of months ago, was in England where they are doing such grand work.

"My brother and I come from a village near Maidstone, which is in Kent County about half way between Dover and London. It is the section of England that has been bombed more than any other part. We have both seen a great many planes flying over this County as well as the Cliffs and Straits of Dover. We have heard the explosion of bombs and roar of the anti-aircraft guns. We have seen aeroplanes shot down and have souvenirs from some of them. You may possibly have remembered that some little time ago a German plane came over England disguised as a Red Cross Unit. This plane fell not so far from Aylesford where we lived and we got a piece of it as a souvenir.

"Dunkirk is across the Straits from Dover and we had a chance to see just how the Red Cross worked when that port was being evacuated. There is a large hospital in the vicinity of our village and we could see a steady stream of ambulances making their way there from the boats that had made the crossing. This was the first time that we had seen the Red Cross in action and we certainly admired the way they did their work. Since then we have of course heard of the many other good things that they are doing and understand the necessity for raising money to help them.

"Canadians are exceedingly well liked in England and are cheered on all occasions. If the rest of Canada is at all similar to P. E. Island then it is a lovely country. It is so peaceful and quiet and we look forward to the time when England's troubles will be over. We will know to whom we will give credit for so much help in bringing this about. $5,000 is a lot of money for a Province of this size to raise. I've been told however, that in the percentage of voluntary enlistments, P. E. Island leads all of Canada so I don't think there is any doubt about its being subscribed.

"We think Prince Edward Island is a little bit of all right. It looks like parts of England, rustic perhaps, but very similar and we like it very much. Since we left England there has been a lot of fighting and a lot of bombing but the whole population is just as steady and is as confident of ultimate victory as ever. England cannot be invaded. England cannot be beaten. There will always be an England."

Educational Plans Discussed For C.A.S.F.

SACKVILLE, N.B., Oct. 8.—(CP)— Plans for educational courses for men of the Canadian army, navy and air force in the Maritimes were discussed here yesterday at a meeting of the Atlantic Coast committee for educational services, Canadian Legion War Services, Inc.

The meeting dealt with plans for launching a series of correspondence courses especially prepared for men in uniform and which will be under the auspices of the C.L.M.S., and for the "effective conduct of the broad educational program already in progress and including vocational and other classes, a wide range of correspondence courses, special lectures and the use of educational films."

It was announced a new development in addition to the Legion's correspondence courses would be the establishment of an educational library service, authority to proceed with this having been received from federal authorities.

The committee also dealt with the appointment of the educational personnel and with the "effective co-operation between the services' authorities and the educational organizers and workers."

The committee said it had found the "fullest co-operation from the departments of Education, Universities, School Boards and Teachers, Technical Schools, Library authorities and other bodies able to assist," Large numbers of men in uniform were taking "the keenest interest."

Members of the committee are Dr. H. F. Munro, superintendent of education for Nova Scotia, Lt.-Col. F. L. Hitler's Views Crop Up In U. S. Campaign

By CHARLES BRUCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(CP)—Adolf Hitler's preference in United States presidents crops us as a talking point in the presidential campaign that ends Nov. 5.

Neither Roosevelt nor Willkie has given indication by word or deed that election of either will afford the arch-dictator any particular comfort. Both are pledged to aid for Britain and a tremendous defence program.

Suggestion that defeat for Mr. Roosevelt would be a comfort to the dictators came first from Henry Wallace, Democratic vice-presidential candidate, and Gov. Herbert Lehman of New York. Mr. Willkie thereupon called Gov. Lehman's remark "false, malicious and subversive," and noted with satisfaction that Mr. Wallace "corrected some of the impressions his statement had created."

Then Herbert Matthews, New York Times Rome correspondent, cabled his paper that "the axis is out to defeat President Roosevelt, not as a measure of interference in the internnal policies of the United States, but because of everything for which he stands in the eyes of the Italians and Germans."

Mr. Roosevelt quoted the paragraph at a press conference in answer to a reporter's question as to whether he had "any reason to believe Germany and Italy are working for his defeat."

Shortly thereafter Mr. Matthews was asked to leave Rome by the Italian government.

