Fliers Start On Atlantic Hop

Griffin and Mattern Took Off From Harbor Grace Last Night On Trans-Atlantic Flight To Ireland.

FAMOUS PILOT MEETS DEATH IN ARCTIC

(Canadian Press)
WINNIPEG, July 5.—Debonair Andy Cruickshank, a slim, straight Briton who knew the aerial byways of northwestern Canada as only a few men do, a war-time pilot, a hero of the spectacular MacAlpine party rescue in 1929, lies dead tonight in the treacherous Arctic he made his playground.
Intrepid Andy, whose name in northland air annals was linked with such famous figures as "Wop" May and Punch Dickins, died in his plane, as he knew he would, and two air engineers met death with him. They were Horace W. Torrie and Harry King.
Bodies of the three were found today with Cruickshank's wrecked plane at Lake Masenrod, 200 miles inside the Arctic Circle, on the air trail into radium-rich Great Bear Lake. They had been dead five days, presumably killed instantly when their machine crashed into HARBOR GRACE, Nfld., July 5.—(By The Canadian Press)—The round the world fliers, Bennett Griffin and James Mattern, took off from Harbor Grace airport at 6.58 Atlantic daylight time tonight on a trans-Atlantic flight to Ireland. They completed the first leg of their globe-circling dash at 4.37, when they landed at Harbor Grace after a hazardous trip through rain and fog from New York.

From Ireland their course stretches over Europe to Siberia across the length of Asia to the Pacific Ocean and homeward by way of the North Pacific and Alaska. Fog dread enemy of those who follow the sky-ways, rolled up over the Newfoundland coast today and formed a hazard that delayed competition of the first leg of the flight.
The plane flew blindly over Bonaville Bay, Trinity Bay and two peninsulas this afternoon before alighting at Harbor Grace, the refueling airport for many successful and fatal ocean flights.
Here they dropped their plans at 4.37. Just 10 hours and 36 minutes

OTTAWA, July 5.—(By The Canadian Press)—The board of control rejected today an application from the Working Class Ex-Servicemen's League of Winnipeg for camping privileges here in a civic park during the Imperial Economic Conference. Mayor J. J. Allen said he was informed the organization was connected with the proposed workers' economic conference, scheduled to be held here in July and August and for which the board had rejected similar camping applications.
WINNIPEG, July 5.—For several weeks officials of the Ex-Servicemen's League have been active among unemployed veterans organizing a "march" on Ottawa. A number of men have already started from the Pacific coast and the plan is for others to join them along the way.
The Ex-Servicemen's League has no connection with the Canadian Legion or the British Empire Service League or with the Army and Navy Veterans Association.

BRITAIN WILL NOT YIELD TO IRISH DEMAND

LONDON, July 5.—(Canadian Press Cable)—Great Britain will not yield to the Irish Free State Government tomorrow that the offer to arbitrate must be by an Empire tribunal and not, as demanded by President Eamon De Valera, by an international body.
The British Cabinet decided on the terms of the reply today, and it will reaffirm the British stand as outlined in the House of Commons yesterday by J. H. Thomas, Dominions Secretary, just before the introduction of the resolution empowering the government to place new duties on Free State imports as a method of recouping the amount of the annuities.
Passage of the resolution by a majority of 192 in the early hours

McGregor, Windsor, President of the Canadian Chambers of Commerce, a group of officials of that organization is in the capital to interview Premier R. B. Bennett and Hon. H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, on matters touching the forthcoming Economic Conference.
"We have gathered much data from our 200 and more members relating to the conference," Col. McGregor said today, "and we are here to make that data available to the government. Everywhere we have travelled in recent months throughout the Dominion there is a decidedly hopeful attitude taken toward the conference. Everybody is looking forward to it and while we recognize there are difficulties in the way, from information we have gathered, we feel confident that much trade can be diverted to Empire channels and that should be so much to the good."

PROSPECTS FOR CROPS EXCELLENT

Dr. J. A. Clark Of The Experimental Farm States Outlook For Production Very Bright.

That the prospects for crops in this Province are as good as, if not better than, the average, is the opinion of Dr. J. A. Clark, Superintendent of the Experimental Farm, who bases his statement on observation made on the Farm and in various sections of the Province. Due to unusual lack of moisture during May and June, cereals had been showing lack of colour, Dr. Clark stated, and from the same cause timothy is short. The hay will be below the average in the Charlottetown section and in the eastern part of the Province generally, but will be good in the western section where there was a better supply of moisture.
At the present time roots and potatoes look promising, and a number of splendid fields are to be seen.
Pasture is good, and consequently live stock are in good condition. There are indications of a good crop of small fruit, Mr. Clark states. Strawberries are very satisfactory, and the apples give promise of a good yield.

