Purchasing Live and Dressed Poultry

AT
P. J. NOY & CO., HUNTER RIVER, WEDNESDAY, FEB. 1st.
A. O. GREEN, ALBANY, THURSDAY, FEB. 2nd.
HARRIS ABATTOIR CO., LTD., CHARLOTTETOWN,
FRIDAY, FEB. 3rd.

Special price of 11 cents per pound on heavy, good quality, dressed fowl, undrawn, dry plucked, well-bled.

Having inspected a good many poultry flocks during the past season, am firmly of the opinion, that most farmers are overcrowding their poultry. Would respectfully suggest that everyone give their flock a careful culling.

Today's poultry prices are the most favorable of the past season. From what I can learn, there is no reason to expect prices to go very much higher.

McGill Collects Famous Trophies Won In Athletics

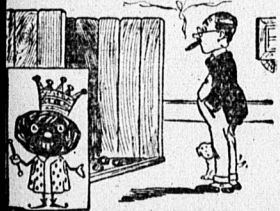

(By D. A. L. MacDonald, in Montreal Gazette)

McGill is collecting her athletic trophies and when the time comes all these records and pictures of the championship teams of the glorious past will be lodged in the trophy room of the new gymnasium. Of course, the new gymnasium which has been mooted at McGill for over two decades and has never materialized, may be just a little further away than "around the corner", Major D. Stuart Forbes is willing to admit, but the director of athletics at McGill has sent out an invitation to all graduates possessing pictures and trophies of their athletic days to present them to the collection which he hopes some day will be lodged in the new gymnasium.

In glass cases in the lounge room of the McGill Union, Major Forbes has enough trophies for a good start on his collection. Around the walls are pictures of McGill's athletic teams, some of which date back to 1874 when McGill first played football with Harvard on the campus and to 1881 when the Red and the Crimson met on the ice.

There are some interesting cups in this collection in the McGill Union, battered though some of them may be and needing polish badly. Two of the oldest are the cup for the all-round track and field individual championship and the trophy for inter-class basketball. Both date back to 1894.

POLICE COURT—In the Summerside Police Court on Monday a man was fined $5 and costs for delivering ice in the town which was unfit for domestic use.—S.

SOCIAL GATHERING—On Thursday 26th a very enjoyable card party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Burke, Tignish, when upwards of seventy guests gathered to enjoy the hospitality of this popular host and hostess. After the awarding of prizes dainty refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by her two daughters Miss Irene and Miss Florence. Dancing to good music supplied by the Tignish orchestra brought to a close the very enjoyable event.—T.

PASSED AWAY AT KNUSTFORD—The death occurred on Saturday, of Mrs. Mary Ann Yeo, at Knustford at the home of her son, John Yeo. Mrs. Yeo was the widow of the late George Yeo. Her maiden name was Gillis. Many friends in the western part of the Island where she was very highly esteemed will regret to learn of her passing. There are left to mourn besides her son, John, with whom she resided, another, Charles in Three Rivers, Quebec; and one daughter, Mrs. Harris of Knustford; also a sister, Mrs. D. C. Ramsay of Port Hill, to all of whom sympathy is extended.—S.

DIED IN HOSPITAL—There passed away at the City Hospital after a severe illness the soul of Mr. Paul Buote at the age of 66 years. The late Mr. Buote entered the hospital about four weeks ago and after undergoing treatment and a major operation it was found that an insidious disease had taken up its abode within which would drive life out and accordingly on the morning of the 24th inst. in the presence of his wife and two sons he peacefully passed away. On Tuesday the remains accompanied by members of his family were forwarded to Tignish where they were met by a large number of friends who followed in procession to his home where he lay in waking until Thursday when the funeral was held to St. Simon and St. Jude's Church. A solemn high mass of Requiem was sung by the Rev. J. A. MacDonald assisted by the Rev. Dr. Campbell of Alberton and the Rev. P. Walsh of Palmer Road. The pallbearers were Messrs Hugh McKinnon, Frederick Conroy, J. A. Bernard, J. A. Hackett, Urban Gaudet, J. J. Chaisson. The late Mr. Buote, who has been a life long resident of this parish will be greatly missed in the community where he was active in the social and political life of the place. The deceased who has been very successful and prominent in the industries of farming and fox ranching has taken from them a splendid farm and a comfortable home. While pursuing the business side of his life the late Mr. Buote did not neglect the humorous one. As a story teller he was a master and some of the product of his talent in this detail will be long lived. He leaves to mourn besides a disconsolated widow two daughters, namely Mrs. G. A. McInnis and Mrs. Thomas Handrahan. The sons are Joe at Tignish, Walter, Henry, Jerry at home, Hector in St. Dunstan's University and Peter in Lawrence, Mass. Hon. Governor Dalton came from Charlottetown to be present at the funeral.—T.

