Too Late To Classify

Remarkable changes in the appearance of these boys is evident when they have been in the industrial school some time. As an example of the tribute of non-Christians to the work of the mission the speaker cited a remark of a Mohammedan who, commenting on a young man of the criminal tribe, who had graduated from the school, said "the mission has made a man of him." Rev. Mr. Palmer replied, saying that so far as the change had been brought about in his life it was due to the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ.

In conclusion Rev. Mr. Palmer said that all have the privilege of helping in the missionary work. The ones at home be their support

REV. MR. PALMER TELLS OF WORK IN INDIA

The following is a summary of Rev. C. N. Palmer's sermon delivered at St. Peter's Cathedral last evening. Rev. Mr. Palmer, who spent five years in India, in his sermon told of the work among the lepers and criminal tribes. The leper compound, said the speaker, is beautifully situated on a grassy ridge covered by pine trees about two miles from Palampur, which is the chief station of the mission: It has accommodation for 60 patients who live in ten huts. There are approximately six Christians the remainder being non-Christians. They have a chapel where regular service is held and Christian instruction given and, although the attendance is voluntary, nearly all non-Christians attend. If one visits there one is impressed particularly by the spirit of cheerfulness, even among those who are blind and almost helpless there is a remarkably cheerful spirit.

They carry on as activities gardening, several having individual gardens in which they grow vegetables, and the remainder of them learn tailoring. Their houses are kept clean and they are very keen on decorating them. They take part in physical drill instructed by a leper who is a Gurka pensioner. Regular treatment is given the lepers with a particular kind of oil. Some people, Rev. Mr. Palmer said, have been under the impression that leprosy cannot be cured, but actually it treated with injections of this oil, and under good living conditions, a cure can be brought about if the disease is reached in the early stages. In the first or even in a more advanced stage lepers may be highly infectious but some of them reach "burnt out" stage, when, though they may have lost fingers or toes, the disease has left them and they are not infectious. In the leper compound there is an up to date laboratory, in which experimental work is carried on.

Many Lepers

In a recent survey of the Kangra district, a returned missionary said 1,000 lepers were found in a total population of 400,000. Our Lord, the speaker went on to state, gave us the example of compassion towards lepers when he healed the ten who came to Him. Let us pray, said Rev. Mr. Palmer, for God's guidance in future research and let us pray that the light of the gospel will banish superstition which has long impeded leprosy treatment.

Criminal Tribes

The speaker explained that the criminal tribes were groups of wandering lawless people in various parts of India who were recognized by neither Hindus nor Mohammedans. Some years ago they were rounded up and put in settlements under government supervision, one such settlement being located two miles from Palampur. These people were kept there for two years, and during that time they were visited, taught, and supervised by teachers from the missions. More important than that their boys and more recently the girls, were taken away and put in hostels under Christian supervision.

Boys were trained in the mission industrial school where they learned tailoring, carpentry, and shoemaking. Several of them have graduated and now carry on their trade in the villages.

In the school they have a good Scout troop and a cricket team. Last year in the interscholastic tournament they won the cricket cup. More recently the girls were also taken for Christian education to a hostel. The parents, the speaker said, have been placed with various landowners to work for them as labourers. Missionaries visit them regularly, and give them Christian teaching and encourage them in improvement of their living habits. We try, said the speaker, to get to know their habits and customs, such as that of making marriages for their children involving the sums of money. In regard to the work of the mission, we have much need of shepherding as they have many temptations to face.

Announcement was made, by Mr. Lorne MacKay, of the Song Service Committee, that the young people will sing at the service in Zion Church on next Sunday evening, when they will have as guest speakers, Mr. Beverly Oulton and Rev. Mr. Grant, both prominent S. C. M. men.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES

HOLY REDEEMER CHURCH

Yesterday being the second Sunday of the month, was Holy Name Sunday at the Church of the Most Holy Redeemer, and a large number of members received Holy Communion in a body at the 7.30 Mass. Mass was also celebrated at 9 o'clock, and High Mass was celebrated at 10.30 by Rev. Father Johnston, the singing being rendered by the Mixed Choir. Rev. Father Cloran, C.S.S.R., preached eloquent and practical sermons at all the Masses, dealing with the importance and necessity of making good resolutions and keeping them.

