IN MEMORIAM

MRS. ALEXANDER MACKAY
 Many Island friends will learn with deep regret of the sudden death of Katherine MacLeod, beloved wife of Alexander MacKay, Olympia, Washington, on Thursday, Aug. 30th.
 Mrs. MacKay was born at Found's Mills, P.E.I. Mrs. MacKay was a daughter of the late Alexander and Mrs. MacLeod, where she resided until her marriage, 17 years ago, since which time she had made her home in Washington.
 During the past year, her health had not been robust, but hopes were entertained by her friends that her useful life might be spared. However, God willed otherwise, and death came suddenly following a brief attack early Thursday morning.
 The funeral service was conducted by her pastor, who spoke fittingly of how she would be missed by her husband and her relatives, as well as by the friends in her church and community where she was deeply interested, especially among the young people as a Sunday school leader. He paid a glowing tribute to her sterling character and devoted Christian life. Always so kind and cheerful, always so patient and unselfish, always thinking of others first and self last, the late Mrs. MacKay has set us a wonderful example and, in passing, has instilled in those who knew her and who mourn her loss, a desire to be more like Him whom she loved and whom she served. Her whole life was one of service for others.
 She leaves to mourn besides her sorrowing husband in Washington, a sister, Miss Laura MacLeod of Winnipeg who had just visited her for a week and who was present at the funeral with her brother George C. MacLeod of Vancouver. Other brothers of the deceased are William and Archie in Alberta, John J. of San Francisco and Ray A. of Found's Mills, P.E.I. to all of whom the Guardian extends its deepest sympathy.

