

Old Memories

recreation of small girls was collecting buttons. The tradition was that if one got 999 buttons, each one different, and sent them to Queen Victoria, she would send a silk dress in return. Isabel McKay, daughter of Rev. Neil McKay, wore a handsome silk dress, changeable blue and green, and it was our firm belief that she had obtained it in this way; and so in Sunday School, instead of fixing our minds on the "proofs" of the Shorter Catechism, we would gaze at its scintillating folds and then go home and hopefully count our buttons. But none of us ever reached the required number.

RESIDENCE UNDER CONSTRUCTION—A new house is being built near the West end of Grafton St., by Mr. H. J. Phillips. The building has a frontage on Grafton St., of 52 feet, and an overall width of 28 feet. It is built of concrete and brick work up to the first floor window sills and above of frame construction. Above the bricks the finish will be in clapboards and felt shingles which is rather an innovation in this Province. On the first floor there are three public rooms, and above five bedrooms all to be finished in the most up-to-date manner with all modern conveniences. Special insulation has been used to ensure the house being easily heated during the severest weather.

GLEANINGS FROM WHEATLEY RIVER AND VICINITY

Friends of Mrs. B. Akhond are glad to learn she has sufficiently recovered from her recent illness in P. E. I. Hospital to be able to return to her home again.

Miss Mabel Ling has resumed her studies in Prince of Wales College.

Miss Martha Ling had as her week end guest Miss Mildred Ferris.

The passing of Mrs. Edward Ford, daughter of the late James Green of Wheatley River, was learned with regret among her many friends. The late Mrs. Ford was a former resident, for many years, on the Glasgow Road, where she was held in high esteem.

Service at Wheatley River United Church Sunday, Aug. 30, was held in the afternoon at the usual hour, with the pastor Rev. Mr. Boothroyd, in the pulpit, who expressed his pleasure in resuming his pastoral duties after returning from a pleasant vacation. The sermon, which was listened to by a comparatively large congregation, was based on the text Heb. 12-1. The speaker frequently illustrated his point of view in word pictures filled with interest and spiritual inspiration.

Friends of Miss Mae Smith, who is at present visiting her mother, Mrs. J. Smith, are sorry to hear of her recent illness. All wish her a speedy recovery.

Visitors Find No Pessimism In Maritimes

ST. JOHN, N. B., Sept. 3.—"Visitors from Upper Canada who come to the Maritimes expecting to find pessimism are getting off on the wrong foot. Self help is the slogan of these provinces and they are making a mighty good job of it." That is the opinion of J. F. B. Livesey of Toronto, General Manager of the Canadian Press, who with his family has been driving through the Maritime Provinces. "Five or six years ago things down here were pretty bad," he went on. "The people suffered from a sense of injustice and the report of the Duncan Royal Commission not only showed they were right but evoked the sympathy and aid of the other provinces."

Two years ago, on a similar trip, one recorded a marked recovery and a new spirit in the Maritimes, whose people once again had begun to look across the seas for markets.

Since then disaster has overtaken the world, the credit of the nations is imperilled and the menace of unemployment threatens the whole structure of civilization. In Ontario we are affected to some extent by these conditions and it is natural to expect to find the Maritimes in the same slough of despond. Nothing of the kind. "You have no great booms, you have no sharp deflations, you pursue an even keel."

As compared with the world at large the Maritimes are truly prosperous. Prices indeed are low and neither farmers nor fishermen are making fortunes but the secret is they own the roof over their heads, they produce practically all their needs and when they were making money they put it away in the bank.

The New Three Star

The Imperial Oil Company, through their advertising agency, Cockfield, Brown and Company Limited, of Toronto, are once more letting the public know that the Imperial Oil Company is still in business. Cars may come and go but gasoline does the job, and although many different gasolines are on the market, the Imperial Oil Company plan on going one better. They are bringing out a new brand of gasoline called the "Three Star," a Canadian product. They are backing up their dealers with this wonderful advertising campaign through the local newspapers and will no doubt greatly stimulate their sales and put them in the front line among the motorists. Premier Gasoline has always had a tremendous run in this country and no doubt their big advertising campaign now coming in will increase the sales.

"Do you believe in telepathy?" "Well," replied Miss Cayenne, "I am convinced that thoughts are sometimes conveyed without words. For instance, when I step on a hotel piazza full of women and whose conversation suddenly ceases, I know exactly whom they have been talking about."—Washington Star.

Canada Year Book, 1931

The publication of the 1931 edition of the Canadian Year Book is announced by the General Statistics Branch of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The Year Book, which is now ready for distribution, is the official statistical annual of the resources, history, institutions and social and economic conditions of the Dominion. The present volume has been thoroughly revised throughout and includes in all its chapters the latest information available up to the date of going to press.

