CANADIANS AWARDED THE MILITARY CROSS

LONDON, Nov. 30.—The following has been gazetted for the Military Cross (Infantry men, except when otherwise stated): Lieut. Eric Reginald Dennis, rescued buried men under intense fire and later set a splendid example under very trying conditions; Lieut. James Ford, Mounted Rifles, led patrol which gained most valuable information, and during an attack he led a party and personally accounted for several of the enemy, and later, although severely wounded, remained at his post; Lieut. Herbert Hammond Renwick Artillery, obtained observation and directed fire under very trying conditions with great courage and skill; Lieut. Edward Burton, partly assumed command of the front line and maintained the position at the very critical time and rendered most valuable services; Lieut. William Jeffrey Holliday, with a small party took the enemy position and held it against three attacks, and later, although wounded continued on duty 42 hours; Lieut. William Elgen Games, constructed an advanced strong post under very heavy fire, and although wounded continued working; Lieut. Hallgerud Jonsson, led working parties with great courage and skill and set a splendid example.

Capt. William Howard Keelick, led a company under very heavy fire and showed great courage and initiative, later rendering most valuable services, establishing a flank of detached posts; Rev. William Hennrich, chaplain, tended and dressed wounded continuously for three days under very heavy fire; Capt. John Hampton Lamy, led men with courage and initiative and reorganized the front line later. Although wounded he remained at his post; Lieut. Lambert Dumont Laviolette carried out valuable reconnaissance under very heavy fire, and later led a company with great courage and initiative; Lieut. Honore Edouard Legare led a company with great courage, setting a splendid example, though he was severely wounded; Lieut. Arthur Louis Levin, carried out valuable reconnaissance under heavy fire and later guided an attacking company with great skill; Major John Douglas MacPherson, handled a company under heavy fire with great courage and determination and later assumed command of a battalion, setting a splendid example.

Capt. Kenneth Arnold Mahaffy led his men under intense fire with great courage and determination; Lieut. John Alexander McDonald led a company with great courage and determination, twice driving the enemy out of their trenches; Captain Harold Wigmore, of McGill Medical, tended and dressed wounded under very heavy fire; Lieut. William Watt McLellan, although wounded, assumed command and led a company with great courage, with one man he captured an enemy machine gun, which he brought into action and later rescued a wounded man under intense fire.

GUNS HOLD SWAY ON FRONT FROM VERDUN TO SEA.

LONDON, Nov. 29.—There has been little but artillery bombardments on the western front, but these have been very heavy at some points. The usual exchanges took place on the Douaumont and Vaux fronts. The French carried out a successful air raid of the German aviation fields at Guizancourt and Matigny. The Belgians are engaged in violent bombardments at Dixmude and other points in the southwestern corner of their country. The British guns have been very active in the region of La Bassée Canal. The artillery dispersed enemy infantry west of Pusieux and heavily bombarded many other positions, the aircraft effectively cooperating. Two machines were lost. The Germans claim to have repulsed a French attack north of St. Pierre Vaast Wood, but France makes no mention of such an attack.

"You have been accused of being a prevaricator."
"Well," replied Senator Sorghum, "that sounds hopeful. The fact that they accuse me of delicate word-indeed that somebody is afraid of me."

Nervous Breakdown

Stamford, Conn., Nurse Tells How She Found Health

Stamford, Conn.—"I am a nurse and suffered from a nervous breakdown. I had no appetite and could not sleep at night, and nothing seemed to help me. By chance I heard of Vinol, and after taking the first bottle I noticed an improvement, and four bottles made me well and strong, it gave me a hearty appetite, so I can sleep soundly night or day. I consider Vinol a wonderful tonic." Edith R. Forbes, Stamford, Conn.