The Times, Independent-Democratic, this year supporting Mr. Willkie, held that "the proposition that Americans should cast their votes on the basis of what foreign dictators think of them will not stand examination. "We are under no illusion that Hitler and Mussolini like Mr. Roosevelt. We are under no illusion that they will like Mr. Wilkie any better . . . ."

The Herald Tribune, Independent Republican, also backing Mr. Willkie, asserted that "a campaign based on Mr. Hitler's preferences certainly has no place in American political life."

The Times and Herald Tribune have been among the strongest supporters for aid to Britain. On the other hand, the Daily News, long "Isolationist" and opposed to "buying into Europe's war," is backing Roosevelt on the ground that the third term issue, emphasized by his opponents, is unconsequential. "In a world on fire, the only real issue is: who is the best man we can get for President for the next four years?" In the eyes of the News, Mr. Roosevelt's work in building up the navy since 1933 "entitles him to serious consideration for re-election." As for Mr. Willkie, "his conversion to a tousle-haired Hoosier who just dotes on workers, farmers, and white-collarites is a little hard to believe."

AID FARM WIVES WITH VACATIONS

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 8.—(CP)—To meet difficulties of farmers' wives getting away from the work on the farm, a scheme is being promoted with the aid of state grants, to train city girls for farm work in the absence of the regular women of the farm. Charges Plan To Link C.C.F. And Labor

Would be Used to Defeat Old Line Parties, R. B. Hanson Says.

FREDERICTON, Oct. 8 —(CP) — Existence of a plan to link organized labor with the Canadian Commonwealth Federation to win the next Dominion election was charged today by Hon. R. B. Hanson, Conservative leader in the House of Commons, who spoke at a meeting of the New Brunswick Conservative Association.

Such a victory at the expense of the old lone Conservative and Liberal parties would result in a "radical government with Red and Socialistic tendencies," he said, declaring the C.C.F. already had control of organized labor.

Both Mr. Hanson and John R. MacNichol member of Parliament for Toronto-Davenport and president of the Dominion Conservative Association, charged the Dominion Government allowed patronage to hamper prosecution of the war and alleged a lack of determined action in assisting Great Britain.

The meeting opened a campaign designed to build up the Conservative party organization in Canada and timed to coincide with meetings of provincial Conservative associations. The next gathering will be that of the Nova Scotia Conservative Association at Halifax tomorrow.

Today's meeting went on record as favoring one Conservative organization in New Brunswick rather than separate bodies for the provincial and dominion fields. Elected as New Brunswick's four representatives to the Dominion Conservative Association executive were Mrs. Hugh Mackay, Rothesay; A. M. Robichaud, Bathurst; Hugh John Flemming, Juniper, and Harry Groom, St. Stephen.

Mr. Hanson deplored the lack of war fervor in Canada as compared with the feeling in 1914. Evidence of this, he said, was the way the public received the last war loan.

Almost every high military appointment to date, excepting that of General McNaughton, had been given to a friend of the government, Mr. Hanson charged.

He pictured Prime Minister MacKenzie King as having "begged" 24 hours to consider opposition demands for action in prosecuting the war. Registration had followed "months late."

"The question of conscription today lies very largely on their doorsteps, especially in the province of Quebec, and that's where we're going to leave it."

In the last election Liberals had whispered that "Manion and Hanson were pro-conscription," and the people of Canada voted against conscription, said Mr. Hanson.

He said Canada never would get the utmost service from a party government in the present war.

Mr. Hanson took credit for the arrest of Montreal's Mayor Camillien Houde because of the publicity he had given the case at Ottawa. "Now there's one less traitor at large in Canada."

He did not have "a word to take back" regarding his criticized Labor Day speech at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

"I wanted to warn the Canadian people that the Ogdensburg meeting was just blatant publicity for something which had been going on for three years before Mr. King came into power. The Conservative government previous to 1935 had sent military aides to the U. S. but the conversations had been kept secret."

Canada's first defence was Britain, not the United States, "which even now is unable to defend itself."

