Red Cross Appeal Launched

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 14.—By The Canadian Press.—A governor general, a prime minister and a provincial administrator last night gave their support to the campaign of the Canadian Red Cross Society. From the capital, the Earl of Desborough and Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett issued statements to the Canadian Press endorsing the appeal. From Toronto, Sir William Mulock, Administrator for Ontario, issued a third statement to the Canadian Press. The Governor General declared in part: "In my capacity as president of the Canadian Red Cross, it is a pleasure for me to say to the Prime Minister, on behalf of the Society, that I can assure him of the earnest support and co-operation of the whole of the organization, in connection with the appeal he is making for a special National Emergency Fund."

we have given them from the Federal treasury, have undertaken many activities in order to afford relief. They have carried on programmes which have provided employment to many thousands of men and women. But there are special cases everywhere, particularly in the more northern, thinly populated districts, where the coming winter is being faced with little or no food or clothing. It is for those—who have no way of securing the bare necessities of life—that I appeal to the sentiments and liberality of those in better circumstances. "To adequately provide for these, we have created a special National Emergency Fund maintained by voluntary regulations or control. "I ask every citizen in Canada who is financially able to do so, and every organization in Canada, to contribute to this fund."

Fishermen Unite To Fight Racket

MYSTIC, Conn., Dec. 16.—The Rhode Island and Connecticut fishermen to the number of 175 met here and organized the Southern New England Fishermen's Association as a protection against "racketeers" charged with exacting tribute on New England fish in the New York market. Agitation, announcements the alleged racketeers would be fought to the limit resulted in withdrawal of the most recent demands made upon the fishing industry, but despite this action the fishermen went ahead with formation of their protective organization. With reference to fishermen's charges that a New York transportation company had attempted to force fish motor transportation firms to use the services of this particular concern, Joseph MacDougall, secretary and treasurer of a Noank fishing company, told the meeting the demands had been presented to Connecticut fishermen at a New York conference in the presence of members of a "union". Rhode Island fishermen had been invited to the conference, but they refused to attend. MacDougall, who served as Secretary of the meeting here characterized the attempt to force up prices for delivery and unloading of Rhode Island and Connecticut fishermen's products as "unconstitutional and an effort to obtain 'blood money'."

He stated that at the New York conference were men who said they were delegates of a "union" and who expressed resentment against the Rhode Island fishermen for not attending. He quoted the "delegates" as saying that if the Rhode Island fishermen did not accede to their demands they would call a strike, and Rhode Island fishermen would receive no attention from transportation companies and fish handlers. Demands for fees that would increase the fish-barrel delivery charges to New York from Rhode Island and Connecticut by 25 to 75 cents would give the New York transportation company a fee of 25 cents a barrel, which was a "tax" on the fishing industry, MacDougall said. Because of racketeering conditions, he continued, truckmen already pay a blanket fee of $200 a year for the "mere privilege" of delivering fish to the New York market. Remarking that a truckload consists of 80 small or 60 large barrels of fish, and that a truck can be unloaded in an hour, MacDougall said the fees demanded would give a transportation company earnings of $20 an hour, an "exorbitant income." "The only thing the racketeers will accept," he asserted, "is money, cash money—and you get no receipt."

MALPEQUE

It is most regrettable to learn of the serious fire which occurred in Truro, N. S., a few days ago and as a result of it a number of families were left homeless. It is a special cause of regret to know that Mrs. A. N. Gillis, so well known and beloved by friends here, is among the sufferers. Mrs. Gillis spent a day with friends here during the summer. Citizens in general are very sorry to learn of the illness of Mr. Albert MacGougan and all hope for his recovery.

The following is the report for the month of November of the Fanning School—Malpeque.

HEART-ACHE
It isn't the thing you do dear,
It's the things you leave undone,
Which gives you a bit of heart-ache
At the setting of the sun.
The tender world forgotten,
The letter you did not write,
The flower you might have sent
Are your haunting ghosts tonight.
—Margaret Elizabeth Sangster.

