

Liberal Policy Of Increased Borrowings For Cracked Highways

Candidate Suggests Doubling Per Capita Debt To Continue McIntyre Election Highway. Conservative Speakers Enthusiastically Received At Lot 16,

For a Liberal district the Conservative candidates were accorded a wonderful reception at Lot 16 on Friday evening. Mr. Adrian F. Arsenault was particularly applauded.

Mr. James Manderson acted as chairman and gave each speaker a cordial welcome. The meeting was orderly and every speaker was given a good hearing.

Mr. Ramsay (Lib) was the first speaker and dealt with finance and age pensions. He advocated the adoption by Prince Edward Island of the 75 per cent from the Federal Government for Old Age Pensions.

Speaking on finance, he said he would like to see the Government at Charlottetown would have tried to keep down the expenditures. He spoke a little on the road policy.

Mr. Thomas McNutt (Con) was given a very cordial reception and spoke chiefly on Old Age Pensions and the unfairness of the enforcement of the Prohibition Act. His remarks were punctuated with applause from the audience.

Mr. S. DesRoches Liberal Candidate, launched out well in the political field on Friday and was given a good hearing. He stated it was very true that there had been a good deal of waste, but that was in any large organization, the government was no better than any large firm; who employed many servants. Comparing the debt per capita of this Province with other Provinces, Mr. DesRoches stated that he could build a McIntyre Highway from Souris to Tignish on borrowed money and the debt per capita would not be increased more than $65 per head instead of $32 as at present.

Mr. A. F. Arsenault, (Con) was received with much applause, being well versed in politics he had his subject at his fingers ends and held the attention of the audience while he compared the records of the two governments. He dealt particularly on the disappointment of the people of Prince Edward Island when Premier Saunders returned from Ottawa empty handed, after giving the people such hopes from the Audit Board in regard to the adjustment of our claims. The explanation given to Mr. A. E. McLean, M. P., that the Audit Board can have nothing to do with the final settlement was exactly what Hon. Mr. Stewart had told Premier Saunders on the floor of the House before he made that expensive trip to Ottawa. Statute labour and lower taxes were also dealt with by Mr. Arsenault. The people would be given an opportunity to work out their taxes as in the past if the Conservatives were returned on August 9th. The Stewart government had promised lower taxes in 1923 had they kept that promise.

Dr. John McNeill spoke on behalf of the Liberal Candidates, and took up most of his time discussing the Bennett platform of 1930. Touching local politics Dr. McNeill said that he would not be in politics today had it not been for the Government Control plank of the Stewart Government in 1927. He deemed it a matter of principle on his behalf to fight in the interest of temperance. In his long discourse the Doctor went as far back as the Reciprocity treaty of 1911.

Mr. A. F. Arsenault in a few minutes rebuttal answered the charges of the Doctor against Hon. R. B. Bennett.

Mr. H. M. Downing supported the Conservative candidates.—S.

Provincial Scout Camp Opens

Yesterday morning a crowd of delighted and excited youngsters, between twelve and sixteen years of age, gathered at the Rocky Point Ferry Wharf, all were bedecked in Scout Uniform and presented a fine appearance. The various coloured neckerchiefs betold the troop from which each boy had come, some from Summerside, some from Montague, some from Murray Harbour and many of the different troops in the City, in all about fifty scouts, under Mr. R. C. Parent and A. S. M. Clarence Walker, boarded the Ferry and headed for the beautifully situated farm of Mr. Allison MacMillan, Fairview, where only last week the Gilwell training camp broke up. After having had one of the best Marltime Gilwell Camps in years. The tents having been left standing for the Provincial Camp, the boys eagerly awaited the order of the Camp Chief as to what duties each Patrol would be assigned, many were setting up extra tents, some carrying water, others making a fire, a few scrutinizing the ground, exploring the various camp routes that they might pick, when called upon the most convenient site for their camp. After a rather hastily eaten dinner, the boys settled down to prepare for the night and to have everything in ship-shape for today when the camp will begin in earnest.

WOMEN BUILD MEMORIAL LODGE

WINNIPEG, Man., July 27—With the cornerstone of the Women's Tribute Memorial Lodge, corner Woodlawn and Portage, well and truly laid under the guiding of the Tribute's originator the women of Manitoba saw their 14-year-old dream taking shape in stone before their eyes, and they were content.

The ceremony of laying the cornerstone was impressive in its simplicity. Lt.-Col. G. A. Wells, who officiated took his stand on the little platform erected over the foundation of the building, accompanied by Mrs. R. F. McWilliams, Mrs. C. P. Walker and Raymond Large. Mrs. McWilliams read the address of the chairman, Mrs. Edith Rogers who was unable to attend through illness.

