ENVY

The sin of envy is one of the "seven deadly sins." There is a whole family of the sins of the spirit as we call them. Jealousy is a sister to envy. The same blood flows in their veins. Another member of the same detestable brood is covetousness. These three cause a great deal of the trouble of the world. Wars spring from them. Murders may often be laid at their doors.

The Bible — that book that has so many human situations and so many characters that we see today — gives a very true picture of what envy will do in the case of Cain and Abel. Thus early did this sin play havoc with human happiness. It has been doing its cruel work ever since that day.

This sin has been dealt with by two of the greatest poets of the world—Chaucer and Dante. In the inimitable "Canterbury Tales" the Parson describes the evil that envy may do and he suggests a cure. Chaucer says what envy is the worst of all sins known to man. The cure is to practise love.

Dante takes us up the slopes of Purgatory and we see the seven sins in turn rubbed off his brow. The souls in Purgatory are willing to suffer for their sins and to be purified so as to see the beautific vision. In his pilgrimage during which he was accompanied by Virgil, he, on the second terrace, comes across those who had been guilty of the sin of envy, and he is almost overcome at what he saw. There they were and their eyes were sewn up by wires, and they leaned against one another. He had conversations with several of them and they told him what they did down in the world.

Envy is a sin of the eye, hence the character of the punishment. In envy we see something another has and we desire it or we grudge it to them. We have unholy desires about it and them. The eye sees what others have and that causes envy sometimes. The classic case of Cain in the Genesis story, and which is made use of in the New Testament, says the devotions of Cain were not acceptable to God and this worked on Cain's mind and he slew his brother. He saw that his brother found favour where he did not.

Envy is a sin of the spirit. We are apt to be harder on sins of the flesh. The greatest moral teacher of the race did not so appraise sins. He was far harder on those who were self-righteous than on the publicans and the harlots of his day. Dante's ethical system is the same. He puts down in the lowest hell not those who are guilty of sins of the flesh, but those, like Judas, who are guilty of treachery.

What is the cure for envy? Dante with fine insight points to those who showed love and sympathy in life. He says that what we share goes farther, and what we keep selfishly we lose.

This is a sin of the eye. The Biblical story of the Fall tells the same thing. Thomas A. Kempis, in giving the history of sin in the individual, makes the same analysis. It may begin with the eye. Eve saw the forbidden fruit. Then the great moral Surgeon of the soul said that it is better to pluck out our eye than having two eyes and come to ruin. What a procession knocks at the eye-gate! It has its exits and its entrances. What a misuse of that wonderful thing called sight when it is lit by envy: what a blessing when it is a window through which love looks.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of Mr. W. H. F. Irving, Cape Traverse, who passed away May 26, 1936.

Time speeds on, ten years have passed
Since death it's gloom, it's shadows, cast
Within our home, where all seemed bright,
And took from us, a shining light;
We miss that light, and ever will,
His vacant place there is none can fill.

Fondly remembered by wife and family.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear father, John T. Garland, who died May 25, 1945.

A happy home we once enjoyed
How sweet the memory still,
But your death has left a loneliness
This world can never fill.
I often sit and think of you
When I am all alone,
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.

Sadly missed by his daughter, Mrs. Charles McGuirk, and son, Joseph Garland.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my dear father, John T. Garland, who died May 25, 1945.

In my heart there is a picture
Sweet and tender, fond and true,
There is not a day, dear father,
That I do not think of you.
At night when all is silent
And sleep forsakes my eyes,
My thoughts are in a lonely grave
Where my dear father lies.

Sadly missed and ever remembered by his lonely daughter, Mary.

Island Man Died Of Natural Causes

HALIFAX, May 24 — (CP) — Body of Frank French, who died in hospital here Monday after collapsing on the Bedford Highway last Thursday, was returned from here Wednesday night for his home at Sturgeon, near Montague, P.E.I.

Dr. F.V. Woodbury, medical examiner, said tonight an autopsy last Tuesday had shown death was due to natural causes.

French, who lived at a rooming house here, was found unconscious on the highway with a large sum of money on his person. He recovered consciousness for a time but lapsed into a coma.

LAUNCESTON, England —(CP) —While acting as a pall-bearer at a neighbor's funeral recently, T.H. Bray of St. Thomas, Launceston, collapsed and died.

"We have conducted experiments in that area," Dr. Archibald said, "and have obtained excellent results with early varieties of vegetables, notably cabbage, cauliflower, carrots and beets. Potatoes are more difficult and while some varieties can be raised there, so far they have not done any too well."

The Experimental Farms director explained that while the winter is very long, growing season in the gold camp area is most intense. "In the growing season there," he said, "there is from 15 to 20 hours daylight.

"Of course some men who try to plant varieties of vegetables which they have known in Virginia, Carolina or even Ontario will make a flop of it. But with the new early strains developed by our department and other seed specialists, it's surprising what you can grow, even above the Arctic Circle."