Mr. MacNichol, who spoke following Mr. Hanson's address, declared that "if we do not reorganize and rebuild our forces, democracy in this country will be shattered. "We're fighting for democracy but we haven't got it."

Prior to Mr. Hanson's criticisms "the government was asleep at the switch," said Mr. MacNichol. The government was trying to conduct the war as a "Liberal war" and a "patronage war." The great mass of Conservative opinion in Canada, when rebuilt, would help to win the war and sweep the party to political victory, he predicted.

Other speakers included Karl Homuth, member of Parliament for Waterloo South, and Hugh McKay, Conservative leader in the New Brunswick legislature.

RAIDS AROUSED WELSH VILLAGE

LONDON, Oct. 8 —(CP) —From the village of Michaelston-le-Pit in South Wales, the ministry for Aircraft Production received a cheque for $22,250. Accompanying the unsolicited amount was a letter from H.H. Merritt which tells its own story.

"On Sunday last we received the tragic news that my son Flying Officer Norman Merrett had lost list life somewhere in Britain. On Monday we woke to find that as a result of a raid five of our store cattle had been killed and others badly maimed.

"The village is one of 1,000 acres and a population of 100. These tragic circumstances have served to only strengthen the determination of this little community to prove to this despicable enemy that we are unconquerable. I cannot provide you with another gallant son. The one who has gone was my only son.

"But I want you to accept $22,250 from the village to purchase a Spitfire so that one of the ever-growing number of lads from Britain and the Dominions so anxious to defend us in the air may be equipped with an instrument which, combined with that indomitable spirit, courage and fearlessness, will enable him as his colleagues are now doing, to take severe toll of these inferior beings attempting with increasing failure to demolish the morale of our people."

Aftermath Of French Collapse

(Lloyd Lehrbas, Associated Press correspondent has just returned from France. After watching the fighting on the Italian front he spent three months studying the Petain-Laval authoritarian Government at Vichy, then travelled through unoccupied France to see how Frenchmen are living in the aftermath of France's collapse and disintegration.)

(By Lloyd Lehrbas, Associated Press Staff Writer)

NEW YORK, Oct. 8—(AP)—Unoccupied France is living today on beds of thorns and short rations, mourning for its dead and its past glory, and dreading every hour of the future.

Most Frenchmen can see ahead of them and their children only months—if not years—of trampled liberties, privation and threatened starvation, racial animosities and drudgery that may almost approach slavery to pay the Germans $9,000,000 a day tribute—unless Germany is defeated.

Most tragically, many seem to have lost their spirit; they feel that they themselves can do little to influence their own fate.

Chaos is natural considering the strange course the war took in France. In the north, the Germans pulverized the country, smashing halfway across France. In the southwest, the people hardly knew a war was being fought. Along the Mediterranean the war was over before it had a good start.

On the Italian front the French were never beaten.

Life in France today varies greatly depending on where you live, whether you have a job, whether you have children, and a dozen other factors. These are intertwined with new and changing problems incubated by new government decrees and restrictions, changes in the political scene outside the country, and a variety of changes and circumstances entirely beyond an individual's control.

Common Problems

A vast majority of the French population have common problems:—

Nearly 2,000,000 French soldiers are prisoners of war and their families are worrying about fathers, husbands and sons in prison camps in occupied France or Germany, few know just where. Many have had no word of any kind, some have received postal cards briefly announcing the prisoners were alive and well.

There is a shortage of food in nearly all prison camps, but families (themselves on short rations) are not permitted to send food packages. They heard disturbing reports of health conditions in the prison camps and know that, in some, serious diseases have already appeared.

Freedom can come only with the end of the war and—until then—the prisoners are "hostages", effective in keeping those families from attempting, or encouraging, any active opposition to German actions or demands.

Some 100,000 families are mourning fathers, husbands or sons, killed in action or died of wounds. More thousands are known to be wounded or gravely ill in prison camps or hospitals "somewhere in occupied territory."

Destruction in war, curtailed production, lack of transportation, government purchases and requisitions and depleted stocks left in the wake of the millions of refugees who swept through unoccupied France has caused a severe shortage in food and household necessities.