Mrs. Rogers made feeling reference to Mrs. Walker who had been the moving spirit in starting the idea of the Women's Tribute, and to the splendid women who had taken it up and raised the money which in large measure today was responsible for the building now under construction. The hymns "O God Our Help in Ages Past," added to the austerity of the proceedings and after scripture reading and prayer the workmen eased the cornerstone into position.

Mrs. Walker told of the happiness the women of Manitoba felt that their task was nearly done insofar as a tangible tribute to the men was concerned. Such a building, however, would not have been possible without the contribution of the members of Legion themselves, she said. It was April 24, 1917 that a band of women, headed by Mrs. Walker and including Lady Alkins, Mrs. Colin H. Campbell, Mrs. R. D. Waugh and many others, decided to rouse interest in a women's tribute by a Foundation Tribute night. May 10 was fixed as the date and that night, with flags and bunting decking the Walker theatre, with the khaki of soldier units and returned men, and the blue of French reservists dotting the audience, more than 100 organizations laid their cash tributes, amount to $7,774 and pledges for another $9,503 on a total of $17,277.

At a later meeting in Central Congregational church on May 14, the plan to unite all women of the province in a tribute was decided upon and the money was invested in war loan bonds. From the start, Mrs. Walker had fixed her mind upon a building for returned men, but it was not until May 1924, that the Tribute board formally decided upon some form of a building, with a memorial silence room.

A meeting of the Life Underwriters' Association of Prince Edward Island, was held in the Caledonia Club rooms on July 23rd. The principal speaker was Mr. J. J. Murray, of Waterloo, Educational Supervisor of the Dominion Life. Mr. Murray prefaced his remarks by outlining the benefits of the Life Underwriters' Association of Canada, how the Association secured good legislation in the various Provinces, and improved underwriting conditions by removing many malpractices. The speaker then gave some very interesting statistics and pointed out that there is now well over one hundred billion dollars of insurance in the North American continent today, and prophesied that within ten years this amount would be doubled. Canada alone now has over seven billions in force and this amount is growing rapidly. Mr. Murray showed that if one generation was adequately insured it would mean that the three hazards of life namely, Death, Disability and Old Age would be overcome and that dependency would be removed and all children would be able to secure a good education. It is plainly shown that only 7% of the economic value of life is protected in Canada and consequently there is an immense field for the modern underwriter.

Mrs. Murdoch McKenzie, 96 Highland avenue left Thursday for Moncton, accompanied by Mrs. Harry C. McLeod and children, the latter being called home owing to the serious illness in Moncton of her husband, Mr. Harry C. McLeod. Mrs. McKenzie will spend the week end there.

MILAN, Italy, July 27—A performance of Verdi's "Aida" was given recently at Roncole, the farm where the composer was born, by the Theatrical Car, the travelling theatre of the Dopolavoro, or After-Work Institution. The opera was presented in the open air, with a background of trees and fields. The local public took great interest in the performance, and 600 local men and women acted as "supers" in the opera. It is reckoned that over 15,000 spectators from many parts of the countryside and neighboring towns were present.

MIDWAY GIVES BIG CHANCE TO GAIN REAL FUN

Lynch's Augmented Shows to Provide Thrilling Rides and Interesting Shows at Exhibition.

HALIFAX, July 27.—For everyone the "Midway" holds magic lure, and the Nova Scotia Provincial Exhibition Commission have completed a contract with William Lynch for the presence of his many attractions at the Big Fair, to be held at Halifax, August 28th to September 5th. Not alone will there be the Lynch thrilling mechanical rides and the interesting side-shows, but his marvellous aggregation will be augmented for the occasion.

What boy or girl, or for that matter, what adult can resist the call of the Merry-Go-Round, the Ferris Wheel, the Whip, the Aeroplane Swing, the dip and sway of Lynch's feature ride, or the other thrillers that this showman has to offer? All these will be at the Nova Scotia Provincial Exhibition.

NEW SIDE-SHOWS

William Lynch has some new side-shows this year, in addition to his regular popular attractions, that will prove of complete interest. He gives his assurance, based on years of experience in catering to public taste, that this year's Exhibition "Midway" will eclipse all previous ones.

For those who wish to play, there will be numerous games, with valuable rewards for the winners. "Midway", one of the attractions that always appeal to those imbued with holiday spirit, will be "BIG", but it will be only one of hundreds of marvellous attractions offered by the Nova Scotia Provincial Exhibition, at Halifax, August 28th to September 5th.

SKULL OF PREHISTORIC MAN

(British United Press)
SYDNEY, New South Wales, July 27.—Widespread interest has been aroused by the announcement that a skull found in Central Australia gives further evidence of prehistoric man in this continent. The skull was taken to the Institute of Anatomy at Canberra by Gilbert Rags, a mining engineer.

Sir Colin Mackenzie, director of the Australian Institute of Anatomy, says the skull exhibits features somewhat similar in character to those of the Pekin skull. From the new discovery a brain cast has been made—the first complete prehistoric one known to the scientific world.

