EXPOSITION.
I. Jehovah tells the people the manner of the king that shall reign over them, vs. 10-18. The people were eager for a king, so eager that they heartlessly tell Samuel that he is too old to be any longer fit for the place of leadership (vs. 1-5). The fact that Samuel himself was a judge by divine appointment gave him no right to make his sons judges by his own appointment. Divine gifts and offices are not transmissible from father to son. It is a grave mistake to sacrifice the work of God for the interests of our children. Fatherly ambition for his sons seems to have led Samuel astray, even with the awful example of Eli before his eyes (cf. ch. 2:12, 13; 3:11-14). He was a good man and this goes to show how the best men may make mistakes and with what sad consequences these mistakes are fraught, especially when these mistakes are in the training of our children. Hundreds of years before (Deut. 17: 14, 15) God had anticipated the day when His people should request a king, but He was not pleased with the request when it was made (ch. 3:17). That illustrates the difference between what God predicts and what God desires. "The thing displeased Samuel" (v. 6). It was right that it should; for it displeased the Lord as well. When Israel chose a king it was in the face of the full revelation of what manner the kings should be. So men get their own way to-day in the face of the clear revelation of what that way involves. Samuel was in many respects a model preacher, he kept silent until he got a message from the Lord, and then he delivered it in full (v. 10). He spoke only what the Lord gave him to speak and he spoke all of that. It was not a very pleasant or a very welcome message, but it was the one God gave him and he delivered it all. They thought that they might be very victorious and joyous and glorious if they could only have a king, but they would find it quite differently (v. 18). He would bring tears, and not rejoicing. So it turned out.

GILLETTS PERFUMED LYE

CAUTION.

Put a strong glass on the label and examine it closely every time. Always look for the name "Gillett's."

Like all good articles, which are extensively advertised, Gillett's Lye is frequently and very closely imitated. In some instances the imitators have actually copied directions and other printed matter from our label word for word. Be wise, and refuse to purchase imitation articles for they are never satisfactory.

Insist On Getting Gillett's Lye

and decline to accept anything that looks to be an imitation or that is represented to be "just as good" or "better," or "the same thing." In our experience of over fifty years in business we have never known of an imitation article that has been a success, for imitators are not reliable people. At the best the "just as good" kinds are only trashy imitations, so decline them with thanks every time.