The reason Vinol is so successful in overcoming such conditions is because it is a constitutional remedy and goes to the seat of the trouble. It is the greatest strength creator we know—due to the beef and cod liver peptonates iron and manganese peptonates and glycerophosphates which it contains, all dissolved in a pure medicinal wine. We have seen so many wonderful recoveries like this right here in Charlottetown, caused by Vinol, that we feel perfectly safe in offering to return money in every such case where Vinol fails to benefit.

"THANK GOD FOR ENGLAND!" WRITES ISLANDER IN U.S. PAPER

The following was clipped from the Lynn, Mass., Telegram of recent date: Mr. Stewart referred to is a native of Belle River, P. E. Island, who doubtless would at this time be fighting in defence of the Empire and the liberty of the nations if it were not for the fact that he is incorporated for service:—

Believing, as we do, that a newspaper is a forum where those who honestly differ with us in the expression of opinions are entitled to the same consideration that we give ourselves, the following communication from Allan A. Stewart, 20 1/2 Stewart Street, is gladly printed. He says:—

"Having read your editorial page for some time, I was with interest and generally with intellectual advantage. I take the liberty of pointing out a few slight misapprehensions in regard to British affairs, but erroneously conceived, editorial of July 26.

You seem to forget that, primarily England's duty toward the Entente Powers in case of war was to guard the sea interests while France and Russia were to assume charge of the military forces. It is well within the mark to assert that had France and Russia done their share as efficiently as Britain has done hers, the war would have been done long ago.

"Let me quote from you: 'The haranguing and threatening and cajoling of the British sergeants availed nothing and made necessary the Lord Derby Conscription Act.' This is unworthy of the Telegram. For four millions of patriotic Englishmen had rallied to their country's call before this act was put in operation. No other nation has ever accomplished such a feat; no other nation but England could show such patriotism.

"It becomes a nation which has boasted so much of her humanity, not to have some thought and consideration for those nations who are practically fighting her battles. Yes, and who is reaping the harvest from this slaughter? You say 'What Canadians will never forget the horrors of Neuve Chapelle.' I am a Canadian, and let me say that Canada's faith in the mother country was never stronger than it is today and every Canadian knows that half of the Canadians killed at Neuve Chapelle were born in the British Isles.

"This mawkish sentimentality, Irish traitors, are merely nauseating. Consider if you can for a moment, the hundred of lives—many of the civilians and some of them women—sacrificed in Dublin because of the insane vanity of the executed rebels. What do traitors expect, pray, as the reward of treacherous and unsuccessful treason against the state, plotting and carried out moreover, in a time of foreign war? Bouquets and fetes? The English government, alas, decided otherwise and rightly so.

Never has the magnificent race of England appeared more glorious than in this present struggle. Without fear or anger, but with the true British love of fair play and justice England huris herself into the breach to stem the tide of violence and oppression as she did in 1688 and in 1815. Aristocrat and laborer, an entire nation in arms, the psychic force of a people marching with a common hope and a faith metamorphosed into common flesh and energy, unafraid even in the red hell of battle.

"America contrasts strangely with the blood-red fields of Flanders and are dying by thousands, that Americans may live, and under-serve the in the final heritage of happiness, which, in the end, they will bequeath to the world.

"Thank God for England!"

INTERESTING LETTER FROM ENGLAND

Mr. Percy Boyce, City has received the following letter from his brother, Sergeant H. Boyce of the 272nd Siege Battery (formerly No. 5) now at Witley, England:—

