

Poland's Turbulent Capital

A street scene in Warsaw, capital of Poland, which has been captured by the rebels under Marshal Pilsudski, who holds as prisoner some of the ministers of the ousted government, but has permitted the deposed President to retire to the Presidential summer palace. About 200 are reported to have been killed in the street fighting.

A Strike Picture From England

A huge crowd of strikers and strike sympathizers are here shown watching a bus which they disabled towed away. The photograph was taken in St. George's Road, Soutwark, S. E.

Policy of the Big Stick in Ireland

"Mucha's" advice to the Polish Foreign Minister was disregarded by that official but was heeded by Pilsudski, successful leader of the revolt, who is proclaiming himself dictator. The advice was: "Throw away that useless little cane, and support yourself with the big stick as Mussolini does in Italy."

—FACTORY REPAIRS.— Some repairs are being made to the Grand River cheese factory including the erection of a new steel whey tank. It is expected to begin manufacturing cheese about the middle of the month—a date somewhat later than usual due to the unusual season. The factory will be under the management of Mr. Edward J. Larkin, Bayside, who will have as assistant, Mr. John A. McLellan, Arlington.—N.

—HEAVY LOSS.—Mr. James A. McIntyre, Bayside, had the misfortune of losing a valuable silver fox last week. The animal bit off a couple of loops of wire and thus made an aperture through which he made his escape. Mr. McIntyre at once got in touch with Mr. Harold Brown, Port Hill, whose collie dog Jackie has gained quite a reputation as a fox catcher. After hunting all day they came upon their quarry about dusk. An exciting chase followed, during which Jackie showed his superior speed and was soon upon the fox. Reynolds however had lost none of his cunning ways during his long captivity and in the struggle that ensued he proved that, when cornered, agility is of greater service than fleetness, and deftly dodging his captor he dashed into the underbrush and was soon lost from sight. Jackie, somewhat abashed, hopes that he may yet have an opportunity of retrieving his lost reputation.—N.

Requested To Invoke Anti-Dumping Clause

OTTAWA, June 8.—The Government was asked today to invoke the anti-dumping regulations against two widely different commodities—strawberries and second hand pianos. C. H. Dickle (Conservative, Nanaimo), complained that the surplus from Missouri's bumper crop of strawberries is being marketed in Western Canada and that British Columbia's berries are under unfair competition. Gen. A. E. Ross (Conservative, Kingston), said that second-hand pianos were being advertised in Canada by United States firms at from $10 to $50 each. Was not this a matter for the anti-dumping clause? Both questioners were told that the Minister of Customs, who was not present in the House, was investigating and would report on it. Hon. W. R. Motherwell, referring to the strawberries, specified that if United States berries were being sold in Canada at a price below that of the fair market value in the country of origin, it would be a matter for immediate action by the Customs Department.