In his latest work, "New Discoveries Relating to the Antiquity of Man," Sir Arthur Keith, famous British scientist, confirms the opinion originally expressed by Sir Colin Mackenzie in 1926 regarding the prehistoric nature of the "Cahuna Skull," and places it with the Java skull cap of Dubois and the recently announced Pekin skull as one of the most primitive human forms known to scientists.

CHURCHILL IS VIEWED AS BIG NORTH CITY

LAC DU BONNET, July 27.—The first round trip tourist from Hudson Bay arrived in the city Monday. It was John Hooper, former Winnipeg publisher, now retired and living in Los Angeles.

Mr. Hooper said Churchill is destined to be a new and great lure for tourists. The new seaport looks fine and the work is going ahead with great rapidity night and day. The immense grain elevator is just about completed and miles of wharves, jetties and piers are being put in. Two shifts working night and day with ten locomotives bringing in rock sand and gravel are constantly at work.

"We say 27 white whales from 12 to 18 feet long in Churchill harbor," he declared. "These are sometimes called Gramplan, being a small species of whale not edible to whites but which will make great soap factory stock and when refined will make good machinery oil."

WATCH FOR THE SNEEZE

"She speaks fluently," remarked a girl behind us at the movie-talkie.

"Naturally," remarked her companion, "with so much flu out there in Hollywood."—Boston Transcript.

Paris where amateurs are permitted to try their hands on the stage but if the audience is not pleased by the performed, a large iron hook emerges from the wings and yanks the unlucky one off the stage. Perhaps the House might take a hint from that. Or perhaps it might devise a sort of vacuum cleaner which would suck up the unruly member and remove him in a bag. Or better still, we might have a system of trap doors, one for each member. The speaker, should occasion arise, would pull the appropriate lever; whereupon the offender would disappear into the realms below like Melito returning to his own place.

There is a vaudeville show in town place.

Big Double Program At Prince Edward

SCHMELING-STIRLING CHAMPIONSHIP MATCH EXTRA ATTRACTION

Right hot shortly after the heavy-weight championship match between Schmeling and Stirling The Prince Edward is now showing the picture. There is nothing gruesome, just two perfectly trained athletes giving a perfect exhibition of the manly art of self-defence. See it and judge for yourself.

Pickford Film Laughing Hit

In this sophisticated age genuine laughter is at a premium. So, if you are fed up with surface morals, sex plots and white-washed wickedness, and really hanker after a delightful, roughish love story replete with comedy, go and see Mary Pickford in "Kiki" at the Prince Edward Theatre.

Here, if one may be paradoxical, is bright screen entertainment that children may safely take their parents to see. Miss Pickford, under the skillful guidance of Sam Taylor, producer-director for United Artists, has forewarned all other "Kiki's" and given us her own.

It is modern, fast, funny and exhilarating from start to finish. Miss Pickford has an innocent, wild abandon, a hoydenish quality, recklessness and impulsiveness and madcap charm. She falls in love with Reginald Denny who can't get along with a woman and can't get along without one. He has been divorced from one Margaret Living stone, and she is using all her feminine power to lure him back meanwhile carrying on something of an affair with a tenor.

"Kiki" has a high quality comic cast, every member of which is headlined in laughter. Denny may an excellent leading man for Miss Pickford. Margaret Livingston is hip and sparkle. Joseph Cawthor. Fred Walton, Phil Tead, Fred Warren and Edwin Maxwell give splendid support to the riotous moment between Miss Pickford and Denny. It has fireworks and chuckles in spate.

"Modern Wife" At Capitol

Whether caveman tactics are aid to marital happiness is the principle held up for the public's opinion in "A Modern Wife" which opened at the Capitol Theatre yesterday.

In the case of a modern wife shown on the screen in this instance, interpreted by Genevieve Tobin, there can be little doubt but that she earned the knockout blow meted out to her by Conrad Nage, a patient, "hen-pecked" hubby.

Many husbands with five year experience will undoubtedly suggest a cheer for Conrad Nage's sentiments and secretly wish that the could be sufficiently hard-hearted to deliver an old-fashioned "haymak er" when friend wife starts nagging about that bridge party or tea he's been dodging for weeks.

Conrad is most convincing as the long suffering husband whose temper is finally ignited by the spark created by the family doctor's stating that domestic troubles could be simply solved by administering a spanking to his wife.

Miss Genevieve Tobin has covered herself with glory and assured herself a place in the select circle of film favorites through her performance in "A Modern Wife." We advise married couples and those intending marriage not to miss seeing "A Modern Wife."

WHAT'S THE DIFF.

"Oh, Mother! The monkey looks like Grandpa."

"Sh! You shouldn't say such a thing!"

"Aw! The monkey can't understand me."