Ruined and damaged factories, financial and industrial dislocations, absence of skilled workers, closing of borders preventing imports from Switzerland and Spain, the only two neighboring countries, and the British blockade which has stopped all sea-borne foreign trade combine to make it impossible to replenish stocks of needed goods.

Tokyo Sees Move As Part Of Pressure

TOKYO, Oct. 8.—(AP)—Britain's decision to re-open the Burma Road, China's somewhat shaky route for military supplies from Europe and America, was viewed by authoritative quarters today as a new instance of Anglo-American co-operation in applying pressure on Japan.

Circles close to the government express belief that Britain had acted after consultation with the United States and in answer to Japan's military alliance with Germany and Italy.

Britain's intention of throwing this support to China in her war with Japan was communicated to Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka by the British Ambassador, Sir Robert Craigie.

(United States consulates throughout the Far East have been instructed to advise about 9,000 United States citizens to leave as soon as possible.

(Shanghai received reports that the Japanese navy landed marines at Liu Kung Island, on which Britain recently obtained renewal of a 10-year lease for a summer naval station from Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek of China).

The Japanese press discounted the Burma Road's practical value, and said fewer than 10,000 tons of merchandise could be moved over it each month. Washouts and landslides trouble travellers in the rainy season.

Observers considered strong diplomatic steps would be taken, if forcible closure is not attempted.

Our Futurity Races were held on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, August 13th, 15th and 16th in connection with the "OLD HOME WEEK RACES" at the Charlottetown Driving Park, the offer made by Lt.-Col. D. A. MacKinnon of the Charlottetown Driving Park & Exhibition Association, being the most attractive offer received.

As stated in the Director's Report at the last Annual Meeting held on the 21st of May, 1940, the first and second payments were made on 42 entries for the three stakes as against 35 in 1939, 27 of which made their third payment, 23 paid their starting fee, and 21 faced the Starter in three classes. The Three Year Old Futurity was raced on the first day of the meeting with five starters for a purse of $280.00, this stake took five heats to decide a winner, "George Mac" owned by Mr. George McIntyre and driven by Mr. Lowrie winning the first heat, "Margaret Jean" owned by Mr. Andrew Perry, driven by Mr. Lloyd O'Brien winning the second, when "Ada Worthy" owned by Mr. Hugh A. Fraser, of Moncton, N. B., came through winning the last two heats and race, best time 2.19 3-4.

The Four Year Old Futurity was raced on the 15th of August which also had five starters and a purse of $250.00 which was won in straight heats by "Hillside Scott" owned by Mr. J. A. Kerr, of Truro, N. S., and driven by Mr. Johnnie Conroy best time 2.19 1-2.

On account of the number of starters in the two year old stake it was decided to divide this class starting the trotters and pacers in separate divisions, leaving 5 starters in the trot and six in the pace, the purse being equally divided each division racing for $192.50, both divisions being raced on the 16th of August, the Trot being the first on the card which was won by "LUSTY FIRST" owned by Mr. Fred Bennett, Charlottetown, and driven by Mr. Shuman, best time 2.34 1-4.

The pacing division was won by "Hilda Budlong" owned by Mr. Wilbert Lawless of Kensington and driven by Mr. Tyndall Semple, best time 2.20 1-4, we take great pleasure in congratulating Mr. Lawless on being the proud owner of the Filly holding the Maritime record for Maritime bred two year olds, we might also mention the fact that five out of six of the starters in the pacing division were sired by "Calumet Budlong" which indicates that this Stallion is going to be a great acquisition to the breeders of racing material in this Province.

The Directors and Officials of the Charlottetown Driving Park and Exhibition Association are to be congratulated upon the wonderful success on the Four Days Meeting put on during "OLD HOME WEEK" and are deserving of the warmest appreciation of the people of this Province for the courteous helpfulness they displayed in making the "OLD HOME WEEK" such a decided success. We might just here remark that we have heard many favourable comments on the supervision, management and display of the whole racing program, the credit of which is largely if not entirely due to the untiring efforts of the President and Secretary, to whom we also wish to extend our thanks for the interest they have displayed in the Futurity Stake Racing.

Respectfully submitted,
