Yesterday was the final meeting of the Rotary Club for this year and reports of chairman...

REPORT OF THE SECRETARY

As Secretary of the Charlottetown Rotary Club I beg to submit the following 21st annual report for the year 1937-1938.

The year has been a very interesting and instructive Rotary year. At the beginning of the Rotary year, on July 1st, our membership was 62.

We regret to have lost the following members by resignation and death: Chas. D. MacNeil, Harry Richardson, E. L. Mies, Major J. A. MacKenzie, and T. B. Grady.

We are happy to have as new members: Roy MacNeil, Dr. Harold Shaw, A. R. McInnis and Dr. Gill Houston.

During the year we held 49 meetings, of which we were privileged to entertain 39 members, 167 and 208 guests.

Sept. 27—Judge Arsenault (hon. member) George Ross (hon. member).

Oct. 25—Warren Brenton, Dairy Industry in Canada.

Nov. 1—(Jim Murray) (Phil Cobb) Useful Knowledge.

Dec. 6—Dr. MacMillan, Problems of Public Health.

Dec. 13—Arthur R. Cooper, Music.

Feb. 7—Brad LePage, The Coronation.

March 14—Clairie Bissett, Canadian Succession Duty Tangle.

March 28—Keith Rogers, Radio Broadcasting.

April 11—Norville Luck, Report of Boy's Work.

May 9—Dr. Stirling Giddings, Social Diseases.

May 30—(Neil MacLean) (Percy Turner) Report Saint John Conference.

June 6—Art McInnis, Reasons for holding Hospital Bazaar.

June 13—Dr. Harold Shaw, Tuberculosis.

The remainder of the meetings were taken up with informal discussions, musical programme, talks by prominent speakers on other parts of Canada and United States.

Our attendance has not been as good as usual. In fact, as compared for the year 1937, the average for the year 1938 was 44.4.

It might be interesting to record that we were represented by eight Rotarians at the Saint John conference, and by five at the District Conference which was held next year in Charlottetown.

Our usual ladies night was held next week later this year and was different from the usual type of program.

47 Rotarians were present and entertained 74 Rotary Anns and guests with an excellent dinner, musical program and theatre party at the Prince Edward Theatre.

During "Farmers' Week" our club entertained 45 farmer guests at which 48 young ladies were present. The meeting was addressed by Mr. A. W. Peterson of Swine Division, Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa, and brother-in-law of Keith Rogers.

To record the 20th anniversary of your club's organization in September, your secretary prepared and published a special year book which contains the club's roster information about Rotary International and other club's constitution and by-laws amended to date.

I wish at this time to express my thanks to Jim Murray and Percy Turner for co-operation in preparing this booklet.

On November 22, 1937, the Secretary made a motion to amend the by-laws to conform to R. I. by-laws, changing the date of collection of dues from 1st of November to 1st of May, to July 1st and January 1st. The change in collection of dues will result in the financial statement for this year being due in July, instead of only six months instead of 12 months as formerly. In view of the extraordinary amounts of disbursement this year, the Treasurer is authorized to prepare a budget of estimated expenditure based on the past two or three years for use in the incoming year.

Your Board of Directors met regularly on the last Monday of each month and also periodic meetings called by the President, a total of 21 meetings.

Whenever necessary, flowers, letters of sympathy, were sent members of the club who were ill or bereavement touched their homes.

SAYS PEOPLE LIVING IN 'DREAM WORLD'

Seek Escape From Dread Of Thinking In Realm Of Fantasy, Claim.

(By Stephen J. McDonough, Associated Press Service Writer) OTTAWA, June 27—Entire populations totalling millions of people throughout the world are turning from mental reality into the realm of childhood fantasy to forget wars and threats of wars, the American Association for the Advancement of Science was told at a two-day symposium today.

Addressing the Association's symposium on "science and the future," Dr. Stuart Rice of the United States central statistical board declared that books, magazines, motion pictures and other amusements people are reverting to the dream world of childhood to escape the dread of thinking.

"We are reverting to a state of desperation the world is sacrificing its hopes of higher living standards on behalf of towering, non-productive armaments, men who are seeking pleasure in the realm of fantasy," he declared. The recent popularity of Walt Disney's "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" and James Hilton's "Lost Horizon" are evidence of this tendency, Dr. Rice pointed out.

