Best In History Of Association

(From Halifax Herald)
Chief W. A. Skidd, of Chatham N. B. was elected president of the Maritime Fire Chiefs Association at their convention in New Glasgow last Thursday afternoon. Chief Loyed Weatherbee of New Waterford, Chief John J. Hall, New Devon N. B., and Chief J. M. Churchill of Halifax, were elected vice presidents. A new secretary treasurer was elected in the person of G. T. Taylor, of the Gutta Percha Rubber Company, Halifax. Mr. Taylor is much interested in the work of the association. He replaces ex-Chief A. S. Stalker, of Pictou. H. C. Low of the Northern Electric Company, Halifax, was appointed assistant secretary. Chief H. M. Mersereau, Sydney, Chief Joseph Stewart, New Glasgow, and Chief H. C. Rutter, of Fredericton were added to the executive.

The convention closed its proceedings Thursday afternoon with a motor drive to a number of places throughout the county.

Sessions were held both morning and afternoon and the present assembly was generally voted the best in history of the association, both from the viewpoint of attendance and interest. Everything was done to make the visit of the Chief as pleasant as possible.

At the morning session Fire Marshal Beer, of Charlottetown, was present and gave an address on fire prevention and the situation in his province. It was a very interesting talk and was appreciated by the members.

Fire Marshal Rudland, of Halifax, was unable to be present, but forwarded a paper to Chief Mersereau, of Sydney, which was read by the latter.

It covered the work of the fire marshal's office during theyear and was a very interesting document. The absence of the fire marshal was greatly regretted.

The balance of the morning was devoted to a round-table conference. Many important matters were dealt with by the fire chiefs and they had an opportunity to solve some of their problems. One part of the discussion centered around the best method of extinguishing garage fires.

The question of standardizing threads on couplings was also the subject of a live debate, and an effort is being made along this line, so that there will be better co-operation among the various towns.

The convention took the stand that all tournaments held by firemen hereafter, at least so far as members of the association are concerned, must be under the sanction of the executive, and fire brigades wishing to hold local tournaments must secure permission from either the president or secretary. An effort will be made to revive the big Maritime tournaments which were so successfully conducted in pre-war days, but have dropped somewhat in importance of late years.

The next meeting of the association will probably be held in Halifax on June 18 or 19, 1924.

Among those attending the convention were Chief Michael Hardy, Dominion 24, Glace Bay; M. Macadam, Aberdeen; Chief N. B. Stewart, Truro; Chief W. R. Brown, Canadian Car and Foundry, Amherst; Chief Alex Flynn, Reserve, C. B.; Chief M. Wilton, British Empire Steel, Glace Bay; Joseph Moore, Drummond, McColl and Co., New Glasgow; Mr. E. H. Beer, fire marshal, Charlottetown; Peter MacDonald, Reserve; Fred Smith, New Waterford; Melvin Larsen, Dominion No. 12; H. C. Low, Halifax; Chief J. McInnis, Dominion No. 11.

Arsenic in Food Ship

LONDON, June 26—Two disquieting instances of how arsenic packed in faulty containers may find its way into food are described in a report by Dr. Willoughby, Medical Officer of health for the Port of London.

"A ship from Operto," says Dr. Willoughby, "had aboard about 50 bags of shelled almonds. On the same deck were 22 cases of white arsenic."

"When examined by the inspector two of these cases of arsenic were standing on end with their heads open, and one was leaking at its blige on to the deck. "Two of the bags of almonds, which had become displaced showed arsenic on their surfaces. Minute quantities of arsenic were found on almonds taken from one of the bags."

In the second case described by Dr. Willoughby, a ship had landed 160 cases of arsenic acid at the King George v. Dock.

The cases containing the arsenic acid were composed of old, dry wood, and from some of them the poison was leaking on to the floor of the shed. The possibility that some of it might find its way into any food handled in the same shed cannot be overlooked."

Child Emigration to Canada

LONDON, June 26—Under the provisions of the Empire Settlement Act, the British Government and the Government of the Dominion of Canada have jointly agreed upon a scheme for granting financial assistance towards the cost of transportation to Canada of 4,000 boys or girls over eight years of age at the date of sailing and who had not reached their fifteenth birthday on April 1st, 1923 and for 900 boys who had not reached their seventeenth birthday on the same date.

The new scheme, like the voluntary work that has been done for years past, will be conducted in conjunction with approved emigration societies like Barnardo's the Waifs and Strays Society, and others, who not only conduct children overseas, but also maintain there fully-equipped receiving homes or headquarters, whence the children are closely supervised and befriended until able to take care of themselves.

Special care will be taken that the children will be made to feel that in these receiving homes they have a genuine substitute for the home they have left behind them that they may return if it should occasion offer, and that they may always apply to it for help and counsel. No child will be cut adrift. On the contrary, his interest—even to the regulation of his wages and the investment of his savings—will be carefully safeguarded.

WHY HE WAS SAD.

A lynching party had completed its work and was on the way home. The leader seemed lost in an uncommonly reflective, even gloomy, mood. The others inquired into this.

"Well, boys," he replied, "I believe we've made a mistake."

"Mistake? What do you mean? Wasn't he the right one? Didn't he do it?"

"Yes, sir," went on the captain, practically disregarding the questions. "We was wrong," the thing went off in a big hurry, and we can't always tell just at the time just what is best to be done. But the way I feel about it now is that a mistake has been made. We hadn't ought to have hung that man, he was an extra bad one. We'd ought to have burned him alive."

IT IS A SALT FARM

Passing through that portion of California known as the "Salton" one sees stretched out below him long rows of what appear to be haystacks of a curious design. These constitute a part of what is called the "salt farm," and the haystacks are in reality great cones of salt. Upon investigation one will find that the basin of land into which he is gazing is between 200 and 300 feet below the level of the sea and that something like a thousand acres of this land are covered with a vast deposit of salt. Each year there are removed more than 2,000 tons of salt. The salt is first plowed into ridges, eventually going to the drying house. From this it proceeds to the crushing mill.

It is an easy matter to mistake this area for a field of snow, because these are the only men who cause it is almost pure white, and one did not know that snow does not fall in that quarter. The supply of salt is being constantly renewed by deposits from the waters eventually going to the drying house. From this it proceeds to the crushing mill. To remove the salt the services of Indian workmen are utilized, because these are the only men who can withstand the terrific heat and the glare of the June sun, for it is not fall in that quarter. The supply of salt is being constantly renewed by deposits from the waters es 150 degrees.