MARITIME TRADE — According to the Bank of Montreal summary, wholesale trade during April continued active. Retail sales showed a substantial increase over the same month a year ago, the lateness of the Easter season this year no doubt accounting for an important part of the increase. Collections are good. Demand for lumber and pulpwood continues strong; production is in excess of a year ago. Heavy rains have delayed the transportation of logs by road in some districts. Sawing is fairly well advanced. Stocks of dried and pickled fish are low; prices continue steady. Production of fresh fish during the month was well maintained. Manufacturing plants continue busy and the supply of raw materials, particularly textiles, is reported easier. Shipyards are fully occupied. Coal production in Cape Breton during April was slightly lower than the previous month but considerably higher than during the corresponding period a year ago.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH — Rogation Sunday, May 26th, will be observed in St. Paul's Church with the celebration of Holy Communion at 8.30 in the morning. St. Paul's Church was asked to pledge for payment within a three year period, the sum of $10,845., and to date the amount pledged reaches over $20,000. with well over one-third of the amount already received in cash. This pledged amount almost doubles the amount St. Paul's was requested to provide. In a letter to the Rector, the Lord Bishop of Nova Scotia, Bishop Kingston thanked all associated with St. Paul's for such a generous response and expressed high praise for the magnificent leadership given in this undertaking. The service Sunday morning will be broadcast over CFCY. The evening service will be held as usual at 7 o'clock. The Rector, Rev. J.T. Graphic Film Shows Rehabilitation Of Disabled Veterans

The premeire showing of the film "The Third Freedom" illustrating the successful efforts of disabled war veterans in becoming gainfully employed took place at a regular supper meeting of the Kinsmen Club Thursday night at the Charlottetown Hotel. Chairman at the meeting was Stuart Ives.

The 18-minute film represents the opening of a campaign by the Department of Veterans Affairs to educate the general public, particularly potential employers, along the lines that a veteran who has suffered the loss of a limb or limbs is not necessarily handicapped in qualifying for a job.

Major A. W. Rogers, district supervisor of casualty rehabilitation, who was guest speaker gave a short talk on the work planned, and now being done on behalf of disabled veterans in the Province.

Major Rogers stated that in the well over 300 wounded veterans in the Province there were over 30 cases of amputations and four or five cases of double amputations. He pointed out that within a short time hospitalization and treatment for these veterans would be provided locally.

It was revealed that the percentage of casualties was higher in the Maritime Provinces than any other part of Canada due to the fact that most of the troops from this area were on front line duty.

The aim and object of his department was to counsel and advise disabled veterans and help them rehabilitate themselves on "civvy" street. When placed it was necessary to determine if both employer and veteran were satisfied.

Major Rogers told of the rehabilitation of a "double amp" case, Sergeant Dan MacDonald, from the vicinity of Souris. This veteran, although suffering the loss of left arm and leg through service in Italy, was busily engaged in farming. His case was regarded by federal officials as unique and his courage and enterprise lauded.

The campaign concerning the rehabilitation of disabled veterans will be launched Sunday night at 8 o'clock in a radio address by the Governor-General Viscount Alexander.

The film was shown through the kind co-operation of Mr. Ira Brown.

Guests at the supper meeting included Messrs. G. T. Dixon, Fortune, Newfoundland, Ralph Cameron, and W. R. Burnett.

Club representatives to the District convention of the Kinsman Club to be held at St. Andrews, N. B., the latter part of June will include, Messrs. Otto Rose, Dr. L. Duffy, Dr. F. McMillan, H. Trainor, S. MacKay. District officers attending will be District Governor George Sinclair, District Secretary Stuart Ives, District Treasurer Ernest Lord.

- Gallup Poll of Canada -

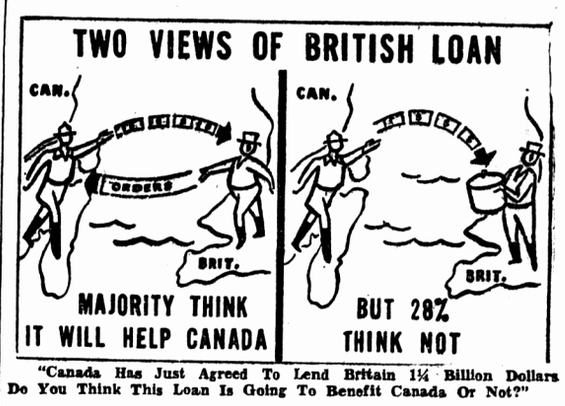
BRITISH LOAN TO BENEFIT CANADA IS VIEW OF MAJORITY OF VOTERS

But This View Not Held By Canadians Of All Areas

By Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

TORONTO, May 25 — Most Senators and Members of Parliament who spoke in support of the $1,250,000,000 loan to Britain stressed the trade advantages which would accrue to Canada—and a slim majority of rank and file voters agree with them.

To see whether Canadian voters viewed the loan as simply a helping hand to Britain, or as a business arrangement which would have mutual advantages, the institute asked a cross-section of voters, selected from farms, villages, towns and cities across the Dominion:



"Canada Has Just Agreed To Lend Britain 1¼ Billion Dollars Do You Think This Loan Is Going To Benefit Canada Or Not?"

With the exception of Canadians in Quebec, (nearly half of whom see no benefits to Canada in the loan) voters in every province feel that Canada stands to benefit by passage of this bill. The national vote, including Quebec, is as follows:

Yes, benefit Canada	51%
No, no benefit	28%
Don't know	21%

This loan, which received final passage in the Canadian Senate a few hours before the U. S. loan passed the American Senate, represents, on a per capita basis, over $107 for every man, woman and child in the Dominion. Just how sharply public attitudes towards this important bill vary from province to province, can be seen by comparing the vote in the Gallup poll in Ontario and that in Quebec:

	Ontario	Quebec
Benefit	64%	26%
No benefit	18%	48%
Undecided	18%	26%

The Prairie Provinces also hold strongly to the belief that Canada will benefit.

Further questioning by trained Gallup opinion reporters brought out the fact that those who believe the loan will redound to Canada's advantage, were thinking, in the main, of increased trade. A few, however, stressed the belief that it would strengthen the friendship between Canada and England.

In the opposite camp, those who stated that it would not benefit Canada, hold the view that it "is really a gift, not a loan, as Canada will never be repaid." Others in this group believe that the money is needed more in Canada than by Britain. The low interest rate (no interest for first five years; two per cent thereafter, if Britain's trade position reaches certain levels) was objected to by a few voters.