World Of Plenty

Speaking before the same gathering, the first of four general study sessions on science and society, Dr. Frank E. Lathe of the National Research Council of Canada declared that the natural and synthetic processes assure the entire world of sufficient food, clothing, fuel, light, power and even luxuries for centuries to come.

However, he declared, not all of the world's natural resources, particularly minerals, are equitably distributed according to the political and economic boundaries of nations. This makes the dreams of Germany and Italy impossible.

Dr. Rice said that before and during the World War democratic countries believed that the economic and political nature of the world. Today, however, "the faith in a world order has been very largely dissipated and the world is reverting to the state of nature."

The world today is faced with two types of hazards, the American economist said. One is the danger of a breakdown in its social organization, and second, a slow disintegration and decay of the same social organization. Both, he added, must be attacked quickly and effectively by social scientists, social engineers and statesmen in a sweeping effort to maintain the world's economic and mental balance.

The breakdown might result from another major war, Dr. Rice said, or from "more subtle forces of disintegration which would include the danger of the breakdown of population, decline, weakening of moral standards and failure of capitalist nations to devise efficient means for distributing the products of their industry."

Natural science and the social sciences "must join their efforts in undertaking the realistic task of constructing social organizations that national and international cooperation function and produce for the well-being and improvement of mankind," he added.

Minards removes stains. and the United States, as evidenced on all sides and by all classes of people.

Capt. W. J. Robinson talked interestingly about the British Army in India.

One of the highlights was furnished by Bob Davis of the New York Sun on "Happening in Toronto" and "Happening in London."

The "Most widely travelled correspondent in the world."

Mr. A. P. C. Rees, Manager of The Bank of Montreal, gave an explanation of the importance of West African Colonies to the Empire.

Harold K. Wright, B.A., addressed us on Japan and China, giving an indication of serious study of the subject, which he handled in a splendid manner.

Portrait of dictator Mussolini by Rev. H. J. Denton was most deeply interesting review. Mr. Denton gave indication of having read freely at length regarding his subject, and presented the same in a concise and convincing manner.

Rev. J. T. McGinnis touched on the most interesting subject which was explained in a most convincing manner. He spoke in view of the great changes taking place in the economic structure of that great country, and the probability of consequences, the learned speaker was listened to with keenest interest.

The Sino-Japanese war was dealt with by Dr. J. A. Brace, who from a fund of personal knowledge and experience was able to describe most vividly the terrible happenings in China.

Past Governor P. W. Turner and President Neil MacLean took part in our first "International District Conference" and the report is fresh in the minds of all. Next year Charlottetown will have the honour of entertaining such a gathering and it is suggested that we should do our part well in supporting President George.

Your committee notes with pride the number of local citizens and willing to contribute to our program on such a variety of world wide subjects. It is most gratifying to feel that we are favoured with such contacts.

Your committee also must thank the number of local citizens and willing to contribute to our program on such a variety of world wide subjects. It is most gratifying to feel that we are favoured with such contacts.

Divorce Court Of P. E. Island Under Discussion

The following quotation from the Hansard report of the debates in the Senate, June 22, is self explanatory. Hon. J. J. Hughes: Honourable members, while listening to the remarks of the distinguished chairman of the Divorce Committee (Hon. Mr. McMeans) I came to the conclusion that the committee's actions do not correspond with its chairman's wishes. The committee now seems to be looking for work. It accepts applications from Prince Edward Island, which has a divorce court of its own. I should like to ask the chairman of the committee why it does that.

Hon. Mr. McMeans: As I understand the matter—I am not very clear on it—there is a divorce court, but it has never done any work. Hon. Mr. Hughes: Oh yes, it has, and a case has been tried there. I must inform your honourable colleague that the court is composed of the Lieutenant-Governor in Council, that is, of the Lieutenant-Governor and at least five of his counsellors. If the Lieutenant-Governor does not wish to act, or cannot act, he has the power to nominate the Chief Justice of the province in his place. I am simply pointing out one way by which the divorce committee can relieve itself of dealing with divorce petitions from Prince Edward Island.

