Protestant Orphanage Maintenance Collection

The annual collection for operating expenses opened favorably on Nov. 1st and in the city the personal canvass is progressing very well. A reserve list has been prepared and a special committee will call on these at an early date; this list is made up largely, of the business men.

The Committee in charge of the collection has left no stone unturned. They have been working for weeks organizing and planning for the future of our Institution depending on the success of this undertaking to a very great extent.

The country has been well advised and the different clergymen have promised to assist in their section; a great many have been interviewed personally and have agreed to co-operate in the work. Helpful literature has been prepared for distribution, the aim being to have every section fully supplied.

Every subscription will appear in the lists in the Press and anyone and every one has the privilege of subscribing; there is no limit to the amount—we ask you to give according to your means.

If you believe the rescuing of these children worth while—

This situation exists in spite of consistent efforts to educate and inform the public. The need to push social education before the public exists, and adequate means of doing it are still wanting."