Weekly Service Next Season

MONTREAL, July 5.—(By The Canadian Press)—It is expected that a weekly service between Bermuda and Canada will be established next season. W. R. Evans, of the Bermuda department of Agriculture, stated here today.
During the winter the boats will go to Halifax and in the summer will come to Montreal, he said. At present boats called every 10 or 14 days.
Mr. Evans stated.
A remarkable increase in trade between Bermuda and Canada had taken place this season, he declared. All the crates for the packing of the vegetables were manufactured by a Halifax firm, he said, and as a result the factory was working at night with an increased staff.

Charged With Husband's Murder

(Canadian Press)
SHERBROOKE, Que., July 5.—The first woman to be arraigned on a murder charge in the district of St. Francis since 1890 appeared before a justice of the peace here today.
She was Mrs. Beatrice Bernard Chapdelaine, who is co-accused with her brother, Gedeon Bernard, of the murder of her husband, Ludger Chapdelaine, an East Angus, Que., taxi-driver, who died in hospital on March 8 last, apparently from arsenic poisoning.
The brother and sister were remanded until tomorrow, when proceedings are expected to be adjourned for a week.
Mrs. Chapdelaine stands charged with having, on or about February 15, 1932, administered arsenic to her husband with his food. Bernard is charged with complicity in that he procured the poison.
An original coroner's inquest decided that Chapdelaine's death was due to natural causes, despite a report from Dr. Rosaire Fontaine to the effect that arsenic was present in the body. Provincial police worked on the case for two months before the accused were taken into custody.

Sentences Are Reduced

EDINBURGH, Scotland, July 5.—(Canadian Press Cable)—The sentence to one of the most celebrated criminal trials ever held in Scotland came today when the Court of Criminal Appeal reduced the sentences passed on Alexander Young and George M. Todd, directors of Scottish Amalgamated Silks Limited, who were convicted last April on several charges of fraud.
The sentence of three years' at hard labor for Young was reduced to 18 months' imprisonment, and the sentence of six months' imprisonment for Todd was cut in half by the appeal court, which quashed conviction on some of the counts.
The pair had been convicted of defrauding the public of nearly $2,000,000 by issuing a false prospectus and of misappropriating a further $1,500,000 by false allotment of shares. The trial was the longest ever held in Scotland and cost more than $250,000.

YOUNG PLAN MUST CONTINUE, SAYS HERRIOT

Failure Of Reparations Conference Feared As Result Of New Demands By French Premier.

(Canadian Press Cable)
LAUSANNE, July 5.—A sudden hardening in the attitude of Premier Edouard Herriot, of France, jeopardizing the Lausanne reparations conference, amazed conference circles tonight.
Premier Herriot declared that if the conference does not satisfy the French claims then the Young plan for reparations payments by Germany must continue. He emphasized the importance to France of a safeguard in any reparations settlement against failure to secure a revision of the war debt agreements with the United States.
He declined to even discuss the German demand for elimination of the war guilt phrase from the Versailles treaty, although the impression was growing stronger tonight that Chancellor Franz von Papen attached the greatest importance to this, looking upon the total "final liability" that might be set for Germany, in lieu of reparations annuities, as a secondary consideration.

U. S. Govt. Aids In Search

NEW YORK, July 5.—The United States government today began a search by air and sea for the little ketch Curlew, long overdue in the ocean yacht race from Montauk Point, Long Island to Hamilton, Bermuda.
With naval tugs and coast guard boats already searching the waters between Long Island and Bermuda, with naval tugs and coast guard boats already searching the waters between Long Island and Bermuda, naval seaplanes and the dirigible Akron today were ordered to aid in the task. Relatives of the Curlew's crew had appealed for government aid in the search. The Curlew, commanded by Nat Blum, of New York, and manned by a crew of amateur sailors, inexperienced in ocean work, left Montauk Point with 26 other racing craft a week ago Saturday. All the other competing craft have long since made Bermuda or been accounted for.
This morning an unofficial entrant in the race, the Bermuda fisherman, Spanish Rose, sailed into Hamilton after being blown off her course and becalmed. There was no sign of the Curlew, however, and the inexperience of her crew in ocean racing caused grave fears for their safety.

CONFERENCE PREPARES TO ADJOURN

Three Or Four Months Will Be Required For Study Of The Hoover Proposals.

GENEVA, July 5.—(A.P.)—Prospect for immediate action on President Hoover's proposal for a one-third reduction in arms went aglimmering today when the world disarmament conference began preparations to adjourn until fall.
The conference bureau tonight authorized Sir John Simon, British delegate, to draft an adjournment declaration, which should be generally framed along these lines:
1—Tribute to the Hoover proposal as a valuable contribution to the conference.
2—Recognition that parts of the Hoover plan dealing with effectiveness and naval forces require considerable time for study by the powers concerned.
3—An announcement of sundry points upon which the conference is virtually agreed.
This was cleared the way for a recess, and the opinion prevailed that three or four months would be required for study of the Hoover proposals. Those favoring this course argued that the plan raised questions too deep fundamentally to obtain adoption within the next few weeks.
Sir John cited bacteriological warfare, the permanent disarmament commission and some restriction of air bombing as points upon which the conference had already agreed.