CENTRAL CHRISTIAN CHURCH

At the morning service Mrs. Cyril MacGregor and Mrs. Vernon Wood were heard in a fine duet, "Breathe On Me Breath of God." The theme of the morning sermon was "The Certainties of the Christian Life," based on the words of St. Paul: "I know whom I have believed and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto Him against that day."

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL

The Rev. Charles N. Palmer officiated at the three services in St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday. At the 11 o'clock Choral celebration of the Holy Eucharist, Mr. Palmer chose as his text the 35th verse of the 6th chapter of Saint John and during this sermon spoke of several interesting scenes of those who received the Bread of Life in the Holy Eucharist in India. Before the sermon the preacher thanked the members of the congregation for the interest they had taken in missions and for the altar hangings and other gifts sent to the mission.

Evening service was held at the 22nd verse of the seventh chapter of St. Luke. The preacher gave a very interesting account of the educational and Evangelistic work among the lepers and criminal tribes at Kangra, India.

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH

"O Sing unto the Lord, a new song" Psalm 76-1. Rev. Hugh Miller at the morning worship dealt with the value and place of praise. The text is over, the remnant have returned, "The break into song. When God's people come together they sing praises. Worship and praise have always been wedded. New experiences demand a new song. Today's mercies must have a plan in our praise. We change the content of our song by adding the fresh mercies of God. We may also change the setting or the key of our old songs. New experiences demand new expressions, a new song. Worship and praise must not become monotonous or mechanical but spiritual. Remember praise is rendered to God and should be in the major key. We may sing a new song by improving the harmony of our hearts to mar the acceptability of our worship by God. We should sing a new song of conviction. We must have a greater vibrant, more radiant faith. It is not sufficient to sing of the faith of our Fathers. We must sing of our own faith.

THE BAPTIST CHURCH

The Rev. A. C. Vincent, D.D., continuing a series of sermons on the Lord's Prayer, spoke yesterday on the words "Our daily bread." As this great prayer opens we walk in the high places of the greatness and glory of God. As it proceeds it is observed that our God is one who has regard not only for the spiritual, but the material needs of man. This is a petition for all men. This is a petition that clearly understood, and sincerely offered carries in itself more than a suggestion of the way toward the solution of those differences and difficulties that now beset mankind. The Rev. A. J. Vincent, father of Dr. Vincent, was the speaker at the evening service, taking as his theme "The Way of Peace." The large congregation in attendance at this service listened with deep interest to this impressive sermon. Mrs. G. Elliott Full directed the music of the day.

ST. DUNSTAN'S BASILICA

Yesterday, the fifth Sunday after Epiphany was observed as Holy Name Sunday at St. Dunstan's Basilica. All Masses were at the usual hours; the Children's Mass being celebrated at 8 o'clock in the lower church, whilst at the same hour in the upper church the Rev. Bishop O'Sullivan celebrated the Mass of the Society which was largely attended by Holy Name members; practically all receiving Holy Communion in a body. During Mass congregational singing took place in the direction of the Spiritual Director, Father Murray, and choir director, Mr. W. J. Brown. His Excellency preached a most forceful and appropriate sermon on the words from the Epistle of St. Paul to the Colossians, (Chap. 3, 12-17) " whatsoever ye do in word or in deed do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by Him."

At 2 o'clock Sunday School classes were held with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament at 3 o'clock. In the evening at 7 o'clock Holy Hour took the place of Vespers. Devotions to the Real Presence of Jesus in the Blessed Sacrament conducted by Rev. Louis Dougan, who also gave Benediction. The Corpus Christi Choir under direction of Mr. W. J. Brown with Miss Lucy Blanchard soloist rendered the singing. Miss Bessie Blanchard was organist.

