In Memoriam

WILLIAM D. ENMAN

At Vernon River on Nov. 7, 1933, there passed peacefully to rest Mr. William D. Enman in his 77th year. Owing to infirmities during the passing years Mr. Enman lived a quiet and somwehat retired life. Enjoying the blessings and comforts of his home and experiencing the tender care and helpful sympathy of his wife, son and daughters, he was ever grateful for these crowning mercies bestowed upon him.

Owing to these kindly ministrations and helpful services of his family doctor he continued to live much longer than many who were physically stronger and robust. At length "he heard far voices out of the distance calling his feet to paths unknown." Mr. Enman knew the contents of his Bible well and derived abounding comfort from the sweet promises therein written. He had also a fine selection of some of the most choice hymns and could quote with great readiness and ease those inspirational lines of comfort and consolation. He had been a member of the former Methodist Church for many years and frequently referred to the services rendered by the ministers who had charge of the churches during the passing years. He has now gone to the higher service and his reward is sure.

The funeral services, conducted by Rev. H. Pierce on Nov. 9th, were attended by his many relatives and friends. Favorite and well known hymns were selected for the occasions. All that was mortal of our departed friend was laid to rest in the Vernon River Cemetery where during his days of activity he was wont to worship. "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord."

He leaves to mourn their loss, his widow, one son and two daughters on the homestead and Mrs. Simpson of Cavendish, P. E. Island. Another son, Robert, passed away at Moncton, N. B., on June 13, 1929.
