LIVESTOCK

MONTREAL, June 10 —(CP)— Good quality steers were firm to strong with bulls 50 to 75 cents lower today on the livestock markets. Calves were fairly steady. Sheep and hogs were also about unchanged. Trading was generally slow.

Top price paid for good quality steers was 15. Others made 14.50. Medium kinds were 11.50—12.75. Common ones were 10 up. Heifers ranged from 9 to a top of 12.50. Good quality cows were 10—11, a few going a shade higher. Common butchers were 7 up. Canners and cutters brought 6.75 down. Good butcher bulls made 10—11 with a few a little more. Bolognas were 9.75 down.

Good quality vealers were 15.50, a few making 16. Lower quality offerings were down a dollar lower, ranging from 10—14.50. Good quality lambs were 14—15 per 100 lbs. Sheep ranged from 5—9.50, with a few touching higher price levels. Some hogs fetched 21.35—22.25 for grade A. Sows were 20.25—20.50 dressed.

The photograph shows Roland Trudeau, cashier of the Banque Canadienne Nationale in Ville St. Pierre, who shot it out with a gunman and saved the bank's money. Trudeau is shown pointing to a scar on the drawer left by a bullet fired by the bandit. A Canadian Car and Foundry Company police officer was wounded in the thigh by a bullet while he entered the bank. The same gunman was said by the police to have been responsible for the holdup later of another bank where $1,200 was taken.

GEM SOCIETY RECALLS HISTORY OF LUSTROUS ZIRCON

For those too limited in ready cash to buy the diamond desired, the registered jewellers of the American Gem Society recommend a lesser-known gem—the zircon.

Where a diamond may run into hundreds of dollars, even more than a thousand, a zircon of the same size or weight may cost under $50.

In brilliancy the zircon is ranked only by the diamond for which it is often mistaken by laymen. Approaching the diamond in fire (its power to separate white or nearly white light into coloured rays) the zircon is lustrous and hard. Lacking toughness (ability to resist breakage), the zircon should be set so the girdle (setting edge) is protected—and handled with care when not worn.

The zircon has been recognized as a gem since ancient times, yet registered jewellers say less is known mineralogically about the zircon than about any important gem. The most valuable zircon, best known in America, is the deep sky blue variety from Siam—first recorded in this century, and introduced here only 25 years ago. Other varieties are a beautiful green, as yet too little known to be appreciated; colourless or white (usually, but not always, heat-treated jacinths); grayish white; jacinth or hyacinth (brownish yellow, brownish orange, or brown) and violet.

Many blue zircons turn brownish. Others never turn, some even being guaranteed not to discolour. Colourless and blue zircons are the brown Siamese variety changed by heating with or without chemicals.

The American Gem Society reveals experiments are in the offing (1) to find whether brownish tinge is colourless and blue zircons may be banished by exposure to the sun; and (2) what test will show infallibly whether the gem will retain its colour.

Zircons, should be bought with guarantees, and handled with care, not kept among other hard gems. Any blue zircon tinged even faintly with yellow is certain to turn brownish.

For colourless and blue zircons registered jewellers recommended the brilliant cut, similar to but slightly different from the diamond cut.

No one should be misled into buying a "synthetic zircon. Mostered jewellers say there is no such thing as synthetic zircon. Most commonly sold as a reproduction of zircon is blue synthetic spinel. Spinel cannot be zircon any more than a horse can be a cow. Blue synthetic sapphire also, but rarely, is sold as synthetic zircon.

In olden days it was thought wise to curry favour with one's guardian angel by wearing his gem Thus those born in September wore Tsuriel's jacinth, the brownish yellow, brownish orange, or brown variety of zircon.

As an amulet, or charm, the jacinth was said to protect any wearer, no matter when he happened to be born, against lightning wounds, injuries, plague, or pestilence though he breathed air crawling with germs; to increase wealth and wisdom, and to induce sleep.

BREAD PROBLEM IN HOUSEHOLDS

There are many ways to cheat the garbage can but one of them is to make the clean plate the vogue of the day for the whole family. Buying foods such as flour and cereals in fairly large quantities is advocated as good housekeeping practice under ordinary circumstances but for the next few months extra amounts may be released for export if these foods are bought in smaller quantities and only when actually needed.

Bread Is Problem

Bread presents a problem to many a housewife who finds that no matter how little is bought, part of the loaf gets too dry to be enjoyed as bread. A great number of delicious dishes may be prepared with really stale bread or dry bread crumbs. Usually eggs and cheese play an important role in recipes using stale bread but these foods also have to be saved. The use of more vegetables cooked or raw, in season, will prove most helpful in extending these foods.

The following recipes are suggested by the home economists of the consumer section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. The angel bread pudding is an old favorite that stands being repeated.