Hon. Mr. McMeans: That must be a good place to live. Hon. Mr. Hughes: Meighen: Maybe the honorable member from Kings (Hon. Mr. Hughes) would tell us what part of the British North America Act gives Prince Edward Island power to appoint its own judges. Hon. Mr. Hughes: I will not enter into a discussion of that. Right Hon. Mr. Meighen: I do not think your court is any good. I am not sure that the province of Prince Edward Island had a divorce court when it became a member of Confederation, and has never lost its jurisdiction in divorce matters. It is a province of the Dominion and I think I could submit fairly good proof of it, though I am not prepared to do so now.

DISGUISED THE REMAINS OF RICE PUDDING A few of us these days can afford to waste food and a daily inspection of the larger to see what's been left over is part of the day's routine. It is a problem sometimes to know just what to do with those odds and ends, which will accumulate, so as to make an appetizing dish. For example, the remains of a rice pudding, put it on the table as it is, and the family will turn up their noses at it; but it's far too good to be wasted. Here are some ways of using it. Cut it into neat squares, spread jam between each pair of them, arrange in a glass dish and pour custard over. Then decorate with glace cherries and angelina. Or, cut it into cubes, add egg and breadcrumb them and fry in hot deep fat to a golden brown. Drain well and serve with jam sauce.

Or, take it out of its dish and arrange it as neatly as possible on a clean dish. Make a layer of stewed fruit and put some tinned fruit in it. Arrange more of the fruit round the rice, and pour the juice round. Serve with cream or custard.

If it's a milky rice pudding, spread a layer of stewed fruit on the bottom of a pie-dish, put the remains of the pudding on the top, and bake in a slow oven for 15 minutes.

URGES REFORM

take the power to do so, it never then can be the master builder. It will itself go into the building of a new nation, and the party will disappear. Hard pressed democracy the world over will take time off to weep for it.

Mr. Herridge said that reaction now plans to merge the Liberals and Conservatives into a national government and the purpose of this government will be high politics, quietude, and its consequences the wreck of Canada.

"It will be government by the international money power. That is Fascism. Foreign Fascism will be the national party to be called the National Party and to be the National Government.

"Whether the idea is to effect a pre-election union of parties, I cannot say, though there is an obvious advantage in this union. The Liberal Party is in grave disrepute. It therefore might be wise to hide it behind the imposing facade of a National Party and offer the people a united front and a promise to a threatened people. Between our poverty and our prosperity, reaction would erect the barrier of National Government.

Mr. Herridge said that the Liberal Party cannot lead the people, for reaction dominates it and the party hierarchy is for the old order and against the new.

Predicting a split in the Liberal Party, he said it eventually will slide into oblivion. "Progress will be a furrow through the Liberal Party and it will divide."

A national policy, based on the doctrine of abundance and not scarcity, which would raise production to its potential level and then raise purchasing power to the potential level of production, so far as it was possible to serve the people, he continued.

Reaction for years had controlled the Conservative Party, had used it to advance its interests and "has done its worst to protect reaction."

"It has turned the doctrine of Canada first into a watch dog for high profits. A while ago, the Conservative Party Leader splendidly proposed a plan for the protection to serve the people. Reaction derided and rejected it. That was a traitorous thing to do. It also was stupid, because the only chance for reaction in reform."

"The national policy by reaction has been dragged down to serve reaction on its base level. The men and women of the party did not apply their brains and hearts to their time to think. Reaction has long been high up in the Conservative Party. For if there is a Conservative hierarchy, reaction is the hierarchy."

From the National Conservative convention can come a decision which will give the needed leadership to Canada but only if the party adopts a policy of reform, he continued.

Reform was the capitalist means of attaining the standard of prosperity demanded by the people. Leadership gave power to that standard and the people to control it. That was the issue of the convention.

"Reaction has driven large numbers from the party. Others are at heart in reaction. They must understand the fact also. Then there will arise, a mighty resolution for reform which will wrench this party from reaction's clutches and set it free to serve the people."

The policy advocated by Mr. Herridge to reform capitalism and make it serve the citizens of Canada, he said, did not mean to rescue purchasing power "to rescue the present palsied system of distribution."