The Ship Of State

In the Charlottetown Guardian of the fourth, We see our Post of Tryon North. We hear him speak with loudest praise Of Premier Bennett and his ways. Now Mr. Thomas makes this confession That we have had a big depression. But what has caused it he don't tell Perhaps it is against his will. It seems he's viewed the situation Of our country and our nation But tariffs high he failed to see Which are affecting you and me.

High tariffs don't affect him much, His occupation is a' such. He has lumber to buy and sleighs to sell, A carpenter is brother well. He thinks that Bennett is doing right In making farmers strive and fight To keep high taxes and survive With potatoes selling at twice five. Now farmers have had it pretty tough To get a market for their stuff And while their best to keep afloat While Bennett's commanding this sinking boat.

The day of voting will come to all As it will before next fall, Elect the Grts and let us say The Tory party has had its day. Mackenzie King will reign again And Mr. Bennett will say Amen. Prosperity will come at last For a better man is before the mast. —S. Clark, Tryon.

EDITOR'S NOTE When fine was the weather and easy the trip, A fo'c'sle hand could run the ship; But in stormy weather, to escape ship-wreck The Captain himself must keep the deck.

Five long years now has the Captain stood, Steering the ship through storm and flood. He knows his course: and the passengers know They can rest secure in their bunks below.

And they say: "Thank God for the Captain's skill, For his dauntless courage, and iron will; The storm may bluster, the tempest may snort, But he'll bring us safe to our destined port!"

Sudden Death Of Mr. William Edward Smith

One of Charlottetown's well known citizens passed away yesterday in the person of Mr. William Edward Smith of Upper Queen Street. Mr. Smith got up as usual yesterday morning and after breakfast retired to his room. When one of the family went to call him for dinner it was found that he had passed away in his sleep. The late Mr. Smith was born at Bungalow Road in 1852 and when a young man came to Charlottetown where he learned the trade of tin-smith. For many years he was connected with the Trainor plumbing firm from which he retired several years ago. The late Mr. Smith was an uncle of Franklin E. Smith, now of England, whose invention threatening to revolutionize the cotton industry was referred to in the Guardian lately. Mr. Smith was a life long member of St. Peter's Anglican Church. Besides a host of friends Mr. Smith leaves to mourn his passing his sorrowing widow, one Christina MacDonald, formerly of Glen William, and three sons and two daughters, Mrs. L. J. Moore and Mrs. John MacMillan, both of Toronto, and Frederick, William E., and Walter A., all of Charlottetown. He is survived also by two sisters, Mrs. Theo. Chappell, Charlottetown, and Mrs. George Williams Taunton, Mass.

