freedom from study stand invitingly before us. Even with this tempting prospect awaiting us, our feelings today are not unmixed with regrets and disappointments when we realize that the happy relationship which has existed between us as teacher and pupil will also be terminated. This fact we deeply deplore, as we feel we owe so much to your untiring, painstaking efforts on our behalf.

Whatever measure of success we have attained in our work of the past year and we can truthfully say that it has been one of the most successful of our school years. We attribute to the deep interest you have taken in our work. Mere words seems a feeble expression of our gratitude. We trust that in the future years, your classes of 1931 will bring you some measure of gladness and satisfaction that you had a share in shaping our lives and moulding our characters. We trust we shall ever live up to the high ideals you have inspired us with. We would ask you to accept these small gifts as tangible evidence of our deep love and respect for you.

EDITOR WRITES OF TABLOIDIA
NEW YORK, July 22 (U.P.)—Emile Gauvreau, managing editor of the New York Mirror and one of the most important forces in the development of tabloid journalism in America, is the author of a novelized expose of tabloid methods called "Hot News" just published by the Macaulay Company.

Gauvreau a former New England newspaperman, was given the task several years ago of starting the New York Evening Graphic, a MacFadden paper, and personally developed many of the sensational phases of gathering and presenting tabloid news.

He originated the "composograph"—a method of superimposing one picture on another to illustrate an event in the news when it was impossible for the photograph of the actual event to be taken.

Gauvreau, in his book, shows how the tabloid editors "make their own news" when things are quiet in the newspaper world. He presents a vivid picture of the aggressiveness and enterprise of the editors and reporters on these papers, and of their constant, feverish fight to hold and increase circulation.

It is evident from the text of "Hot News" that Gauvreau was the anonymous author of the serial "Adventures in Tabloidia" that appeared in a weekly national magazine recently.

"Hot News" will soon be produced as a talkie by Metro-Goldwin Mayer.

RUMOR IS DENIED—"Nothing to it," said K. C. Irving, president of the Irving Oil Co., Ltd., yesterday when asked if there is any truth in the rumor that the company had sold out to the Imperial Oil Co., Ltd. "It's certainly news to me," he said. "We have not sold to the Imperial or any other company. Our gasoline sales at present are 40 percent better than when we began operation and our oil sales 114 per cent better." For several days it had been rumored that the company had sold to the Imperial Oil for an amount exceeding $1,000,000. Saint John Telegraph Journal.

FURTHER PARTICULARS. Mr. Robert McLeod, 40, said to be a native of Georgetown, P. E. I., was killed by lightning on Wednesday afternoon while working in a turnip field at Six Mile Brook, Pictou Co. The previous evening the deceased applied for work at the home of Robert McLeod, well known Six Mile Brook farmer. In view of the haying season, his application was accepted. Wednesday afternoon Mr. McLeod was engaged in shingling a roof of one of his buildings, when a severe electrical storm arose. He called to his helper to come for shelter until the storm had passed. When the stranger did not come Mr. McLeod went out to the field and was shocked to find him lying on the ground with his clothing torn to bits. A physician was summoned but life was found to be extinct. The remains were removed Wednesday night to an undertaking parlor at Pictou, pending arrangements for burial.—Truro News.