Eweshot, Eng

Dear Brother:—

Well Percy, it is quite a while since I wrote you, and its a whole lot longer since I heard from you. This country as I have been moving quite a lot of late. I hope you're well for myself I am in the pink of condition. I haven't had any word except one letter from Charlottetown and some from Boston to date but I guess they are on the way somewhere. I have been promoted since coming across. "Chin bars now—Sergeant and I like it fine too. I wrote you when I was at Witley, I hope you got it all right. I sent you a card from London when I was there on furlough. I was there for six days and had one fine time. London is some city all right. It is some going around at night all in darkness, but strange to say things go on just the same as if nothing was wrong at all. I visited the places of interest and they certainly do give the Canadians a good time too. Was to service at Westminster Abbey on Sunday morning also all through with a guide— "High Brows" also all through the Houses of Parliament, and St. Paul's. Was in the whispering Tower, you might hear them speak about, it's wonderful. Oh, yes I stood on the grave of Lord Roberts. Also the Tower of London, was all through that. It is where all the old executioners used to take place. Saw the Crown Jewels of the present King, was all around Buckingham Palace of course not inside, and the Royal Stables all through them. Some class to us, and the last meal I had in London was at Sir Ian Hamilton's with Lady Hamilton, also. Say but he is an intelligent man. So you see we were travelling in some class in London. The whole Battery was on furlough at the same time. Art and I were together of course there was a lot of the boys at the same place so it was great company.

Now I must tell you about our luck, there's only one section here the rest are in Brabant quarantined for measles only a few of the boys took them but it was funny, its getting better now, but for a while there were fellows in Hospitals all over England. They come strolling in to barracks every day from elsewhere, but nothing serious. We have very good quarters in barracks, an English camp only three battalions of Canadians here the rest are all conscripts from all over. Well Percy old boy I hope to get a letter from you one of those days. Well, I must close for this time. Be sure and write often as I am anxious to get the news. I hope you are well and having a good time. Give my regards to all the old folks about the City. This is an awful country for rain. It can rain any time and it does too. I don't know yet what the address is here so you can send to the Army P. O. As you will notice our No. has been changed. Will say good bye. As ever

Your Loving Brother

SANTA CLAUSE IN UP-TO-DATE TANK COMES TO TOWN

MONTREAL, Nov. 27.—Santa Claus arrived Saturday, and it was indeed an ideal day for his coming. For four miles the streets were lined on both sides with children and their parents. Owing to the manner in which Santa Claus came, the idea appealed not only to the younger people, but to the older as well.

At the corner of Laurier avenue and St. Urbain street, the crowd had assembled for an hour previous to his coming, and when he appeared in the distance, the mounted police had great difficulty in making a passage way to allow the procession to get through.

At this point bands from Kitchener's Own and the Irish Rangers were waiting to follow in the procession.

The tank he came in was indeed one. It measured thirty-five feet in length and had great difficulty getting under some of the lower branches of the trees on Boulevard St. Joseph. It had two large traction wheels, eight feet in diameter and numerous guns out of the sides and top. On top of the turret sat Santa himself, bowing to the children, and carrying with him the Union Jack.

It took some time to get through the crowd at St. Urbain and Laurier, but the procession started eventually with quite a throng of children following, carrying Goodwin's pennants.

The route was well lined with people, and after passing St. Hubert and Sherbrooke streets, some thirty or forty automobiles filled with children, joined in. Arriving at the store at half past five, Santa Claus immediately proceeded to climb the large chimney, belonging to the Goodwin power plant, in the rear of their store.

It was pitch dark, and thousands of people, who stood in the streets for blocks around, could see nothing until the searchlight was thrown on the chimney. From Phillips Square it was a spectacular sight, as Santa climbed with the searchlight following him to the top.

3rd. ANNOUNCEMENT
A TRIP BY THE ROYAL MAIL

A trip by the "Royal Mail" from Halifax to Demerara and return to St. John occupies 40 days.

On the outward voyage you have a day at Bermuda, Barbadoes and Trinidad, and you have a part of a day, at Antigua, Dominica, Monserrat, St. Lucia, St. Vincent, and Grenada. At Demerara the ship stays for four days, and on the homeward voyage you have at least as much time at each of the places mentioned as you had on the outward voyage. Please observe that there is never a day for over half the trip when you will not be on shore a portion of the time. Is there any sea voyage in the world that is just like this one? It is hard to believe that there is. Certainly there is none so enjoyable at the price. Ask your railway ticket agent for a booklet or send us your address and one will be forwarded.