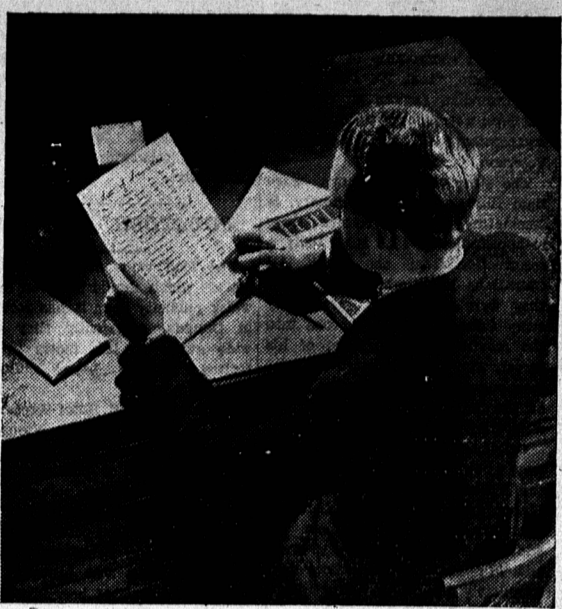

DESTRUCTIVE PEST BAGGED

Recently Hector McLeod, Fairview, brought to the office of J. D. Jenkins, Charlottetown, the body of a large Arctic owl shot by him a few days previously at Fairview. These white visitors from the far north play havoc with our local game birds and animals during their winter sojourn with us. In the two weeks that Mr. McLeod was trying to shoot this white owl, he has personal knowledge of 11 Hungarian partridge that it had killed and eaten. These birds do considerable hunting in the daytime. Last winter an observant sportsman was an eye witness to the method used by these birds to secure an Hungarian partridge dinner to the close vicinity of a covey huddled in the snow, he alighted and then began a cautious sidling approach. The covey allowed the owl to come within approximately 10 feet before making wing and at this moment the owl, with apparent ease pursued and struck one of the luckless covey down. No opportunity was afforded for a shot, and in the ensuing weeks the original covey of 15 birds was reduced to 4. At this stage of the drama the survivors were shot in the vicinity and were seen no more. The coveys of "Huns" last winter, especially during the MONTREAL, Feb. 10.—With the recent return from abroad of Sir Newton Moore, President of the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, financial circles here are anticipating announcement soon of the capital reorganization of the company. On the Montreal Stock Exchange on Saturday the preferred stock of Dominion Coal Company, a subsidiary, advanced three points to a new high at 132. It is noted that the price bid for the stock at the close of the day was also helped by the agreement of the company's miners in Cape Breton on a new scale of wages. latter part, were in a very weakened condition, which may account for the ease with which this particular Arctic Owl secured its prey. Apparently from Mr. McLeod's observations they can secure a partridge dinner whenever the spirit moves them. Sportsmen are requested to shoot whenever possible. Aside from the bounty of $1.00 paid for each they make a splendid ornament when mounted, and at the same time our feathered game is benefited greatly.

Major Tests Face French Government

(C. F. By Guardian's Special Wire) PARIS, Feb. 10.—Easing, temporarily at any rate of the political situation following Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin's narrow victory in the Chamber of Deputies last week was noticeable today. The fact that no vote of confidence was posted following the slim margin of votes the administration controlled was claimed to mean there has been no proof of weakness of the present ministry, while Premier Flandin, it was said, intervened personally in crushing market rumors following the vote, when the bourse weakened. The Government, however, despite its active record to date, has yet to face its major tests. The crux of the situation following Thursday's vote was to be found in the fear the old party warfare will be revived. The tactic which Gaston Doumergue demanded when he came out of retirement to head the Government a year has been more or less maintained so far.

Death Of Mr. J.C. Woodside, Summerside

Friends throughout the Province will regret to learn of the passing of Mr. J. C. Woodside about noon on Sunday at the home of his sister, Mrs. William Minto, Summerside. Mr. Woodside was 51 years of age and was formerly of Margate, P. E. I., son of the late William Woodside of that place. He had resided with his sister since last May but previous to that had lived in Tryon and Margate. Mr. Woodside was out and about as usual on Tuesday of last week but took a severe chill on Wednesday and in spite of tender nursing and medical care he grew gradually worse until the end. Mr. Woodside was a very clever cabinet maker and wood carver and only last year when 90 years of age he designed and completed a beautiful table the top of which had 1100 pieces of wood in it and was a lovely mosaic design. This winter Mr. Woodside had started on a table of the same design only twice as large which he was never destined to finish. He was of a quiet unassuming character but had many friends. There are left to mourn, his sister, Mrs. Minto and one brother, Moses Woodside of Tryon, to whom sympathy is extended. The deceased was twice married but had no family. The funeral will take place on Tuesday with a short service at the home of Mrs. Minto at 12:45 p. m., followed by a service in the United Church at Margate. Interment will be in the family plot in the Cemetery adjoining the church. The funeral arrangements are in charge of Keith Compton.

SUCCESSFULLY DEFENDS LAURELS

(C. F. By Guardian's Special Wire) VIENNA, Feb. 10.—The world figure-skating crown rests on the tresses of Sonja Henie for the ninth consecutive year. The comely Norwegian girl of 22 defended her laurels in the tourney which ended here Saturday with a masterful exhibition of difficult figures. Miss Cecilia Colledge of England gave the champion a close run until she lost her balance during the execution of a figure and fell to the ice.