WESTERN HOCKEY—The C. Y. M. L. hockey team at Tignish motored to Alberton on Monday 23rd inst. where they crossed sticks with the Alberton team. Owing to the mildness of the weather the ice was slow, consequently not so good a game. Mr. Jerry Buote, one of the foremost players in the Tignish team was absent owing to the serious illness of his father. The score ended 1-1.—T.

DEFTS BAD IN THE COUNTRY—The storm which raged over the Province generally on Saturday and Sunday made many of the roads impassable. The old pioneer days were recalled when Miss McLean of the High School staff was five hours by team getting from Lot 16, to St. Eleanor's, the horses having to be changed every hour. Staying in St. Eleanor's over night, Miss McLean started early on Monday for Summerside arriving at school a little late. The western train was about 2 1/2 hours late, arriving in Summerside, but did very well considering the storm.—S.

Middle Aged Woman Important

CHICAGO, Jan. 25.—The middle-aged married woman has her place in the sun, and if she has prepared herself for it, her 45th birthday is just another graduation, this time from the role of Mrs. Housewife. These matrons need not take a back seat, and indeed should not. That comes from the president of the largest organization of women in the world to matrons who think life's sweet song is in the final stanza when "there are silver threads among the gold."

Said Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole of Brockton, Mass., and Washington, D. C., head of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. "A woman when she is approximately 45 is reaching the age of emancipation. Her family is almost reared, her household duties are reduced and she has more leisure. Her emotional life is more stable. She has had more experience and should have more wisdom and tolerance."

"She has ahead of her some of the best years of her life, if she has prepared for it, studied, trained herself mentally and kept physically fit. It is not right for a middle-aged woman sorrowfully to resign herself to a lounge seat in a hotel apartment or to a cozy corner in a private home, leaving activities to younger women."

"She is emerging into an era of greater personal freedom. She has time to take a greater interest in clubs, community welfare and politics. What's to keep her from going actively into politics running for Governor, if she likes?"

NAMED FOR ENGLISH GIRL
BOGOTA, Jan. 30.—(C.P.)—Leticia, Amazonian headwater port where centres the boundary dispute between Peru and Colombia, was named 63 years ago for an English girl, Leticia Smith, by her fiancée, a Peruvian engineer. The Peruvian, Manuel Charon, was betrothed to the daughter of the English consul at Iquitos, Peru. He named the port Leticia despite orders from his government to establish it as Marshal Castilla. When he returned to Iquitos he found his girl friend had, in his absence, married another and moved to Mexico.

Frills Are Now In Great Demand

PARIS, Jan. 28.—Feminine frills returned to the fashion world in a style show today which displayed the most feminine clothes Paris has produced in a decade. Frilly jabots, accordion pleats on skirts, scarves and necklines and short sleeves, were featured in flowered silk crepe frocks which marked the collection of a leading house.

Even a suggestion of the old-fashioned corsettee was revived, since several of the dresses had crushed girdles with one six-inch whalebone stay in front. Hats likewise were feminine. They were designed in dark straws with very flat crowns. Sailor brims which were bent up at the back and down in front were worn tilted well over one eye.

