—THE WOMEN OF RUSSIA. Many Women in the Professions Prior to the Revolution

The educated women in Russia, prior to the revolution enjoyed a position of freedom equal to that of any other country in the world. They were of ten found as owners and managers of large factories and estates; they got their degrees at the universities along with men; women were given posts as teachers of all kinds, including professions at men's universities, and they practised medicine and dentistry. There was a marked tendency to encourage them entering the legal profession, and the Constitutional Democrats in the Duma wanted to admit them to the duties of jury service. When women teachers and professors had served 20 years they were entitled to retire on a Government pension and if they died and were survived by husbands the pensions continued during the husbands' lives.—Family Herald.

EXHIBITION GRANTS

Sir:—A short time ago I noticed where the executive of our Provincial Legislature at their last meeting decided not to give any grants to exhibitions this year. Now this is a matter of supreme importance to the farmers and stock men of this province, and it is the farmers who should decide whether or not this medium of fixing and maintaining high standards in live stock and agricultural products should be allowed to pass under without any effort being made to support it. If the exhibitions of this province are abandoned for a time, the live stock industry will receive a set back that will take years to recover from, and it is not the live stock industry figuratively speaking the very backbone of our modern agriculture. Therefore, at a time when greater production is so virtually essential, would it be good business to eliminate the very element which has stimulated production and the production of the best on the grounds of economy? There are many ways in which our Government may economize, but it is not my place to discuss that side of the question.

Consider briefly what has happened along this line in other parts of Canada, Quebec, Ontario and all western provinces have been holding, at least, two large fall fairs annually and their winter fairs have also been sustained. We, in the Maritime Provinces, have been content with any sort of treatment that is measured out to us. Every farmer knows all about the value of exhibitions to a province that is strictly agricultural, so it is up to the farmers, as Farmers, to insist, to all live farmer's organizations, to get busy and get after our representatives, so that when this question is voted upon at the coming sitting of the Provincial Legislature, our exhibition grants will be deemed too important to be left out.

I am, Sir, etc., HAROLD LEARD, Kelvin.

THE CHARM OF THE BOUTONNIERE

"But, surely, you wouldn't wear artificial flowers?" exclaimed the companion of a beautifully-dressed woman, who was selecting a velvety dahlia. "They are apt to be so tawdry-looking." "Not such flowers as these," was the prompt reply. "Just look at this exquisite thing. I shan't wear it with the idea of deceiving people into thinking that it is a real flower, but rather, because it is a lovely copy of one, and recalls some beautiful original. I like to wear a boutonniere, especially with a dark tailored suit, because it adds a note of vivid color; flowers in winter, nor do I feel that artificial flowers are so attractive. This floral I have a number of them, says a writer in the Christian Science Monitor.

"Pa," asked the young hopeful, "what does dining a la carte mean?" "The father did not know, but he did not wish to show his ignorance. "It means," he explained, "that if 'er' it means eating in a lunch wagon."

The Origin of Deserts

There is a popular idea that deserts like the Sahara are the bottoms of ancient seas which have been lifted above their original elevation by geographical forces. This notion is an erroneous one. It is certain, high authorities contend, that the sands of all the great deserts have been formed on the spot by the disintegration of the solid rocks on which they rest. Desert sands correspond in all respects, so far as their mode of origin is concerned, to the dust and sand that accumulates on our highroads in summer. All deserts are situated where the winds from the ocean, before reaching them, are exhausted of their moisture by passing over mountains or across extensive tracts of land.—Family Herald.

TRY THIS

The quick wit of a travelling salesman who has since become a well known proprietor was severely tested one day. He sent his card by the office boy to the manager of a large concern, whose inner office was separated from the waiting room by a ground glass partition. IN MEMORIAM

MRS. TROPHENA BEERS.

The death occurred at China Pt. of Mrs. Trophena Beers, at the home of her daughter Mrs. Margaret Irving, on Tuesday February 19th. The deceased was in her eighty-seventh year and has been in failing health for some time—so her death was not unexpected.

Mrs. Beers leaves to mourn three sons and two daughters besides a large number of friends.

The funeral will leave the home of Mrs. Irving, China Point on Thursday at 2 p. m. Interment at Cherry Valley Cemetery.

MRS. DONALD STEWART.

The death occurred at Hunter River on Jan. 25th of Christina Stewart, widow of the late Donald Stewart of Cardigan. The deceased had reached the age of eighty-three years and during her life had been a devoted member of the Presbyterian church. Known far and wide for her hospitality, she was esteemed and respected by all who knew her. Besides her two daughters, Miss Margaret of the P. O. Department of Dickinson, N. D., and Mrs. Rodgerston, with whom she resided at the time of her death, there are left to mourn two step-daughters, Miss Frances trained nurse and Miss Charlotte both of Boston and a large circle of friends and acquaintances in different parts of the province. The funeral service was conducted in the Presbyterian Church by the Rev. John Storling of Cavendish, the choir of both churches singing suitable selections and Mr. Slackford sang the beautiful hymn: "No burdens Yonder." The pall-bearers were John McKay, G. H. McGulgan, Daniel McDonald, Simon Brown, Wm. McDougall, Geo. Millan.

THE LATE MRS MICHAEL BYRNE DROMORE.

The death of Mrs. Michael Byrne, Dromore, occurred at the residence of her son on Monday, the 11th inst., after a brief illness.

The late Mrs. Byrne had long passed the allotted span of life. She was in her 95th year, and was, therefore, one of the oldest women in the province. She was a native of the county Monaghan, Ireland, and came to this country in the year 1838. Her husband predeceased her several years. Both Mr. and Mrs. Byrne were splendid types of the early Irish pioneers—so few of whom are now living. Both of them possessed in a generous measure the kindness, the sympathy, and the whole-hearted hospitality of their race. Both of them endured innumerable hardships incidental to their early life of the province; but through honest toil, they succeeded in acquiring an excellent farm and a comfortable home for themselves and their family.

The late Mrs. Byrne was a good practical Catholic, and she had the privilege of a happy death. The funeral was on Wednesday morning to Fort Augustus, and was largely attended. The burial service in the church and at the grave was conducted by the pastor, the Rev. A. J. McDonagh.

Three sons and two daughters, as well as a number of grandchildren remain. A brother Mr. James Clark, Kelly, Morell, and two sisters, Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. Green, Charlottetown are also left to mourn. We extend our sympathy to the family members relatives and friends.

May her soul rest in peace.

The salesman told the boy to go back and get him his card; the boy brought out five cents, with the message that his card was torn up. Then the salesman took out another card and sent the boy back, saying: "Tell your boss I sell two cards for five cents."

NINETY-TWO YEARS A WIDOW

Quite recently the world was surprised to hear of the death of the husband of Charlotte Bronte and shortly afterwards of the widow of Anthony Trollope. But although these survivals seem remarkable they are nothing out of the ordinary when one comes to investigate such matters. The widowhood of the Countess of Desmond, who died lately, extended to seventy years, and even this does not top the record. Agnes Skinner, who died in 1899, at the age of 119, is said to have survived her husband ninety-two years. A much more recent and better authenticated case was the lengthy widowhood of Jean, Countess of Roxburgh, who died in 1753, at the age of ninety-six. She had been a widow for seventy-one years, her husband, the third earl, having lost his life on the Gloucester frigate, wrecked in 1682.—Tit Bits.

Not a Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Water

Says a glass of hot water and phosphat prevents illness and keeps us fit.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of combustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and ptomaine-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of lime stone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store, and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.