"After the lesson these black years have taught, it is plain that we need a more adequate purchasing power without monetary reform, possibly only when the monetary system in Canada is controlled by Canada."

Collective bargaining must be protected, he said, and co-operative buying and selling encouraged. There should be effective state control of monopolies and certain industries essential to the public interest should not be continued under unrestricted private ownership.

Concerning the railway issue, Mr. Herridge said: "The deflationary policy which has retarded the movement for amalgamation of the railways, will, of course, be curbed. For that is retreat and retreat is defeat. The railway problem is a highly publicized industry in the national problem. Solve the nation's problem, then we will build our railways up, not pull them down."

Mr. Herridge outlined a proposed tariff policy for the Conservative Party.

Products Canada produces as well but not better than other countries should be given full protection. The market should be opened to Canadian market but not at monopoly prices. An appropriate system of government regulation would protect the consumer.

Products in Canada does not produce naturally and well would be given free entry and "exotic industries would thus be liquidated."

WANTS STATES OF FASCIST THREAT SAN FRANCISCO, June 27—Senator Burton K. Wheeler asserted tonight Fascism would overtake the United States unless the people prevented a handful of corporation leaders from gaining control of the political power.

The Montanan said concentration of the bulk of America's economic power in the hands of a few big trusts is the greatest danger to the way of negation of democratic processes. He spoke before the International Kiwanis convention.

DISMISSAL OF PRINCIPAL PROTESTED

Dalhousie Superior School Students Stage Demonstration.

DALHOUSIE, N. B., June 27—(CP) Dismissal Saturday of W. C. Scott, principal of Dalhousie Superior School here for the last three years, resulted in a demonstration today by more than 300 of the school pupils. During the morning recess period they paraded to the street in front of the office of Roland Trepanier, member of the School Board, and remained there for an hour, shouting "We want Mr. Scott."

The demonstration broke up after some of the students were told that a meeting would be held in the afternoon to discuss their protests. No meeting materialized, however. Talk of another demonstration tomorrow was general among the students.

Students were dispersed with on motion of Trepanier, supported by Mayor Arsene Allain. Members of the teaching staff said the abrupt dismissal was contrary to a verbal agreement that any such action affecting the next school term would not be taken later than June 1.

Trepanier refused to come out and meet the young students today. Mayor Allain said the dismissal was made "on account of friction" but would not apply the statement of the school board to stage a demonstration in his behalf.

Plans For Memorial To Late Sovereign Undergo Change By EDWIN JOHNSON Canadian Press Staff Writer LONDON, June 27—Original plans for a large-scale Empire memorial to King George V, involving demolition of several historic buildings, have been modified in favor of a more "compact and harmonious" scheme.

The decision of the executive committee of the Memorial Fund, a statue of the late sovereign will be erected on a rectangular grass plot in the shadow of Westminster Abbey and opposite the House of Parliament. The revised plan entails demolition of only one of the four 18th century Georgian houses condemned under the more recent scheme.

Ever since the memorial committee gave its approval to the larger scheme last fall, there have been rumblings of discontent among the Protection of Ancient Buildings and the Royal Fine Art Commission.

In criticizing the original memorial plan, recommended by sub-committee, Sir Giles Gilbert Scott, the Fine Art Commission submitted an alternative lay-out, curtailing the open space and preserving the notable buildings. Without protest, the plan could not be rendered to the royal memorial. The suggestion was adopted.

Following its decision, the memorial committee declared nothing would be more unfitting or ungracious than a public controversy over a memorial to a revered sovereign.

Sir William Reddick, R. A., has been chosen as the sculptor of the statue. Much detail remains to be worked out in connection with the surrounding plot. The monument place will be well-defined and about equi-distant from the northern and southern boundaries of the historic Abbey close. It will have Chapter House as background and be flanked by trees, round and symmetrically enclosed on either side.

The proposed Westminster Memorial is but one phase of the Empire's tribute to their former ruler. Already hundreds of playing fields have been dedicated to his memory throughout the United Kingdom. This month the administrative council of King George's Park, 245,000 acres, in Scotland, 18 in England, 31 in Northern Ireland and one in the Channel Islands. More than 500 proposed schemes have also been registered. A sum of $446,000 has been made available to the foundation to date from the National Memorial Fund.
