Trinity United Church Rations For Dairy Heifers

MONDAY: 1:15-Scouts, Social Hall. 1:30-Committee of Stewards-Board Room. 1:30-Annual meeting of Willing Circle of Kings Daughters-East Parlor.

(Experimental Farm Note)

Two essential factors are necessary for the proper feeding of dairy heifers.

First-An adequate supply of the necessary food nutrients.

Second-Economy

The development of a market for surplus dairy cows in Ontario and the U. S. A. has enabled many farmers, who breed and feed well, to secure a profitable outlet for their surplus stock. But it is only those who can supply cows that are properly developed, who are in a position to take advantage of this market. In addition, it is only this type of heifer that will produce a maximum quantity of milk and repay the relatively high cost of rearing to producing age.

In the Guernsey and Jersey herd at the Experimental Farm, Nappan, N. S., it has been found economical to feed whole milk, 10 to 12 pounds daily, to the dairy heifers until they are four to six weeks of age, and continuing this at the rate of 12 to 16 pounds daily until six to seven months of age.

A grain ration is supplied in small quantities as soon as the calf will eat the same, and is continued until it is nine to twelve months of age, when it should be sufficiently well developed to be maintained on roots and good quality hay, or pasture.

Grain rations that have proven satisfactory are:

(1) Ground oats, or ground mixed grain, 400 pounds; bran, 100 pounds; oil meal, 75 pounds; minerals, 25 pounds.

(2) Ground oats, or ground mixed grain; 400 pounds; bran, 100 pounds; white fish meal, 40 pounds; minerals 20 pounds.

The use of minerals in the second ration, when fish meal is fed, is optional, but is good insurance. The mineral mixture used is equal parts ground limestone, bone char and iodized salt. If mineral mixture is not fed, then it should be replaced by salt at the rate of three pounds per one hundred pounds of grain.

Unless a heifer is very thin, no further grain is fed until three or four months before freshening, but a mineral mixture should be provided throughout this period.

By utilizing home-grown feeds to a large extent, as outlined above, the cash outlay in rearing heifers is kept at a minimum and the intelligent feeder can develop them properly to producing age at a minimum of expense.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES

CENTRAL CHRISTIAN CHURCH ST. PAUL'S ANGLICAN CHURCH

The morning service at the Central Christian Church yesterday was conducted by the Pastor Rev. S. C. Cooper. The subject of the sermon was "Pressing Onward" text Phil. 3-13, 14. "This one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

Mr. Cooper said in part-the proper study of mankind is man. Paul is here giving in this letter to the Phillippian Christian the secret of a successful life; this aged man and prisoner of Jesus Christ is filled with buoyant energy and his onward look is marvelous. He gives as the secret of his life, three principles; the principle of concentration, forgiveness and anticipation.

Paul distinguishes between the mark and the prize. The mark is the object of effort, and the prize is the reward of successful efforts. The reason why many lives fail is because man does not concentrate on one thing. The business man concentrates on one thing, the scientist like Edison concentrates on one branch like electricity, and the Christian should concentrate on one goal, which is likeness to Christ.

There are many things in the Christian life which he should be forgetful of. He should forget his blunders, or so use them that they may pass to higher heights. He should forget also his sins, as Paul did, who was the chief of sinners, but became the chief of saints.

The literal rendering of the words of the text is a reaching out over which gives the picture of a runner with his body thrown forward and his hand extended, and his eye ever reaching further than his hand in anticipation of the prize.

The Christian is the great mystic and although faced by walls which would seem to dash his hopes, yet he can see that the wall may be scaled and he can reach forth to receive the crown of life.

The music for the morning was two Christmas carols, "Once in Bethlehem of Judea" and "See Amid the Winter's Snow" Mrs. Anita Stewart and Miss Nan MacKay taking the solo part.

The service in the evening was a Christmas play entitled "Fulfillment", repeated by request.