Canned Foods At Imperial Show

At the Imperial Fruit Show, which was opened on October 30 in Manchester, and which continued until November 7, the total attendance was approximately 80,000, writes A. J. Seaman, Assistant Canadian Exhibition Commissioner at London, in the forthcoming issue of the Commercial Intelligence Journal. The Canadian Stand in the Canned Goods Section was divided into two separate displays, one devoted to the canned food products, produced in Canada but not well known on this market, and the other to goods which are procurable in Great Britain. Tins of fruit were opened for inspection, and opportunity was given to tradesmen to taste the quality of the different grades of Canadian tinned fruit. Very keen interest was shown in the display, especially by the public. Probably next to pears and peaches the greater number of inquiries were for maple syrup, maple sugar, honey, corn, and wax beans. If these commodities can be more widely distributed throughout the huge consuming area of the North of England, there can be no doubt that enhanced sales will result.

Grocer Holds-off Armed Bandit

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 16.—(By The Canadian Press)—Edward R. McDonald, Oxford Street Grocer, grabbed an armed bandit by the gun-hand last night and saved the firm's cash. Fifteen minutes later Phillip Comeau of Meleghan was arrested on Quimpool Road and charged with attempted robbery while armed. Comeau has served a term in city prison for breaking and entering. Edward was the only clerk in the store of James T. McDonald, Ltd., operated by himself and two brothers, Alderman James F. McDonald and Milton McDonald. The Alderman was at City Hall, Milton was home to supper, when Edward was ordered to turn around and hand out the money.

ANCIENT LAW CITED

SENTENCE REVERSED
MINEOLA, L. I., N. Y., Dec. 15.—County Judge Paul W. Bonyne reversed a too excessive sentence of thirty days in jail for driving while intoxicated. He suspended sentence on receiving a promise of future sobriety from George E. Botts, the defendant. Botts was arrested on November 6 following an accident. He was convicted before Police Justice William Clayton in Williston Park and sentenced to jail. His attorney, Francis J. Parks, appealed. In reversing the sentence, Judge Bonyne quoted the Bill of Rights, (December, 1889) "that excessive bail ought not to be required, nor excessive fines imposed, nor cruel and unusual punishment inflicted."

CAT'S HEAR YIELDS

FACTS ON HEARING
Evidence that everybody might be enabled to hear about fifty per cent better than normal if a way could be found to press continually on a certain spot inside the ear has been presented to the American Medical Association by Dr. Walter Hughson and Dr. S. P. Crowe of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore. The critical spot is the so-called "round window," a small spot of translucent membrane through which the sound waves leave the three small bones of the middle ear and pass into the coiled, liquid-filled tube of the inner ear where the actual hearing is done. Dr. Hughson and Dr. Crowe operated on cats under a surgical anaesthetic and placed tiny metal electrodes in contact with the nerves leading from the ear to the animal's brain. These electrodes then were connected to an amplifier like those used in radio, so that the nerve impulses generated by the ear machinery could be magnified and measured. It even was possible to send

Mounties Lose Living Quarters

(Special to The Guardian)
EDMONTON, Dec. 15.—Fire on Friday destroyed the living quarters in the Royal Canadian Mounted Police radio station at Fort Smith, N.W.T., according to reports reaching here last night. All personal possessions of the radio staff were destroyed, including technical books, furniture and clothing as well as several unopened Christmas packages received in the first winter mail a few days ago. It is believed to have started from creosote collecting in the chimney.

Novel Bet

(Canadian Press)
QUEBEC, Que., Dec. 15.—A novel bet was made on the general Quebec provincial elections, it was learned here today, when two women wagered that their first born child would be named after Premier Louis A. Taschereau or Camille Houde, leader of the Conservatives, according to what party was returned victorious at the polls.

hope is held out that increase of inner ear pressure will be a practical cure for deafness. Nevertheless the discovery that hearing is bettered by pressure, even above what has been called normal, may lead to other discoveries of more practical value.
