The Guardian regrets to learn of the death of Mrs. Wm Sinclair, Hamilton, who passed peacefully away on Friday, Dec. 22nd after a lingering illness. She leaves to mourn a mother, a sorrowing husband, three sons and five daughters who will have the sympathy of the community in their hour of trial.

The steamer Stanley is now in the Summerside-Tormentine route and it now looks as if she might be here for some time. There is no ice in the straits and so far passengers and freight have been plentiful. Several of the natives have availed themselves of the opportunity of visiting Summerside and others talk of taking the trip soon.—Sackville Post.

The regular monthly meeting of the Free Temperance Society of West Cape, was held in the Springfield hall, Lot 8, on Monday evening, the 18th inst. The weather was fine, and the attendance good. The President, Rev. A. D. MacLeod, occupied the chair and opened the meeting with singing, reading and prayer; after which the following program was well rendered:

Recitation—Harold MacLellan.
Speech—The President.
Recitation—Bertha Dymont.

Reading—The President.
Speech—Rev. D. MacLellan.

The exercises were interspersed with singing Gospel Hymns. The President, in his speech urged his hearers not to touch, taste, or handle intoxicating liquors; he warned them that a time of danger was at hand, that many at Christmas and New Year's touch the intoxicating bowl to their hurt and ruin. Many dated their ruin from these seasons, which ought, indeed, to be seasons of great rejoicing and happiness, but, alas, had been turned by too many into seasons of drunkenness and revelry, which was dishonoring to God and unprofitable and ruinous to themselves. He counselled all to look to God for help and grace in every time of need.

The Stanley returned from Cape Tormentine at 7.30 a. m. Saturday with 35 passengers. She left at once on return to the Cape and returned to Summerside at 12.10 noon.

Keep in mind the New Year's concert in Market Hall on Jan 1st '06—The Presbyterian Choir have for several years reserved this night for their annual concert and it is now looked upon as an established event—Mrs. Bates of Lancaster, Eng. will be a strong number on this year's program. The Stanley is doing good work on the Summerside Cape-Tormentine route, making quick trips and carrying large quantities of freight and large numbers of passengers. On Saturday morning she left the Cape at 6 o'clock and made three single trips within six hours. The only day she failed to make a round trip was on Friday when owing to the heavy sea running at the Cape she had to return to Summerside. She left again in the afternoon and reached the Cape at 4 p. m. She did not return to Summerside till the following morning and thus considerable inconvenience was caused from the fact that it could not be definitely ascertained whether she was proceeding to this or some other port or would remain at Tormentine till next morning. The fault lay not with the Captain who, since his vessel took up this route has performed the best service possible. But the agent should be authorized to keep himself in touch with her movements when any irregularity occurs, else the shipping interests and the mail service will be crippled, besides a lot of anxiety and inconvenience occasioned to passengers, owing to the uncertainty of her arrival and departure.

THE ALBERTON GUARDIAN

Office—Post Office Building—H. Clarke, Mgr.

One of the most prominent figures of Prince County passed away Friday evening in the person of Charles Green. Mr. Green was indentified with the early history of this county and Province. He was 77 and was a son of the late Spencer Green and was for many years extensively engaged in shipbuilding and mercantile pursuits here. The deceased was a J. P. and leaves to mourn four sons, Stanley, Lester and Hazen in New York, and Pearley in Calgary and one daughter Edith at home. The funeral took place Sunday to St. John's church cemetery, St. Eleanor's.

A young man who went west some months ago writes, among other things, the following advice to a friend:—"Few people living in the west care to advise anyone in the east to move. I often used to wonder why, and now I realize the reason for this. The country is yet undeveloped; the ways of the people are different from those in the east, and there are many things to like and many to dislike. This is not a country where gold can be picked up on the streets or highways, as some might suppose. A young man can make good wages, but he has generally got to earn them. His chances are in taking the first job that offers, and then work until he sees an opportunity of bettering himself. Many have to 'rough' it for a few years. The young man who comes to this country unfit to take a position in any line of trade or profession, finds that he has either to work—if he wants light work—for small wages or perhaps take up a homestead away back in the country where he lives a lonesome life and endures the hardships of a pioneer. There are lots of Horace Greeleys down east; but you will find few people in the west who will say 'come west young man.' They don't like to advise anyone to leave their homes and travel so far fearing that the country may not suit them. What they want the easterner to do is decide for himself; and if he doesn't like the place he has only himself to blame. A man who leaves the east of his own free will is more apt to find success than he who has the country pictured to him in colors which fade before he reaches his destination. I would say this to the man in the east if you are dissatisfied with your circumstances, if you cannot make the success you aspire to, if you feel that a newer country offers more inducements and are willing to abide by any changes necessary in your manner of living whereby you may better yourself financially—come West." The above is not by any means encouraging to persons who think of going west, and in effect means that the man who is willing to work hard should not leave this Province. Settlers in the west sacrifice home comforts, conveniences, and social life and have to settle down to hardships, privations and work as usual experienced by their forefathers many years ago.