This Christmas play was presented by a cast of about 30 characters, and with beautiful robes and floodlights the scenes were beautifully portrayed and impressed the audience with the historic scenes at the birth of Christ nearly two thousand years ago.

The choir assisted in the successful production by songs, carols and Christmas hymns. The violin numbers played by Mr. Harry Porter added greatly to the music and success of the play.

The cast under the direction of Miss Bertie L. Stewart is to be congratulated on the success of the play.

The services yesterday at St. Paul's Church began with the celebration of the Holy Communion at 8.30, followed by Morning Prayer at 11.00. The Rector's message recalled to the congregation the real spirit of Christmas. Speaking on the words, "The Wise men from the East," he said, that it is not recorded whether these men were commoners or kings, but it is certain that they saw the strange star in the East, which guided them to the manger in Bethlehem.

From various references, the speaker showed that the appearance of the star caused no small wonder among the astronomers of ancient days-and the fact of its appearance is indisputable. Continuing, he made reference to the "other wise man" around whom Van Dyke has woven his story. The significant fact, that the wise men's visit were, first that they reflected a general and universal expectation of the coming Messiah; and secondly, not less significant, that they were satisfied to offer their homage to the Jesus of the manger. The fact that these wise men were of Gentile race proclaims at once that the Good News of Christ is for all people. We too may pay our homage to Christ the King by service in His Name to mankind. "Inasmuch as ye did it."

The children's service at 3.00 p. m. which the Rev. G. Gillespie spoke to the children about Christmas Day among the Eskimo and Indians of the Arctic. He told them that no one stayed away from Church on Christmas Day; and went on to describe the manner in which these people of the far north enter into the spirit of merriment which belongs to the day.

Mr. Gillespie showed the children some very interesting specimens illustrating the customs and apparel of the north land.

At the morning service the choir sang at the offertory-Spence's beautiful Christmas Anthem, "There were Shepherds", and in the evening several of the familiar Christmas carols were sweetly rendered. The Rector spoke briefly on the subject of "A Great Saviour"- "Able to save to the utmost."

Addressing the coat at which the price of salvation was paid-"Who His own body on the tree" and the divine purpose. "That they which live, should not live from henceforth unto themselves, but unto Him who died for them and rose again."

THE BAPTIST CHURCH

"Trudging along" was the subject of the Rev. H. L. Denton's interesting sermon of the morning at the Baptist Church yesterday. The text was taken from the morning lesson, Isaiah, 40. "They that wait on the Lord shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run and not be weary; they shall walk and not faint." They that shall look for the Lord in expectation shall most truly renew their strength, physically, mentally, spiritually. To the casual present, an anti-climax wherein one descends from triumphant flight to prosaic plodding, trudging along.

Not so should we see it. There are the days of joyous appreciation, in which it seems that earth cannot hold our flying spirit, there are times of eager haste as we prepare, there are the days of patient, steady, plodding, trudging march which in God's good time bring us to our desired haven. And so, realizing that most of life involves the patient, march, day by day let us with determined confidence face the prosaic duty of trudging along, committing all to the leadership of the Father in Heaven and so shall we come to victory and reward in Him.

The choir gave a fine rendering of a beautiful old French carol, "O! Hail thou blessed Jesu, Miss Vera H. Malcolm Campbell Miss. Bac., sang effectively "What though the clouds."

Mr. Denton, at the evening service preached an impressive sermon on the question "Endor or Bethlehem?"

The music of the evening included "Sleeping the Christ Child lay" by the choir; Soprano recitative and solo "Rejoice greatly" (Miss Campbell) and "Hail, the glory of the Lord" by the choir. The beautiful flowers on the communion tables were placed in memory of Mr. and Mrs. William Boyver and Miss Blanche Boyver, by members of the family.

It was announced that a watch night service would be held in the Baptist Church on Thursday. A musical period from 10.45 until 11 o'clock p. m. with Miss Campbell and Miss Callbeck. The Rev. Mr. Cooper of the Central Christian Church will be the speaker at this service, to which all are cordially welcomed.