P. E. Islander Is Mourned

J. M. CAMPBELL PASSES AWAY
 SCHOOL TRUSTEE AND FORMER P. E. COACH WIDELY MOURNED; LONG IN PUBLIC SERVICE.

(Victoria Daily Times)
 J. M. Campbell, School Trustee, former teacher and public school principal, to whom thousands of Victorians and ex-Victorians owe much for the part he played in their education and moral training, is dead.
 He died at 6.30 o'clock yesterday evening at his residence, 1403 Ryan Street, where he has been ill for several weeks. Death was not unexpected. His family had been remaining close to him for some time, as they knew of the hopelessness of his condition.
 His teaching career here extended over generations. In recent years he had been teaching the children of the boys and girls he had taught here in his earlier days. His life has been held up as one of inestimable service in the moulding of youth, and for the example it set of a young man's determination in surmounting handicaps.
 Four years ago Mr. Campbell ended his long career of teaching. With his time free, he devoted his experience to public affairs. In 1931 he was elected with a big vote to the School Board. At the last annual municipal voting he was elected to his second two-year term on the board.
 Was Prince Edward Islander
 His death now will force a by-election for the selection of a trustee to fill out the remaining term of his office. This will be the second such by-election this year, as Trustee J. L. Beckwith died only recently.
 Mr. Campbell was a Prince Edward Islander, born in Lower Montague, on October 10, 1869. He was in school when his parents died, mere youth to make his own way in the world. He took up carpentering, was apprenticed at the age of sixteen, became a journeyman, and made the money with which he assisted his younger brother through college.
 When he was twenty-three, he left the carpenter's bench to go back to school. He studied at his brother's country school, and in one year qualified for entrance to the University of Wales College. Three years later he was graduated as a teacher and carried off the Governor-General's medal.
 With his degree he set out in 1890 to cross the continent and seek new fields. At Portland, Ore., he married Miss Brina Lane, a Prince Edward Island girl who had gone west before him. In 1895 they came north to Victoria, where Mr. Campbell took his professional teachers' examinations. His first school was at Cadboro Bay. The building was on the present site of the eighteenth hole of the Uplands Golf Club. During recent years, when he had become a golfer, Mr. Campbell had a sentimental delight in playing over the site of his first school in this country, where he had taught children who had now become fellow members with him in the golf club.
 Ends Long Teaching Career
 In 1898, Mr. Campbell was brought into the city and placed on the staff of the North Ward School. In 1902 he was transferred to the Boy's Central School. In 1908 from the Boy's Central he was promoted to the post of principal of the North Ward, which was the second largest school in the city. He held that principality for twenty-two years.
 When he retired from teaching, with all the laurels members of his profession could shower upon him for the outstanding quality of his work, Mr. Campbell set out for his first tour abroad. He spent four months in Europe and visited family relatives in Scotland. On his return to Victoria he threw himself into active participation in public affairs. It was then that he was elected with such an emphatic vote to the School Board on his first time out for public office. With his long teaching experience and intimate understanding of the school problems from inside the school walls, his services proved to be of inestimable value to the conduct of public education. He gave his time unsparingly to the public service and with all the painstaking care that had featured his preceptorial work in the first days of his career in the affairs of the Metropolitan Church, first under the Methodist connection and later under the United Church of Canada. For years his young people of Bible class, every Harold L. Campbell, of the Metropolitan, was one of the outstanding institutions of Sunday School work in this city. He was a valued member of various church organizations and management bodies.
 Mr. Campbell also devoted to the work of the Canadian Club and the League of Nations Society. He was a regular attendant at the gatherings of both and served on special committees.
 Mrs. Campbell died eight years ago. Surviving him are two sons, Harold L. Campbell, of the Provincial Normal School teaching staff, and Claude L. Campbell, of the Victoria High School staff; an adopted daughter, Mrs. J. L. Lane of Everett, Wash., and four brothers, R. H. and Ernest, both of Victoria, Josiah Campbell of Montague, P.E.I., and H. D. Campbell of Wrangell, Alaska. There are three grandchildren.
 A funeral service will be held from Hayward's B. C. Funeral Chapel on Monday afternoon at 3.15 o'clock, proceeding to the Metropolitan church, where services will be at 3.30 o'clock. Interment will be in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.
 The subject of this sketch is a brother of Colonel R. H. Campbell, a late Superintendent of Education and a cousin of Dr. Dewar, of this City. An editorial reference by the same name, reads as follows:
 Not only education with which he had been connected for more than thirty-five years, but many other causes devoted to the betterment of Victoria's citizenship have suffered a severe loss in the death of J. M. Campbell. From the time of his arrival here until his retirement four years ago he had been continuously a member of the city's teaching staff, with the exception of a short period as a teacher in the old Cadboro Bay School. For over two decades he was principal of the North Ward School, which under his direction reached a high degree of proficiency. Notwithstanding the exacting nature of his work, Mr. Campbell found time to interest himself actively in many important public movements. He was prominently identified with the Metropolitan Methodist Church both before and after it became part of the United Church; he was often a member of the executive of the Canadian Club, and a consistent supporter of the League of Nations Society, not to speak of other worthy organizations. He was highly aptly to principle, while his broad knowledge of life and its problems, his sound judgment and kindly toleration, made him a valued counsellor whose advice was gratefully accepted in all quarters.
 In recent years Mr. Campbell was a member of the Board of School Trustees, which benefited immeasurably from his practical knowledge of school administration and the teaching profession. He was a fine

McDONALD—JAY—A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Jay, Pisiquid on Tuesday evening September 11th when their youngest daughter Lillian Hilda was united in marriage to Mr. Earle Alexander McDonald, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. H. McDonald of Lorne Valley. The bride, carrying an exquisite bouquet, looked charming in a gown of white crepe back satin and wore the conventional veil and orange blossoms and was given in marriage by her father. At 6 p. m. the bridal party entered the drawing room to the strains of Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus sweetly rendered by Mrs. Harold Jay, sister of the bride. The couple were accompanied by the bride's mother. Immediately after the ceremony and when good wishes and congratulations had been extended a sumptuous wedding supper was served. The bride and groom received many beautiful and costly presents. The groom's gift to the bride was a lovely set of earrings. During the evening a large old time charivari was tendered the bride and groom. The evening was pleasantly passed with music and singing. Ice cream and cake was served to the guests. The happy couple left for their home in Lorne Valley where a large number greeted them with another charivari and the following day went on a wedding tour through the western part of the province, the bride travelling in brown. Prior to her marriage the bride was tendered a miscellaneous shower at her home. The parcels were opened by Miss Eleanor Douglas and the verses read by Miss Gladys Birt. The many beautiful presents shown the esteem in which both bride and groom are held. The bride thanked them in a few well chosen words.

SHIP N. S. APPLES TO ENGLISH MARKET

HALIFAX, Sept. 23.—(By The Canadian Press)—A test shipment of 1,700 barrels of Annapolis Valley apples was loaded aboard the Cunard White Star Line Carlinia today and will be subjected to varying conditions of temperature and ventilation during the voyage to England.