The new suits stressed slender skirts with hip-length, three-quarter or seven-eighths length coats lined with taffeta or plaid cotton to match an accompanying blouse. The fabrics worn were generally soft and pliable in the colors of beige, blue, grey, brown and red.

Americans Buy Luxurious Yacht

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 30.—The late Lord Inchcape's steam yacht Rover in which he died at Monte Carlo on May 23 last year, has been sold to an American syndicate. The yacht, which is of more than 2,000 tons, and is considered to be the most luxurious afloat, will cross the Atlantic to her new owners early this year.

It carries a figurehead in the likeness of the late Lord Inchcape's daughter, Miss Elsie MacKay, who lost her life in an attempt to fly the Atlantic. The yacht was left to Lady Inchcape, who sold it to her son, the present peer, for £100,000. It was built in 1930 at Glasgow, and has been lying idle at Falmouth for some time.

Old Army Post

LONDON, Jan. 30.—(C.P.)—Field-Marshal Sir George Milne, Chief of the Imperial General Staff, who was created a Peer in the New Year's Honors List, has received an additional honor in being appointed Constable of the Tower of London, vacant through the death of Field-Marshal Lord Methuen.

Nowadays the office of Constable of the Tower is little more than an additional dignity for some distinguished soldier. It dates back, though, to within a few years of the Norman Conquest, and even today the Constable is one of the few subjects of the King who is authorized to correspond directly with His Majesty. There are three great officers of the Tower—the Constable, the Lieutenant, and the Major and Resident Governor.

Picturesque as the Tower is considered nowadays, it was a noisome place in the days of the Tudors. Probably on this account the Constable gave up his residence there, and no doubt gave up most of his duties as well. The Lieutenant then came more into prominence, but eventually he, too, went to live outside. For many years now the Tower has been governed by the Major and Resident Governor, an office which, at the present time, is held by Lieut.-Col. Dan Burges, V.C. Even today troops cannot be moved into or out of the Tower without the permission of the Constable.

"Too much emphasis is placed today upon a cold, scientific spirit which is not reverent." — Patrick Cardinal Hayes.

Canadian Artist Paints Canadian

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—(C.P.)—Favorable comment is heard in the vicinity of 57th street where a portrait of the Canadian tenor Edward Johnson by another Canadian Karl Godwin, is to be set up. Godwin hails from London, Ont., where his father was a Methodist clergyman. The artist of the brush as portrayed the artist of the state as "Peter Ibbotson," a role he created two years ago. There stands Edward Johnson, nearly as big as life and quite lively.

Johnson, in Europe, Eduardo di Giovanni, is presently engaged for his 11th successive season as one of the leading tenors of the Metropolitan Opera. Godwin is painting away at a great rate in New York. He has been an illustrator and advertising artist for cash, but has not hesitated to wield his full brush loaded with brilliant color in the wider field. Many of his works executed in Brittany and North Africa have attracted attention for their dash and life.

NEW COIFFURES TO SUIT MOOD

PARIS, Jan. 30.—A change in head-dress for every change in personality, is the newest edict for coiffures. A modified Botticelli coiffure for a madonna face, and the curls borrowed from a Louis XIV head-dress as frame for a piquant face, are among the ideas advanced by one of the leading Parisian hairdressers. The vogue for head-dresses to match personalities began with the vogue for lacquered wigs adopted by a number of the most prominent European actresses in stage and film roles. For concert performances Mary Garden chose a lacquered peruke of red blonde hair designed in swirls and tiny curls and finished with a series of soft loops on top.

Antoine, who designed the wigs employs unusual materials in their construction. A peruke of straight hair, a jar of liquid rubber to set the swirls and curls and a bottle of nail polish to give the lacquered brilliance when it is dry, are the tools which he says he uses. Curls are twirled around a pencil and flower effects molded over an electric light bulb. A number of smart Parisians have converted the vogue for lacquered perukes into a vogue for bandeaus of lacquered curls which they wear with evening clothes. Others choose to wear a lacquered dressing on their own locks, while a third contingent contents itself by adapting its coiffure to the cut of its newest gown.