This 1931 issue of the Canada Year Book extends to 1148 pages and is preceded by an introduction including a statistical summary of the progress of Canada from 1871 to 1930. There are twenty-nine chapters in the main part of the volume. The first of these deals with physiography, including geography, geology, seismology, the flora of Canada, the faunas of Canada, the natural resources of Canada and the climate and meteorology. Chapter II is concerned with history and chronology and Chapter III with constitution and government, including facts relating to the recent appointments of Canadian representatives in other countries, and a special section of the League of Nations. Chapter IV, V and VI deal with the composition of the population as shown by the census, with vital statistics and with immigration respectively, these three together covering the great subject of demography. Chapter VII is a general survey of production, bringing together the data from the different fields of Canadian production in such a way as to eliminate duplication of values as between different industries. Chapters VIII to XV inclusive discuss production in the different leading industries of the country, agriculture, forestry, the fur trade, fisheries, mines and minerals, water powers, manufactures and construction. External trade is dealt with in Chapter XVI, which includes a study of the tourist trade of Canada and the balance of international payments. Chapter XVII treats of internal trade and has been improved by the inclusion of more comprehensive statistics on retail distribution. The various facilities for transportation and communication in Canada are discussed in Chapter XVIII, including steam railways, electric railways, express companies, roads and highways, motor vehicles, air navigation, canals, shipping and navigation, telegraphs, telephones and post office. Chapter XIX is concerned with labor, wages and cost of living, and Chapter XX with prices, including wholesale and retail prices of commodities, security prices, prices of services, interest rates and import and export valuations. The XXI, which also includes a discussion of national wealth and income and a section dealing with sales of Canadian bonds. Chapter XXII deals with currency and banking, loan and trust companies, Chapter XXIII with insurance and Chapter XXIV with commercial failures. Chapter XXV and XXVI take up the subject of education, and public health and benevolence respectively, while Chapter XXVII is concerned with miscellaneous administration. The sources of official statistical and other information relative to Canada are given in Chapter XXVIII, together with a list of the publications of the Dominion and provincial governments. The concluding Chapter XXIX reviews Dominion legislation of 1930, principal events of the year, Canadian books of the year and official appointments. The volume is illustrated by many maps and diagrams.

Among the more important features incorporated in the present edition are the following—a section consisting of meteorological tables and giving monthly average temperatures and precipitation throughout Canada; sections dealing with diplomatic representation abroad, and Canada and the League of Nations; more up-to-date statistics as regards Agriculture than it has been possible to publish in other editions; details of the Census of Manufactures for 1928 with summary for 1929; statistics of the operation of Old Age Pensions and unemployment relief; a special article on the development of the fine arts in Canada; lists of the more important Canadian books (English and French) published in 1930. The appendix contains preliminary figures on immigration and trade for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1931.

The Canada Year Book may be obtained free of charge from the Dominion Statistician, by Government Departments, public libraries, journalists and educationalists.

Canada Sells Much Butter

OTTAWA, Sept. 3.—A striking increase in butter exports from Canada to the United Kingdom is noted. In July, Canada sold to all countries 2,144,600 pounds of butter, having a value of $458,483, while in July 1930, only 141,000 pounds valued at $43,537 were sold. In June of this year the exports, with a value of $401,831 amounted in volume to 1,873,000 pounds.

For the 12 month period ending July 31, total exports of Canadian butter were 5,149,600 pounds, valued at $1,216,144, as against 1,217,800 pounds, valued at $478,835 for the corresponding period ending a year ago.

The current issue of the Egg and Poultry Market Review, published by the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa, after calling attention to the definite turn for the better which is now apparent in the egg market throughout the Dominion makes the following observation with respect to the present situation:

"Since early in the spring this publication has consistently pointed out the probabilities of the situation which appear now to be developing. A reduction in flocks, such as has taken place in many sections, was advised against. During recent weeks there has been an active demand for pullets, indicating that many producers are renewing faith in the egg market and are anxious to enlarge their flocks over the proportions planned for earlier in the spring."

Egg Market Prospect

Subscribers to this fund will please take notice that the Building Committee intend commencing the construction of the New Hospital in a few weeks.

It is the intention of the Building Committee, if funds are available, to finish the basement this fall, and make preparations for continuing the work in the early spring. Anticipating that all the pledges will be fully paid in the fall of 1932, as agreed, the Committee hope to have the Hospital completed and in operation at that date.

Subscribers are hereby notified that one half the amount pledged is due and payable on Sept. 1st. inst. and the Committee respectfully request and urge subscribers to pay in full the installments due on that date, so the work of building may proceed according to plan.

HOLLYWOOD

BY RONALD WAGONER United Press Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 3.—Walt Disney, who draws "Mickey Mouse" is out with the important announcement that Pluto the Pup in the comic strip, has become so popular that Pluto is to be elevated to stardom.

Perhaps this should be mentioned first—ahead of Mickey—but one of Hollywood's stars is Paul Lukas, promoted by Paramount after a long run of good performances in supporting roles.

Sonya Schulberg, daughter of B. P. Schulberg, head of Paramount on the west coast, has returned from a European trip during which she met the Prince of Wales. "The Prince of Wales is a darling and doesn't look or act like a prince," Miss Schulberg informed her young Hollywood friends.

Herbert Brenton, director recently signed by R. K. O. will have a busy season ahead of him, according to a studio announcement. Brenton was forced to go east due to a death in the family. Several stories were awaiting his approval or disfavor when he returned.

"Girl Crazy" a musical to star Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, is one of the big spots on the RKO schedule for the immediate future.

"Mr. Seymour Gordon, B.A., who has been Principal of the Margaret King School of Pugwash Junction during the past two years and who was recently on a ten days visit to Nova Scotia (after spending part of his vacation at his home at Brudenell River) will leave on Thursday next for New York, where he will enter Columbia University to study for an M.A. degree, specializing in Education. Mr. Gordon is a son of Mrs. John A. Gordon, Brudenell, and a brother of Mr. Harold R. Gordon, New York, who spent two weeks on the Island at his old home this summer.
