W. C. T. U. NOTES

I WILL HIDE THESE
I can hear my Saviour whisper
To my heart weary and worn,—
"In My hands and feet are wound
prints—
I have all your sorrows borne.
Through your cross be great and
heavy,
Fierce the tempest, wild the storm,
Of the Saviour's gentle whisper,
Till the breaking of the morn."
Till the morn breaks in its beauty,
Flooding all the vale and plain,
Sunlight stealing through the shadows,
Like the calm and sweet refrain,
Of the Saviour's gentle whisper,
Through the tempest and the storm,
"I will hide thee, safely hide thee,
Till the breaking of the morn."

EVANGELISTIC SUPERINTENDENT'S MESSAGE
Dear White Ribboners:—
As your Evangelistic Superintendent for Edmonton District and Y.T.C. Secretary for the Province, I wish to greet you with the Romans 12:1, and beseech you therefore, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies as a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service.
If we do this we will spend much time in prayer for the work of the W.C.T.U., and can then look forward to results from our efforts. No one woman can accomplish this great task, but if every member would pray "Open my eyes and make me willing to do something," then something would be done. The job is so big we need every one of you.
Our plan is, if possible to contact every young girl in the province and ask them to put at least one or two temperance programs in the year, and also have Pledge Cards distributed to be signed, and then to report back to me, so we will know what is being done. Will you, as members see that this is done where you are.
By the grace of God may we mothers give our youth true knowledge of right and wrong. Yours in the Master's service,
Mrs. B. M. Anderson

REGINA WELCOMES MRS. WICKSON
The Provincial Sub-Executive recently convened in the First Baptist Church, Regina, Mrs. Ada Bowman, president, presided and introduced Mrs. John Wickson. The first unit of the All Canada W.C.T.U. Choir sang and was explained as an effort to improve the type of songs used at W.C.T.U. meetings. "Sing in your Union sing in the Province, and at National Conventions is the idea. A small amount of money was granted, to prepare the songs sung by the choir for sending to the Unions across Canada. At a luncheon, about twenty-five members spent a social hour with Mr. and Mrs. Wickson. Mrs. A. E. Davey opened the afternoon session with a devotional on Prayer, the choir sang "Keep on Praying," and two minutes' silence was observed in memory of Mrs. H. G. Andrews and Rev. R. W. Crow, of Fergus, Ont.

Report of all Departments were very good. The radio as a means of putting our work before the public was fully discussed, and Mrs. Bowman was asked to contact the radio station as to putting on a health program. A request was sent to the Provincial Legislature asking that the film, "It's the Brain that Counts" be included in the Audio Visual instruction for schools and colleges.

Bringing greetings from Ontario, Mrs. Wickson spoke to a large and appreciative audience on the Sarah Rowlatt-Wright Endowment Fund, and the need of National Headquarters to develop our own Canadian Literature—an office for Tidings—a reference library, and an archivist to gather and keep our records. These were only a few of the needs stressed by the speaker, for the liquor problem today affects the very centre of our life—the home, and we must start not only to educate the children, but adults also, and once women get a vision of the need

TRAVELERS' AID SUPERINTENDENT'S MESSAGE
Where there now is an appointed paid worker by the W.Y.C.A. or so noted by the W.C.T.U. Travelers' Aid Superintendent in her report.
BRANCH NOTES TAKE 2
Sometimes the work is co-operative, as in Toronto, where each of these organizations, the Y.W.C.A. and W.C.T.U. has two paid Supervisors, the Joint Station and C.A. and content himself paid by these two organizations, the latter having also a part-time paid representative in West Toronto.
Please Provincial Travelers' Aid Superintendents, whether newly appointed, or re-appointed, send me a complete list of the Unions in your Province, with the names of the local Travelers' Aid representative as soon as possible. This necessitates the writing of a personal letter to each Union in your Province, with effort with prayer brings results. May courage and success be yours.
Yours in Service
(Mrs.) Lulu Redick,
609 Avenue Road., Toronto 12.

KIPLING'S VERDICT
"Butter it is that man should go without his beer in public places and content himself with swearing at the narrow-mindedness of the majority; better to buy liquor artfully at back doors, than to bring temptation to the lips of young fools such as four I have seen."

Nursing and National Health
II—HISTORY OF NURSING IN CANADA
Nearly three hundred years have passed since our first "Canadian Nurses" left the shores of France to bring to "New France", but in particular to Quebec and Montreal, physical and spiritual relief. They brought help much needed in times of guerilla warfare, when savage cruelty and ignorance tried to destroy and suppress everything noble and helpful God's nature.
The harrowing stories of hardship and suffering, and the need of nurses, written home from the French Provinces by the Recollet and Jesuit missionaries, aroused the deepest emotions of religious enthusiasts and brought about the heroic venturing into the wild the sea of two separate companies of French nuns, by whom the first hospitals in French Canada were founded. From small beginnings came the imposing and spacious Hotel Dieu of Quebec and of Montreal. The former was staffed by a group of French nuns of the Augustinian order; the latter by Sisters of the Order of St. Joseph de la Fleche, under the leadership of Jeanne Mance. Miss Mance, the most outstanding figure among the pioneer nurses, has not been forgotten in Canada. Her status stands on the Maison-Neuve monument in the Place d'Armes of Montreal, and her portrait hangs in the Hotel Dieu.
The order of Grey Nuns had a large share of emergency nursing and pioneer hospital services in those early days in Canada and there are also references to the Ursulines and to lay brothers in connection with such work. Fearlessly they worked through epidemics of smallpox, scurvy, and other diseases of privation, and many features of the life of their old orders still remain to add historical interest to their communities.
Secular hospitals began to develop about the middle of the 18th century, the first being founded in 1750 in Halifax, Nova Scotia, and later (1766) granted to the city as an almshouse. The Montreal General Hospital, founded in the early part of the 19th century, was opened in a four-room house for the purpose of caring for the indigent sick, most of whom were immigrants. In 1819 it moved to larger quarters, and a few years later, the McGill Medical School was organized and became closely associated with it.
The Toronto General Hospital had an interesting origin. After the war of 1812-13-14, one of the patriotic societies had prepared medals of gold, silver and bronze to be distributed to the heroes according to rank. So fierce were the disputes over the awarding of the medals that these were finally melted down, the bullion sold, and the money given toward the first general hospital in what was then York. Though begun in 1820, it was not used till 1829.
Following in the wake of the new railroads came the pioneer settlers to open the Canadian West. Typhoid was rampant in these early settlements, and hospitals were a first necessity. The Winnipeg General Hospital was organized in 1872. Other, now large and important, hospitals were established across Canada to the Pacific Coast. The superintendents of nurses of these hospitals were truly pioneers in the field of professional nursing. The story of the growth of training schools is the story of their strong determination and courage.

NOTICE
ATTENTION! YOUNG WOMEN
Beginning this summer, a course at the Provincial Sanatorium will be started for attendant nurses and at the completion a certificate will be given. Instruction will be given in nursing procedures, diets, drugs and medicine and medical nursing as related to the patients. Applications should be made before June 1, 1945.
For further information, apply in person, or write to the Superintendent of Nurses, Miss Katharine MacLennan, R.N., Provincial Sanatorium, Charlottetown Prince Edward Island.

ATTENTION MOTHERS
Does the fact that Diphtheria caused 10 deaths last year in the Province mean anything to you? Do you know that 63 cases were reported during the year just ended? Do you know that Diphtheria can be easily prevented? Your child may be the next victim unless he—or she—gets this protection. The Department of Health is anxious to help you. Will you co-operate by getting your babies, pre-school and school children protected? All children require a reinforcing dose every three years.
Commencing the first of May the Department of Health will conduct Diphtheria Immunizing Clinics in every school. A physician and a Public Health Nurse will visit each school three times at three weeks intervals. Be sure and get all children six months of age and upwards protected. Your children's health is your responsibility—do not falter in your duty. Diphtheria can be prevented.
